

Anrita Bazar Patrika

BI-WEEKLY EDITION--PUBLISHED EVERY SUNDAY AND THURSDAY.

VOL. XXXI.

CALCUTTA, THURSDAY, JULY 14, 1898.

NO. 56.

পদকপ্তক।

সম্পূর্ণ হইয়াছে
মূল্য পা. টাকা।
পরিশিষ্ট যন্ত্র।
অমৃতবাজার পত্রিকা আফিসে প্রাপ্য।

অনুরাগবলী।

ত্রিমাসিক দাস প্রণীত।
এই বালি উপদেশে বৈষ্ণব গ্রন্থ। চই শত
বৎসর পূর্বে লিখিত।
মূল্য ছয় আনা। ডাঃ মাঃ অঃ আনা।
অমৃতবাজার পত্রিকা আফিসে প্রাপ্য।

ত্রিভৈরব-প্রকাশ।

ত্রিভৈরব প্রভুর প্রিয় অমৃতবাজার পত্রিকা
ত্রিভৈরব নামের কৃত।
ইহাতে ত্রিভৈরবের লীলা সন্দেহ অনেক
চলিত কথা আছে, এবং ত্রিভৈরবের সমস্ত
লীলা বিশদরূপে বর্ণিত হইয়াছে।
মূল্য বার আনা। ডাঃ মাঃ এক আনা।
অমৃতবাজার পত্রিকা আফিসে প্রাপ্য।

ত্রিবিষ্ণুপ্রিয়া পত্রিকা।

বৈষ্ণবধর্ম সম্বন্ধে প্রথম প্রকাশিত একমাত্র
মাসিক পত্রিকা। বার্ষিক মূল্য ২, ডাঃ মাঃ ১০।
ত্রিবিষ্ণুর বাবুর তত্ত্বাবধানে প্রকাশিত
অনেকে প্রথম হইতে ত্রিবিষ্ণুপ্রিয়া পত্রিকা
চাহিয়া পাতান; কিন্তু কোন কোন সংখ্যা
অনেকের নিঃশেষিত হওয়ার, আমরা তাঁহাদের
অভিলাষ পূরণ করিতে পারি না। সেই জন্য
আমরা উক্ত নিঃশেষিত সংখ্যাগুলি পুনর্মুদ্রিত
করিতে মনস্ত করিয়াছি। বাহ্যিক উক্ত ছয়
বর্ষের সমস্ত পত্রিকা, কিংবা উহার কোন বর্ষের
পত্রিকা চাহেন, তাঁহারা রূপা করিয়া অবশিষ্ট
আমরা যত্নে আনিব। বাহ্যিক পূর্বে গ্রাহক
হইবেন, তাঁহারা প্রতি বর্ষের পত্রিকা দেড়
টাকা পাইবেন। ত্রিবিষ্ণুপ্রিয়া পত্রিকা
অমৃতবাজার পত্রিকা আফিসে প্রাপ্য।

THE PATRIKA PRESS

Has now opened a Job department and undertakes all sorts of

BOOK & JOB WORKS,

Books, Pamphlets, Trade-circulars, Periodicals, Catalogues, Hand-bills, Programmes, Forms, Cheques, etc.,

IN ENGLISH, BENGALI & NAAGRI TYPES

in the most approved style, with promptitude and at moderate rates.

There is also a book-binding department in connection with the Job department.

Orders always receive THE BEST ATTENTION.

Papers of all sizes and qualities supplied. For quotations apply to

THE MANAGER, 4, L. K. Road, Calcutta.

THE AMRITA BAZAR PATRIKA.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

(In advance)

DAILY EDITION		Town	Mofussil
Yearly	Rs. 20	Rs. 25	0
Half-yearly	11	0	13
Quarterly	6	13	7
Monthly	2	0	2

SINGLE COPY ONE ANNA.

Back numbers are charged at Four annas per copy.

BI-WEEKLY EDITION.

Town and Mofussil.
Yearly	Rs. 11
Half-yearly	6
Quarterly	3
Monthly	1

SINGLE COPY THREE ANNAS.

Back numbers are charged at six annas per copy.

WEEKLY EDITION.

Town and Mofussil.
Yearly	Rs. 6
Half-yearly	3
Quarterly	1
Monthly	0

SINGLE COPY THREE ANNAS.

Back numbers are charged at six annas per copy.

No advertisement is charged at less than 1 Rupee. For Special Contract Rates, apply to the Manager.

All correspondence and remittances are to be sent to the address of Babu G. K. Ghosh, Financial Manager, 1

BEWARE OF SPURIOUS IMITATIONS

NONE GENUINE BUT ONE WITH ENGLISH LABEL. DR. JAILLET'S PEPTO-FER

(Peptones and Iron combined in a most assimilable form). A SOVEREIGN REMEDY FOR anæmia, chlorosis, general debility, hysteria, dyspepsia, menstrual disorders, and all conditions arising from poverty of blood in men, women, and children.

To be had of all chemists and druggists. For pamphlets etc., apply to Sole Agent of INDIA and CEYLON DAMODAR RATTANSEY, 27, Calcutta Street, Calcutta; 27, Kalbadevi Road, Bombay.

For the first time in India! Latest London Novelty. THE PRESENTIAOT "PHOTO" WATCH.

AN IMPORTANT PATENTED IMPROVEMENT WITHOUT EXTRA COST.

OPEN.

Naug & Co.,

170, CORNWALLIS STREET, CALCUTTA.

New indent, Fresh Goods, Latest designs.

Various pattern Silks for Saries, Jackets and Coats. Balbrigan banians, fine and strong, of all sizes, Rs. 6-8 to Rs. 12 a dozen. New Cotton tweeds of different choice, ans. 6 to ans 12 a yard. Fancy coatings and shittings of different qualities. Dress and office immediate delivery. Large stock of Deshi Dhooties and Saries.

New catalogue free.

THE LAW OF SEDITION.

BY J. CHAUDHURI, M. A., BAR-AT-LAW. PRICE, RE. 1.

OPINIONS: The book seems to be very interesting.—Sir W. R. Anson, Bart., D. C. L., Warden of All Souls, Oxford.

A very careful statement of the growth of the English law on the subject.—J. B. Moyle, D. C. L., Senior Bursar, New College, Oxford.

