Les relations entre la France et la peninsule indochinoise aux XVIIe et XVIIIe siècles / Frederic Mantienne. – 1998. 2 vol., 460 p., 566 ref. – Paris, Ecole Pratique des Hautes Etudes, Thèse de doctorat, Sciences historiques et philologiques, 1998. – Num. national de thèse: 1998 PHE4028
 Abstract: Des courants politiques, religieux et commerciaux entraînent la France vers l'Asie tardivement, dans le dernier tiers du XVIIe siècle. Les implantations politiques (Siam) et commerciales (Siam, Tonkin) françaises dans la péninsule indochinoise sont provoquées par les missionnaires, et seront des échecs. Au XVIIIe siècle, des raisons essentiellement stratégiques (rivalité avec l'Angleterre) poussent les Français à s'intéresser à la Birmanie et à la Cochinchine. L'absence de moyens militaires et financiers, la faiblesse commerciale de la France dans l'ensemble de l'Asie condamnent par avance ces tentatives. L'épisode de l'évêque d'Adran au Vietnam est un épisode vietnamien, et non français. Durant ces deux derniers siècles, malgré les récupérations de la "geste coloniale", il n'y eut pas de véritable présence française dans la péninsule indochinoise aux XVIIIe et XIXe siècles.
 Various political, religious and commercial trends bring France in Asia lately, during the last three decades of the 17th century. Political implantation in Siam, commercial efforts in Siam and Tonkin are caused by the French missionaries, and fail. During the 18th century, it is mainly strategy (rivalry with England) which is pushing France in Burma and Cochinchina. The lack of military and financial resources and the weakness of French trade in the whole of Asia are condemning in advance these efforts. The story of Bishop of Adran in Vietnam must be considered as part of Vietnamese history, not of the French one. During these two centuries, and despite the efforts of the colonial interests to lately take advantage of it, there was no real French presence in Indochina during the 17th and 18th centuries.

Note: Situated at the edge of south and southeast Asia, the maritime frontier of Burma has never received the attention it deserves from historians, though it served as an important cultural and commercial crossroads connecting all the regions surrounding the Bay of Bengal. This volume brings together a unique array of scholars to explore Burma's distinctive role in the Indian Ocean world.

Note: An extraordinary first novel that tells the story of a British piano tuner sent deep into Burma in the nineteenth century. - In October 1886, Edgar Drake receives a strange request from the British War Office: he must leave his wife and his quiet life in London to travel to the jungles of Burma, where a rare Erard grand piano is in need of repair. The piano belongs to an army surgeon-major whose unorthodox peacemaking methods - poetry, medicine, and now music - have brought a tentative quiet to the southern Shan States but have elicited questions from his superiors. On his journey through Europe, the Red Sea, India, and into Burma, Edgar meets soldiers, mystics, bandits, and tale-spinners, as well as an enchanting woman as elusive as the surgeon-major. And at the doctor's fort on a remote Burmese river, Edgar encounters a world more mysterious and dangerous than he ever could have imagined. Sensuous, lyrical, rich with passion and adventure, this is a hypnotic tale of myth, romance, and self-discovery: an unforgettable novel.

p. 13-38: Burma and the war

Herbert 201 : <This sequel to the author's From Sangha to laity (q.v.) presents a broadly researched account of Burma's campaign for independence. Maung Maung offers a fresh and at times controversial interpretation of events, providing a Burmese perspective that acts as a challenging counterpoint to such key documentary sources as Hugh Tinker's Burma: the struggle for independence (q.v.).
 While using much the same Western sources as Nicholas
 Tarling's The fourth Anglo-Burmese war (q.v.), Maung Maung's study is more far-ranging and his use of Burmese sources and interviews adds a dimension lacking from Western studies.>

The iron road : a stand for truth and democracy in Burma / James Mawdsley. 1st American ed. – New York : North Point Pr., 2002. – Orig. publ. as: The heart must break. – London, 2001. – ISBN 0865476373 (pbk.)

<http://www.loc.gov/catdir/description/hol021/2002024408.html>

Note: A startling account of an evil regime and one young man's efforts to defy it.

Twenty-eight-year-old James Mawdsley spent much of the past four years in grim Burmese prisons. The Iron Road is his story, and the story of the regime that jailed him, the way it jails, tortures, and kills hundreds of Burmese each day. - Mawdsley was working in New Zealand when he learned about the struggle of Daw Aung San Suu Kyi, the Burmese Nobel laureate who is under house arrest. Outraged, he went to Burma, staged a one-man protest, and was jailed. - There his own amazing story begins. He is tortured, interrogated, released, jailed again. He turns his incarceration into a contest of wits - going on a hunger strike, toasting the year 2000 with a cigar and "prison champagne," and requesting "1 packet of freedom, 1 bunch human rights, and 2 bottles of democracy." At the same time, he asks himself: What leads those of us in peaceful democracies to ignore others' suffering, just because it is happening "over there," to "them"? - James Mawdsley is a hero in a generation said to lack heroism. The Iron Road - named for a torture in which skin is scraped from bone with a piece of iron - is an urgent call for an end to human rights abuses in Burma and is a keen analysis of the totalitarian mind-set. And it is the story, at once moving and terrifying, of how one person can further the cause of justice through sheer will and determination.

ISBN 974-524-050-8

Note: A memoir of the author's journeys among the brave indigenous peoples of some of Asia's most remote and violent regions. Knowledgeably obsessed with Burma's struggle for freedom. American artist-activist Mirante breaks laws and infiltrates borders in impassioned journeys of discovery that take her through China, India, Laos, and chaotic Bangladesh. Her book is a wild and exotic headlong plunge into a hidden world of guerrilla warfare, heroin and jade trading, the AIDS pandemic, rainforest destruction, strikes and rioting, and one of the worst natural disasters of modern times.

In Buddha's land : visions of Buddhist Burma / fotogr. By Moe Min. – Bangkok: Orchid Pr., 2005. 208 p., 200 col. plates. – ISBN 974-524-072-9

Note: A spectacular panoramic view of the lives of the Buddhist faithful of Burma, as revealed by award-winning Burmese photographer Moe Min. Through images of Buddhist rituals, both moments of solitary worship and joyous festivals, as well as of temples, shrines and sacred images, the viewer is introduced to the lives of the lay practitioners and monks of this deeply religious land. With magnificent images of world-renowned sites such as Pagan and the Shwedagon, as well as of remote locations rarely reached by the foreign visitor, this book is essential both for those who are well acquainted with this ancient, picturesque land and for those who are not, but wish to be.