You have set out the main features of the English law on the subject in a clear and interesting manner and so far as my knowledge goes with accuracy.—Henry Gony, D. C. L., Regius Professor of Civil Law, Oxford, Fellow of All Souls.

Mr. Chaudhuri directs a vigorous polemic against these changes in the law... Has certainly provided materials for a full and careful consideration of a very interesting and important subject.—The English Law Journal.

The book is well up to date. Mr. Chaudhuri's observations on the tendency of the new law and in the haste with which it has been passed, are exceedingly caustic and to the point.—Englishman.

Mr. Chaudhuri's book gives Chapter and Verse of his propositions, and if Mr. Chalmers had taken half the amount of pains that Mr. Chaudhuri has, to make things plain, he could never have fathered the Act.—Indian Daily News.

Mr. Chaudhuri has accurately stated the law as it has been laid down in practice in recent years in England by English Judges to English juries.—E. H. Pickersyll, M. P., in his Review in India.

The little work is admirably fitted to achieve its author's purpose.—Irish Law Times and Solicitors' Journal.

Apply to—MANAGER, WEEKLY NOTES PRINTING WORKS, 103, HASTINGS STREET, CALCUTTA.

ROSALENE.

THE GREAT HAIR PRODUCER AND RESTORER

Positively the best medicated Hair Oil specially prepared and perfumed for Toilet Use. Keeps head cool, produces Luxuriant Hair, prevents it falling off and turning gray. Unrivalled for promoting the growth of the Beard, Moustache, whisk and thin Eye-lashes. A Sovereign Remedy for Baldness. Restores Gray hair to its natural color and removes Scruff and Dandruff, etc. Absolutely free from any metallic or other injurious ingredients.

PRICE ONE RUPEE, POSTAGE AS. 8.

EASTERN PERFUMERY Co.

BAGBAZAR P. O., CALCUTTA

Cure Guaranteed. Gonorrhoea

Discovered by an eminent physician of England and recognized by the latest edition of the British Pharmacopoeia as the only safe sure and efficacious remedy for

GONORRHOEA

of any description and in either sex without inconvenience of any kind.

Acute cases cured radically in three days and chronic cases in a week.

It relieves the patient promptly from the most distressing symptoms.

Value returned in case of failure to cure. Price, Rs. 2-8 per phial. V. P. P. As. 6 extra. Apply to Dr. A. P. MAZOOMDAR, 2 Bheem Ghosh's Lane, Simla P. O., Calcutta.

বিপিনবিহারী ও যুগলকৃষ্ণ ধর।

ছফেলার এবং পোকার।

বায়ু-বোয়ালি, কেশু, যুগলকৃষ্ণ।

The Calcutta Homoeopathic Pharmacy.

The First Independent and Pure HOMOEOPATHIC PHARMACY IN THE EAST. BERIGNY & CO. 12, Lal Bazar, Calcutta.

Are unrivalled in the completeness of stock of Medicines, Books, Medicine chests, Pocket and Travelling cases and other requisites. They enjoy the confidence and patronage of the highest state officials, the profession and the public. Catalogue and advice sent on receipt of half anna postage.

ALLAHABAD BANK LTD.

Head Office—ALLAHABAD. BRANCHES: Calcutta, Cawnpore, Lucknow, Jhansi, Bareilly, Naini Tal, and Delhi.

LONDON BANKERS: The Union Bank of London.

BOMBAY BANKERS: The Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China.

CORRESPONDENTS in Agra, Bankipore, Benares, Delhi, Fyzabad, Lahore, Madras, Meerut, Mussoorie, Nagpore, Rawul Pinde, Simla, Umballa.

CURRENT ACCOUNTS opened. Interest at 2 per cent. per annum allowed on minimum monthly balances of Rs. 500 and not exceeding Rs. 10,000.

Fixed Deposits received on the following terms: Repayable after 12 or 18 months 5 per cent per annum

Every description of Banking business transacted. Full information obtainable on application to T. C. CRUICKSHANK, Agent, Calcutta Branch.

অশ্বগন্ধা বটিকা।

ইহা ধাতু সৌর্যলোকের একটা মহৌষধ। এই ঔষধ এক পক্ষ কাল ব্যবহার করিলে পাচকায় বৃদ্ধি করত ধাতু পুষ্টি হইয়া শরীরের সমস্ত ধাতু সুন্দরায় পাড়া মূল্যে নিম্ন লিখিত হইয়া বর্ণ-বল-বীর্ষ্যাদি সম্পন্ন হওত যুবরাজ্য বিচরণকম হয়।

অতিরিক্ত হস্ত্রয় সেবন জন্ম ইন্দ্রিয় পৈদিলা, অতিরিক্ত চিন্তা বা অব্যয়ন আদি দ্বারা মানসিক দৌর্বল্য এবং ধারণা শক্তির হ্রাস হইলে এতদ্বারা বিশেষ উপকার সাধিত হয়। অপিচ ইহা অতিশয় মেধা ও স্মৃতি বৃদ্ধি করিয়া থাকে।

মূল্য প্রতি কোটা ৩০ বটিকা ২, ছই টাকা, ডাক মাণ্ডল চারি আনা। ভিঃ পিঃ ডাকে লইলে ছই আনা অতিরিক্ত লাগে।

ডাক্তার চন্দ্রনাথ রায়।

২৩ নং বাগবাজার স্ট্রীট কলিকাতা।

REGISTER YOUR NAME FOR THE FOURTH EDITION OF THE CIVIL OFFICER'S GUIDE?

It has been thoroughly revised, the size has been increased, and new matters added.

Part I, contains useful TABLES, Part II, STANDING ORDERS of GOVERNMENT, Part III, CIVIL SERVICE REGULATIONS, and Part IV, HINTS to WRITE OFFICIAL Correspondence, all bound together, but the Parts are so arranged that each can be taken out of the book and bound separately.

Every Government official, be he a ministerial, executive or a judicial officer, should secure a copy of the GUIDE at once.

Parts I, II, and IV will be useful even to those who are not in Government employ.

In Part I, Tables to calculate wages from annas four to one thousand Rupees, Tables to calculate Interest &c. have been given.

Even those who are not in receipt of a monthly income, must have got under them employes whom they have to pay monthly. The Guide will help them in calculating accurately to a pie the amount due to or by them. The Income Tax Table and rules and the Interest Table will similarly help them.

In Part II, very important and interesting standing orders, which, nevertheless, are not generally known or available, have been appended. The Rules regarding Submission of Appeals, and Petitions to Government, the Parliament, the Hon'ble the Secretary of State, and Her Majesty the Empress, Connection of Government officials with Press, Indebtedness of Public Servants, Supply of Medicine and Medical Aid, Dismissal &c. have been given.

Part III, contains all the Rules of the Civil Service Regulations (corrected up to date) that a Government official is required to know. The Rules have been so arranged that any one can have the required rule at a glance. The rules have not been abridged; but by a peculiar arrangement reference has been made an easy and pleasant task.

Part IV gives useful and well-arranged Hints to write Official Correspondence.

The Civil Officer's Guide is not a New book,—it has survived the sure test, for, it has passed through two previous editions.

The price is so moderate that even persons with moderate income can afford to purchase a copy. Price Rupee One. Postage one anna. By V. P. Post two annas extra. Recommended by both the Press and the Public.

A very good source for the circulation of advertisements. Rates will be communicated on application. All letters to be addressed to

R. V. R. CHAUDHURI, Diney

Pamphlet of Assansole Outrage Case

As. 11 only V.P.P. Apply to D. N. ROY Bagbazar, Calcutta.

Just Out. THE SECOND EDITION (Revised and Enlarged) Of that well-known socio comic DRAMA.

নয়শো রূপেয়া। Price As. 12. To be had at the Patrika

LAW & Co.

Homoeopathic chemists and Book-sellers, 92, BOWBAZAR STREET CALCUTTA. Keep always ready a complete stock of American medicines, (including Tissue remedies) book, chests and other requisites. They enjoy the confidence of all for genuineness of their medicines. Catalogue post free.

Benevolent Fund Ltd.

Unprecedented marvellous gain. One can secure Rs. 10,000, 5,000, 2,000, and 1,000 on payment of Rs. 1-12, annas 15, and 8 respectively a month. For forms, &c. apply to the undersigned with 7 half-anna stamps.

R. C. ROY, Managing Director, 41, 42, Sukea's Street, Calcutta.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

SPECIFIC FOR DIABETES. Guaranteed to cure this incurable disease of any nature and of any standing period. Don't despair even if in the last stages. Price per bottle Rs. 3 only. THOUSANDS CURED. One trial suffices to convince.

SUTTAN OIL.

The most effectual, powerful and never-failing remedy for acute and chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Rheumatic gout, Enlargement of the joints, Spasms, Cramp, Stiff-neck, Lumbago, Sciatica and pains and aches of every description. It is a purely vegetable production, safe and certain. Buy one bottle and you will be completely cured. Price per bottle Rs. 3 only.

WONDERFUL HEALING OINTMENT

Those who are suffering from venereal sores, mucous ulcers, boils, buboes, syphilis, carbuncle, cancer, eczema, ulcerated legs, abscesses, ulcers, sinus, wound bruises and all kinds of skin diseases, whether acute or chronic, must be cured by this wonderful ointment. Price per pot Re. 1 only.

SPECIFIC FOR PILES.

Radically cures Piles and Fistula of the worst types whether itching, protruding, internal, external or bleed ing. Guaranteed harmless. Persons who have tried all now remedies for curing the pain of piles and have been time after time disappointed with results, should be a fair trial to our remedy. Price per phial Rs. 2 only. A PAMPHLET containing numerous unsolicited testimonials sent free on application to

MANAGER THE VICTORIA CHEMICAL WORK, Ramghat, Benool

REGISTER YOUR NAME FOR THE FOURTH EDITION OF THE CIVIL OFFICER'S GUIDE?

It has been thoroughly revised, the size has been increased, and new matters added.

Part I, contains useful TABLES, Part II, STANDING ORDERS of GOVERNMENT, Part III, CIVIL SERVICE REGULATIONS, and Part IV, HINTS to WRITE OFFICIAL Correspondence, all bound together, but the Parts are so arranged that each can be taken out of the book and bound separately.

Every Government official, be he a ministerial, executive or a judicial officer, should secure a copy of the GUIDE at once.

Parts I, II, and IV will be useful even to those who are not in Government employ.

In Part I, Tables to calculate wages from annas four to one thousand Rupees, Tables to calculate Interest &c. have been given.

Even those who are not in receipt of a monthly income, must have got under them employes whom they have to pay monthly. The Guide will help them in calculating accurately to a pie the amount due to or by them. The Income Tax Table and rules and the Interest Table will similarly help them.

In Part II, very important and interesting standing orders, which, nevertheless, are not generally known or available, have been appended. The Rules regarding Submission of Appeals, and Petitions to Government, the Parliament, the Hon'ble the Secretary of State, and Her Majesty the Empress, Connection of Government officials with Press, Indebtedness of Public Servants, Supply of Medicine and Medical Aid, Dismissal &c. have been given.

Part III, contains all the Rules of the Civil Service Regulations (corrected up to date) that a Government official is required to know. The Rules have been so arranged that any one can have the required rule at a glance. The rules have not been abridged; but by a peculiar arrangement reference has been made an easy and pleasant task.

Part IV gives useful and well-arranged Hints to write Official Correspondence.

The Civil Officer's Guide is not a New book,—it has survived the sure test, for, it has passed through two previous editions.

The price is so moderate that even persons with moderate income can afford to purchase a copy. Price Rupee One. Postage one anna. By V. P. Post two annas extra. Recommended by both the Press and the Public.

A very good source for the circulation of advertisements. Rates will be communicated on application. All letters to be addressed to

R. V. R. CHAUDHURI, Diney

Dr. Stolberg BEGS to inform those who are suffering from Enlarged Spleen, Malaria, Liver, Kidney and Lungs complaints, PARALYSIS, EPILEPSY, RHEUMATISM, GOUT, HYDROCELE, ELEPHANTIASIS, and all Skin diseases, that his Remedies will cure them.

POWELL'S IODIZED COMPOUND ESSENCE Sarsaparilla or Blood & Liver Cleanser is the most effective combination of Iodized Compound Essence of Sarsaparilla.

A prompt and Powerful Alterative and Diuratic acting directly upon the Blood and Glucular System. THE distressing poison of syphilis with its Primary, Secondary or Tertiary symptoms is speedily relieved.

Goitre, Liver Complaints and Pimples. It has the power of causing the elimination of mercury from the system. This essence of Sarsaparilla will renew the Arterial blood of putrid humour, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels and impart a tone of health.

Price per bottle Re. 1-10-0. Price-list free on application. N. POWELL AND CO., BYCULIA, BOMBAY.

Always buy our Celebrated Genuine MOHUN FLUTE-HARMONIUM (GUARANTEED FOR 3 YEARS) and refuse all inferior substitutes. It is now universally known to be the best harmonium at the head of all others. Rs. 35, 40 and upwards. Sent per V. P. P. PAUL & SONS, MOHUN MUSICAL DEPOT, 2, Lower Chitpore Road, (2nd floor) Calcutta.

G. KUR & SONS, Manufacturers and Importers of Musical Instruments, Strings, fittings &c. 52, Dhurramtollah Street, Calcutta. The Best Box Harmonium of the Day

The best Harmonium for playing Bengali and Hindustani airs. Exquisite tone and touch, beautiful design, and sound workmanship characterize this High Class Harmonium.

THE INDIAN MECHANIC EST. 1895. Vol. IV Commenced from April 1898. (Monthly) Journal of Art, Industry and Science.

PRIZE ESSAYS FOR JULY. SENIOR PRIZE Essay for graduates and gentlemen over 25 years of age. PRIZE—A book worth not less than Rs. 10.

Fail not to keep it with you; fail not to take in the first thing in Cholera; fail not to put this to others; for is the best and most approved remedy for Cholera. Given early it cures ninety per cent. of cases and prevents an attack if few drops are taken daily during an epidemic.

DR. S. K. BURMAN 5, Tarachand Dutt's Street, Calcutta.

A. C. CHATTERJEE & CO. Cabinet Makers & Upholsterers, 52-3, Bow Bazaar Street, Calcutta.

Having Large Stock of Well-made Substantial and Fashionable Furniture. Orders Executed promptly.

FOR SALE. SEEDS, PLANTS, FRUIT GRAFTS, ROSES.

The Cossipur Practical Institution of Horti-Flori and Agriculture, 69 Gun Foundry Road, Cossipur, Calcutta. The largest and best Repository where Garden and Agricultural seeds, tools and other requisites can be had always ready for sale.

Best Fruit Grafts, Chinese pine apples, several roadside and timber trees, most beautiful and scented varieties of select Roses, distinct varieties of Crotons, Palms, Ferns, Orchids, Aracaneas, Camellias, and Magnolias of sorts, Santalum Album Coffee, Camphor, Nutmeg; many other ornamental foliaged plants, Culbombs plants Dahlias, choice giant Flowering cannas, Gloxinias and beautiful creepers are always kept ready for sale.

HISTORY OF THE PANJAB. From the Remotest Antiquity to the Present Time. By Shamsul-Ulama Syed Muhammad Latif, Khan Bahadur, F. R. A. S., F. R. G. S., Extra Judicial Commissioner and Member of the Panjab University, Rs. 10.

LAHORE: Its History, Architectural Remains and Antiquities, with an Account of its Modern Institutions and Inhabitants, their Trades, Customs, etc. By ditto, Rs. 6.

DRAWING. Drawing, a Means of Education, with a Chapter on the Recurrence of the Geometrical figures in the three Kingdoms of Nature, and the Realm of Sound, with 350 illustrations. By E. C. Dozy, Art Teacher, Doveton College, etc. Paper, Rs. 2-8; cloth, Rs. 7.

FORTUNE-TELLING. The Oracle of Fate; or, the Mystic Numbers. By E. Joubert. A republication of one of the most ancient works on Fortune-telling. It contains answers, solved by the mystic numbers, on most of the affairs of life, and may be consulted on all important occasions, As. 12.

MEDICAL DICTIONARY. Latin to Bengali and English; price Re. 1. reduced price Ans. 8 for a month; by V. P. P. Ans. 3 extra.

G. RINGER & CO., Homoeopathic Establishment, 4, DALHOUSIE SQUARE EAST, CALCUTTA.

WE GUARANTEE TO SUPPLY fresh, genuine, and original medicines. We receive regular shipments from the celebrated and best European, American and Chinese Dispensaries of Europe and America.

ECONOMIC PHARMACY. Homeopathic Medicines, 5 and 6 pice per dram.

CHOLERA BOX, containing 12, 24, 30, and 48 Phials of medicine, a dropper, camphor and a guide Rs. 2, 3, 3-10 and 5-5 respectively.

FAMILY BOX, containing 24, 30, 48, 60 and 104 Phials of medicine, a dropper, and a guide Rs. 3-3-8, 5-4-6, 6-4, and 11-8, respectively.

M. BHATTACHARYA & CO., 11, Bonfield's Lane, Calcutta.

P. GOVIN & CO. OPTICIANS AND SPECTACLE MAKERS. BEST BRAZIL PE BLY'S. SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES.

Gold frame from ... 23 Silver do. ... 8 Nickel do. ... 7 Steel do. ... 5 Metal frame Pebble Spectacles from ... 5 Best Crystal Cataract do. ... 6 Neutral tint D shaped Eyepreservers from ... 6 Railway goggles or dust protectors do. ... 6 Testors are sent on deposit of ... 10

Monks' Elixir THE GREAT INDIAN REMEDY Specific for Dog and Jacka bites and the only reliable remedy for Hyarophobia.

THE MAHILA ART STUDIO. 10 CORNWALLIS STREET, CALCUTTA. Mrs. S. Ghose begs to intimate to her numerous patrons that she has opened a photographic studio at the above address.

SHIBIRIYER BACH CHÈE BUK KAMTA KURK BHAYAMODIT. ছত্রপতি শিবাজী ॥० ত্রীমূল পণ্ডিত সত্যচরণ শাস্ত্রী মহাশয় প্রণীত। শাস্ত্রী মহাশয় মহারাষ্ট্র প্রদেশের গ্রামে গ্রামে ভ্রমণ করিয়া ইহার রচনা করিয়াছেন, শিবাজীর এত বড় বিজুত কাব্যী আর নাই, ইতিমধ্যে নানা প্রকারের ভ্রমণের ইয়াছে। মহারাষ্ট্র প্রভাসাদিত্য ১। বঙ্গের শেষ স্বাধীন মহাকবি বিজুত জীবনী ২। কুণ্ডলায়িত্তি স্ত্রী সত্যত প্রেস হাটপত্রিকা ৩। অক্ষয় পুস্তকালয় পাণ্ডা বাইবে।

ACIDITY PILL

ACIDITY and DYSPEPSIA are the two most common disorders of the day, and very few are so fortunate as to declare their immunity from these. In view of the fact that though apparently harmless in the embryonic stage, Acidity and Dyspepsia shatter and undermine the constitution in the end and lead to its total wreckage, it must be held that they are dangerous in their insidiousness.

After years of incessant toil and experiment, I have discovered a medicine which, I can confidently say, will cure the patient of acidity, and its worse stage of dyspepsia in a short time, effectively and radically. However chronic and long-standing the complaint, however violent its attack, the Acidity Pill will give instant and permanent relief as has been proved in hundreds of cases. Here are a few unsolicited testimonials:—

The Hon'ble G. M. Chitnavis C. I. E. Member of the Viceroy's Legislative Council, writes:—"The Acidity Pills are giving satisfaction to all those on whom I tried them."

Baru Bhubo Tosh Bannerjee, Deputy Magistrate of Dacca, writes under date the 6th March, 1898:—"Many thanks for your Acidity Pills. I was suffering from Dyspepsia and Colic pain for the last 18 years. I tried many kinds of medicines to no effect. Some of them gave me temporary relief only for a day or two. But since I have been taking your pills 3 weeks or more I have not had any attack for a moment even during this time. The Pill is an excellent medicine for this nasty disease which is very painful. Please send me three boxes of the Pills per V. P. P. at your earliest convenience and oblige."

The Amrita Bazar Patrika says:—"Dr. H. Biswas's Acidity Pill has an extraordinary digestive power so hat men suffering from Dyspepsia may give a fair trial. It is exclusively prepared from some native herbs and hence is perfectly safe."

Babu T. K. Baksi, Professor Government College, Jubbulpur, writes Dr. Biswas's medicine for acidity and dyspepsia has been tried in our family with marked efficacy and I can safely declare that sufferers who may give it a fair trial are sure to derive much benefit from it.

Babu Nitraya Gopal Dutt, Zamindar Mozilpur, writes:—"I have used your Pill and can bear testimony to its marvellous effects. Before I had used your Pill for a week it cured me of acute Acidity which all other remedies failed to cure."

Kumar Hemendra Krishna of the Sovabazar raj family, writes:—"I am glad to state that have been Red much benefit by the use of a box of your Acidity pills. Really I did not expect so happy a result. I send me two more boxes."

K. Babu P. B. A. Head-Master, Shibpur, H. C. School, writes:—"H. Biswas's Acidity Pill is a veritable remedy for Acidity and Dyspepsia in general, so is prepared from innocent drugs, and therefore, perfectly harmless. Those that have been suffering from Acidity and Dyspepsia will find in the said Pill a speedy and permanent cure. Dr. Biswas deserves the patronage of the public at large."

P. S. I have recommended your Pills to some of my friends who are similarly suffering. The Acidity Pill is a vegetable preparation. We guarantee a cure and Refund the Price in case of failure. Price Rupee One per box. V. P. charge annas 4. Do not fail to give it a trial when every other medicine patent or prescribed, has failed to give you relief. You will realise its worth by a week's use only.

DR. H. BISWAS, 11, Ananda Chatterjee's Lane, Bag-Bazar Calcutta.

Cure for Dysmenorrhœa. It is a sure and infallible specific for Dysmenorrhœa—a common disease from which many women suffer. The pain disappears as soon as it is used and for a radical cure it should be used for four days.

BARREN WOMEN anxious to get a child ought to try once. Its ingredients are simple and no evil effects are produced and obtained from Honey Kang. Thousands have been cured and many unsolicited testimonials are coming in from all quarters.

Price Rs. 2. V. P. Extra. DR. H. BISWAS, 11, Ananda Chatterjee's Lane, Bagbazar, Calcutta.

AWARDED a higher class certificate for the best Medical Preparation at the Year of D. in India by Sir Rivers Thompson (Lt. Gov. of Bengal) President of the Calcutta Exhibition 1884.

SWEET EMULSION DISCOVERED AND SO NAMED By Dr. H. W. JONES, M. D., M. B., C. S., Lond. This is an excellent and innocuous preparation, sweet to the palate universally known as preferable to Cod-Liver Oil and Sarsaparilla, having great nutritive and blood purifying qualities & guaranteed to cure—Piles, Rheumatism, Chronic-Gonorrhœa, Emaciation, Diabetes, Spermatorrhœa, and all other diseases of dyspeptic nature, and Impurities of the blood. Price 8 oz. phial 1s 8, packing 4 annas each.

Dr. Kope's Pills for Debility. This unrivaled medicine has never been known to fail for nervous debility, premature decay of vitality, loss of manhood and memory, want of strength and energy. It also revives the drooping and languishing spirit of the despondent, imparts tone and vigour to the weak frame. In short, it makes one healthy and happy, adds joy and bliss to the conjugal life. Price for 2 weeks' use Rs 2-4 with packing. Sold only by DR. J. GOPTA & CO., Chemists and Druggists, 7, Pharmacy—No. 181-2, Dhurramtollah Street, Calcutta. Mofussil ditto—Tallygunj, Calcutta.

THE MAHILA ART STUDIO. 10 CORNWALLIS STREET, CALCUTTA. Mrs. S. Ghose begs to intimate to her numerous patrons that she has opened a photographic studio at the above address. Her execution of work has elicited approval and commendation from all sides, of which the following is a specimen:—"Sreenuttee Sarojini Ghosh, who has set up the Mahila Art Studio at 10, Cornwallis Street, is a Hindu lady artist of great skill whose works we have seen to admire. She has executed for us some orders, and the way these have been finished leaves no doubt as to her efficiency and ability as a photographer. One's interest in her is the more enhanced when her excellent work is taken into consideration. Sreenuttee Sarojini deserves encouragement and patronage at the hands of her countrymen, specially as she can enter the zenana and photograph the ladies of a Hindu family. She also undertakes permanent bromide enlargements and platinumotypes, at very moderate rates.—Amrita Bazar Patrika.

Her rates are moderate, and will be quoted on application. Hindu gentlemen have a good opportunity of taking photographs of the female members of their families, as Mrs. S. Ghose is a Hindu who always is willing to accept zenana work.

Babu Harihar Bhattacharjya writes the following from Khurrial in Hooghly District, which is verified by Baba Tej Chunder Bose, of 20-1, Chukko Khansama's Lane, Mirzapore Street, Calcutta:—

A belief in ghosts and spirits in this fag end of the nineteenth century is sure to be put down as 'superstition, pure and simple. Yet manifestations which do occur in our very presence, cannot be accounted for as being other than supernatural. If men deep-read in philosophy and science, are asked as to the causes of such phenomena, they ascribe them to something mysterious; but they would never admit the existence of such agencies as spirits. I myself had no belief in them; but my recent experiences have thoroughly convinced me that there are such beings as spirits. My wife has a good constitution, was hale and hearty, and she was passing her life, happy and jolly, always engrossed in her household affairs. On the 17th of the last month, she went to have a bath in the tank, attached to my gardens. On her return home, she felt very uneasy and was slowly swooning. Addressing my mother, she said that something was wrong with her, as she felt a choking sensation and was losing all vitality, and after that she became quite unconscious and remained so for more than an hour. A doctor was immediately sent for; and by application of restoratives and other medicines, she came back to her senses. But this state did not last long, for she commenced laughing and crying alternately, now talking to herself, and again, raving like a maniac, she would scream in fright as if some one was going to strangle her. The scene was most pitiable, and we were at our wit's end as to what to do. Doctors treated her, in their own way, but it was of no avail. Her sufferings continued for 'six' days without the slightest sign of relief. One of my neighbours limited that the case was one of 'possession by spirit' and suggested that Gunga Moyra's son from Naihati should be sent for, as he was considered the proper person to cure such a case. On the 22nd June, the elders were consulted, and their consent having been obtained, I went to Naihati and informed Gunga Moyra's son of all the particulars. He promised to come on Friday, the 24th June, and directed me to keep ready a jugful of water to be drawn out of a tank before daybreak and before any other person had touched the water of that tank. Punctually at 11 a.m., he arrived at our village. He is a venerable-looking old man, of 70 years or upward. After taking rest for a few minutes he asked for a 'tulsi' leaf, which being given to him, he wanted to see the patient. As soon as she saw him, she shouted out, 'Krishto Moyra, why are you here?' Without making any reply, he repeated certain incantations and touched her head with the leaf, which at once made her quiet and senseless. Thereafter he came away, and made arrangements for the poojais in a room in the outer apartments. Three seats were provided in this room. On one he sat himself; the second was placed in his front, on the four corners of which were arranged Jaba flowers; and in the centre was a brass vessel, filled with the water from the jug, referred to above; the third was reserved for the patient. After the poojais were over, which took nearly half an hour, he directed that two strong persons should keep hold on her. He then gave three low tappings on the wooden seat reserved for her, and by magic, as it were, she came straight running, shaking and shivering and took her seat. No sooner she sat there, than the 'ojha' drew a circle round her with a piece of chalk, repeating certain mantras as he did it. The patient again demanded to know whether he was not Krisht, Moyrah of Naihati. Be it noted here that no person in our village, not even myself, far less my wife—ever heard or knew that Gunga Moyra's son's name was 'Krishto Moyra.' We only knew him as Gunga Moyra's son. The 'ojha', however, answered in the affirmative, and enquired what had she to do with his name. She said 'you have no business to molest me; I have done you no harm. Why should you tease and trouble me? I beg of you to leave me and depart in peace.' The 'ojha' in a defiant attitude replied, 'I have come to drive you out. If you go away gently, I shall deal with you well.' The patient said, 'I am Issur Ghose of Bassyne,' then retracting it, said, 'I am Santu Komal.' The 'ojha' angrily said, 'You are lying and prevaricating, and unless you give out your real name and the information I have asked of you, I shall inflict a punishment on you which you will remember for ever.' The patient remained obdurate, and talked irrelevantly for a long time without the least sign of yielding. Thereupon the 'ojha' drew with a piece of chalk on the floor the outlines or picture of a man, and taking a knife and heating it red-hot, thrust it on the picture at the region of the heart. The patient at once screamed, and showing as if dangerously hurt, stammered out, 'My name is Jogin. I am 17 years old. I suffered from fever and died of ulcers, all over my body a year and 5 months ago without being cared for and without a drop of medicine having been administered to me. Myself and the patient were playmates, and I always loved to be in her company. I had been hovering over her all this time and had no opportunity to get into her. On the 17th, after her bath, as she was wiping her hair, a lock of it touched me; and I got possession of her.' Now Jogin was a cousin of mine; and the circumstances attached to his death, his age and the exact time he died, were exactly given by the patient, although my wife never heard or knew my cousin's age or the particular date on which he died and the disease of which he died. The operation of exorcism commenced at 1 P. M. and lasted till 5 P. M. It was broad daylight, and it was in presence of more than thirty persons that all this took place, I am quite sure as well as other persons are, that there was no trick whatever. By alternately coaxing and threatening a promise was exacted from him that he would leave the patient without injuring her, leave the village for good and would never come within 200 miles of its radius. Being asked if he would like to take any food before leaving the patient, he expressed a desire for 'some milk which was given. The patient drank whole of it and then lay down unconscious for 5 or 6 minutes, after which she regained her consciousness, and enquiring the reason why such a large crowd had collected in the house, with her wonted modesty, put her veil down, and went into the inner apartment as if nothing had happened to her. She is up to now, all right, and is quite happy as before.

THE Amrita Bazar Patrika.

CALCUTTA, JULY 14, 1898.

MR. CAINE AND SIR H. FOWLER.

The following from Champion deserves notice:—

Mr. Caine, we fear, has made a serious error purely arising from his want of knowledge regarding the true feelings of Indians about Sir Henry Fowler. The country hailed him as a Radical Non-Conformist and Secretary of State for India in succession to Viscount Cross. But within eighteen months it discovered that there was no charm in a Non-Conformist and a Radical. However good he may have been in his own profession and however good he may have served his party, when never holding office, he became, said to say, the plastic tool in the hands of the departmental sophists at the India Office. He was entirely carried away by their plausibilities, and when he, of all others, a Radical and a pious churchman, full of righteousness and justice as was said of him, poured cold water over the resolution of the House of Commons, nay, over-rode it, and put his signature to that specious despatch on Simultaneous Examinations for which India had vigorously agitated, it was felt that he was not the right man for the country. Indians had to break that fresh idol of clay which it worshipped so warmly for a time. Thereafter, in many an executive act and in many a Parliamentary speech, it was found that he was simply a second edition of the Indian bureaucracy which, thanks to him and others like him, has been toasting itself to the top of its bent beyond all its deserts. Had he come out as a civilian in India and breathed the bureaucratic atmosphere at every pore in his body for full thirty years he could not have made a stronger, more bureaucratic and infallible than he made himself under the Jesuitical training of that Jesuitical body at Westminster which has the destinies of India in its hands. In short, he became quite an adept in the art of Indian bureaucracy. Indian interests to him were purely Anglo-Indian interests. Indian people to him were purely the hewers of wood and the drawers of water, which Anglo-India wishes to see them. Moreover, as another important Indian problem began to be aired in Parliament under his Secretaryship, it was also discovered that he was a Radical in name only. It was found that he had not an iota of liberalising tendencies about him. His ideas about India were narrow-minded and parochial. There was nothing to tell us that he was a progressive and a lieutenant of the great Mr. Gladstone in a Liberal Cabinet. For that matter he might have crossed over to the other side of the House and joined hands with the Duke of Devonshire and Mr. Chamberlain and more accurately accentuated his political colours. In short, by the time that he left the India Office, the country had grown quite sick of him and prayed that he may never again return there to do greater mischief than he did before. This is, we hesitate not to say, the feeling of Indians about Sir Henry Fowler which has not undergone the slightest change since he went into opposition. On the contrary he has emphasised himself a great deal more in season and out of season and even gone out of his way to kiss, embrace, and bless that blundering mediocrity who now holds the rein of power over India at Westminster. And yet it is astonishing to notice Mr. Caine endorsing this much-disliked and unpopular ex-minister and member of a Liberal opposition. How could Mr. Caine's shrewd commonsense have made him so far forget the true feelings of India about him for every leading journal has off and on commented on the very politics and speeches of this pious Radical so-called as to defend him from the hostile criticism appearing in the columns of India? Let us openly and frankly inform Mr. Caine that he is entirely at sea in criticising the Congress organ which writes from perfect knowledge of the true sentiments of Indians touching his friend, Sir Henry Fowler. It may be that that Non-Conformist is a personal friend of Mr. Caine and that Mr. Caine is devoted to him; but friendship should never be so blind as to become incapable of discerning what is a palpable and demonstrable truth. Under the circumstances we cannot but deeply regret the false lines into which Mr. Caine's personal friendship has betrayed him. We have, we think, never differed from him hitherto on all that he has said about India and the Indians. This is the first time we find him mapping. And it is with a view to give him a friendly caution that he may not nap again so far as this pomposity—Sir Henry Fowler—is concerned, that we have been constrained to indite this paragraph. As far as India is concerned Sir Henry Fowler is a pious fraud on the Liberal side and nothing more, and Heaven forbid that in a future Liberal ministry he should be once more Secretary of State. Compared with him, "Grand Cross" is infinitely to be endured though a Tory.

What the writer says about Sir H. Fowler is so true that it is impossible to change, omit or add a word in the description given of him. But he commits an injustice in attributing motives to Mr. Caine. Friendship does not influence W. S. Caine; he is capable of sacrificing one thousand friends, if that is necessary, for a service to the people of India. From an intimate association with that noble-hearted Englishman, we are in a position to state that if the Indians loved India as he did this country, the position of the Indians might have been much better than now. His idea is that the liberal party is weak because of its want of coherence and leadership. Sir H. Fowler is the master of the situation as regards India. If Sir W. Wedderburn quarrels with him, though the quarrels may not be, and, as a matter of fact, they are not his seeking, it is India that suffers. In this view every one must agree. Only the question is, whether it is possible for Sir W. Wedderburn to make friends with Sir H. Fowler without sacrificing India. Sir W. Wedderburn should, for the sake of India, either try to make friends with Sir H. Fowler if that is possible, or to create a separate party of his own sufficiently strong to be respected. The latter course is the easier of the two. For the Indians have done all they could to move the heart of Sir H. Fowler towards themselves by appealing to his humanity, to his liberal principles, and to his Christianity. It was, we believe, Mr. Caine who persuaded him to read some of the leading Indian newspapers. This he was not in the habit of doing even when he was in charge of India. The result was that the reading proved disagreeable, and his open declaration was, if he has not been mis-reported, "I did not know we were so bad, before I read the Indian newspapers." So you see the perusal only served to create resentment.

Our London correspondent suggested that during the next election, Indians should be sent to England on behalf of the Liberal cause. That is a good idea and feasible too. The successes of Babu Ananda Mohun Bose in this direction no doubt suggested the idea. The several Liberal seats won, while he was in England, have returned members pledged to support Indian progress. This because Babu Ananda Mohun took active part in the elections. Now suppose we send half a dozen representatives from India—capable men—who appeal to the higher senses of Englishmen to elect only Liberals. The result ought to be good—none has any doubts about it. But cut homo? By our efforts we may help Sir H. Fowler to be the master of India and supplant Lord George Hamilton. But will that in any way benefit this country?

Lord G. Hamilton has at least some respect for the Radicals, but Sir H. Fowler has none. He is in the Front Bench, he will not permit his following to move when India is concerned. If they do in spite of himself, he does not help them, and sometimes offers indirect opposition. Sometimes when he feels that his remaining quiet would elicit remark, he flies from the House. In short, Sir H. Fowler is a second edition of Lord George Hamilton, only in the guise of a friend. Either Sir W. Wedderburn should create a strong party or entrust the task to others who are in a better position to be able to do it, a party strong enough to be able to act independently of Sir H. Fowler, when India is concerned.

THE PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

In the August number of the Nineteenth Century, 1883, Miss Florence Nightingale begins her article, "Our Indian Stewardship" in these words:

I have read with dismay the terrible indictment brought by Mr. Seymour Keay in the last number of this journal, against our Indian administration. If the present charges are false, they should, after proper inquiry, be declared so. If they contain even a portion of truth, still more necessary is it that justice should be done, in fulfilment of a great national duty.

As public accuser, Mr. Keay has done his part. What is now our duty as members of the English public? What can we do, in order that this appeal may be heard by a competent tribunal, and decided in accordance with justice and those broad principles of public morality which have been accepted by the English people and set forth in the memorable words of the Queen's Proclamation in 1858?

In former days, the whole administration of India was subjected by Parliament at prescribed intervals to an impartial, intelligent, and searching inquiry. On each occasion, before the East India Company's Charter was renewed, there was a reckoning and stock was taken; so that, once at least in twenty years, the British nation looked into Indian affairs, and scanned narrowly the conduct of their agents in the East, a terror to evil-doers and a praise to them who did well. Then every grievance was sifted before the House of Commons. The veil of secrecy was removed, and a Burke and a Fox arose to judgment. A wholesome jealousy also existed of the powers and privileges of the Company, and this sentiment operated in favour of the Indian races. If periodical inquiries of this scope and solemnity were held at the present day, we might well be content to await the decision of such a tribunal upon the charges now brought forward. For, when we look into history we find that the renewals of the Charter were the epochs when abuses were checked, when great reforms were initiated, and the most valuable principles asserted for the governance of our great Eastern Empire. In this way, the commercial monopoly was removed, India was opened to the private enterprise of Englishmen; while for natives were secured the rights of citizens, and a claim to a fair share in the administration of their own country. Further, by means of these debates, a salutary feeling of responsibility with regard to India was maintained among English public men, who kept a watchful eye upon the doings of their countrymen in the East, recognising the fact that the Company could not be trusted to carry out in practice the mandates of the English people. Accordingly, when complaints were made, strong men were found ready to insist that justice should be done, and the offender was brought to public trial even though his services were as illustrious as those of Lord Clive, and though he was as highly placed as Warren Hastings. Now, unfortunately, since the old Company has disappeared, and the Crown has taken its place, this periodical stock-taking, this day of reckoning and of judgment has been lost to India. As there is no Charter to be renewed, there is no Parliamentary inquiry, and the Indian administration drifts on from year to year without independent scrutiny or control. Thus it happens that since 1858, when the Crown took over charge, a quarter of a century has elapsed without any independent audit of this great Indian trust, this estate of 576 millions of acres and 200 millions of souls. The actual management remains in the same hands as before. And the practical effect of the change is simply to relieve the Indian officials of their responsibility to Parliament, and to make perpetual the temporary lease of power which they before enjoyed. Moreover, the change from the Company to the Crown, though in many respects a mere change of name, has had a mischievous effect in lulling the wholesome jealousy and watchfulness of our public men in England, so that people are apt to indulge in a careless optimism, trusting that all is well, and that our great official hierarchy is administering India with singleness of heart for the good of the people, unswayed by personal interests or by the prejudices of class and race.

She then makes a suggestion:—

What machinery, then, is there for making an impartial, intelligent, and searching inquiry, in order that the Crown, with the Parliament representing its people, might know, by itself making the inquiry, how has been carried out the spirit of the Queen's Proclamation of twenty-five years ago, proclaiming with regard to our relation to the native races, governed by the Crown without Parliament and without people, that there are to be no race distinctions; that where there is fitness, the employment of natives and Europeans is to be alike; that race is not to be a qualification or a disqualification; that in the words of the Queen herself 'our subjects, of whatever race or creed, be impartially admitted to offices in our service, the duties of which they may be qualified by their education, ability, and integrity duly to discharge.'

Such an inquiry is now imperatively called for. What are the present resources in England from which a tribunal may be constituted to make inquiry and exact an account of the Indian stewardship? What is it to be? By whom is it to be made?

By Parliament? Parliament will not make it; it counts itself out. It is clear that some standing machinery is necessary: this is proved by the impossibility of getting members of the House of Commons to give careful consideration to any Indian question.

India has no members to represent it. Members are responsible to their own constituents, and are too busy and pre-occupied. Indian questions are difficult and distasteful, and without technical knowledge, an independent member can hardly speak effectively. Hence even for the Indian Budget once a year, forty just men can hardly be brought together to keep a House.

Might it be possible (I speak as a fool) for independent members who take interest in India, to organise themselves into a voluntary committee, so as to sift complaints, rejecting those undeserving of support, and co-operating to bring forward effectively in the House any real grievance?

That suggestion, made by Miss Florence Nightingale in 1883, was carried out by Sir W. Wedderburn. Miss Nightingale bases her suggestion on philanthropic considerations; but there was no necessity for her going so high for a motive.

Wisely or unwisely, England has blended its interests so thoroughly with those of India that the ruin of the one means the ruin of the other. And thus England is vitally interested in the protection of India, perhaps, as much interested as in its own. But do English people know whether the Empire is safe? They say, they do. That is to say, their servants assure their masters in England that it is all right here. We don't say that such an assurance has no value. But is it sufficient, considering the vast interests that are at stake? They say that they do know India, but we, who are natives of the country, have no such pretensions. The existence of the feeling which the ignorant classes betray during the plague-scare, was unknown to us; its display did not surprise us the less than it did the Europeans.

It is thus essential, purely for the safety of the Empire, that if there should be one party, entrusted with the task of ruling the country, there should be another party who should be enjoined to supervise over the administration. Miss Nightingale truthfully pointed out that this task of supervision cannot be fulfilled by Parliament; but it can be done by a Parliamentary Committee.

This Committee is now an accomplished fact. If properly conducted, it can do an incalculable amount of good. India is not represented. This Committee will represent India. There is none to supervise the actions of Indian administrators who have their own selfish interests to advance and maintain. This Committee can perform the work of supervision over these administrators on behalf of the English people.

Yet such a noble institution is doing no useful work, because of the direct and indirect opposition of the Front Liberal Bench, i. e., of Sir H. Fowler.

SIR H. FOWLER. Sir H. Fowler was selected by Mr. Gladstone himself, because of his ability, Liberal principles, and piety. But where are they gone now—his Liberal principles, and—?

Mr. Pickersgill, when delivering his incisive speech on the Loan Bill in Parliament, had to mention the names of Warren Hastings and Lord Clive. Sir Henry Fowler, upon this, was pleased to observe, "Had their [Warren Hastings and Lord Clive] proceedings been made the subject of Parliamentary enquiry, we should possibly not have had an Indian Empire." When Sir Henry Fowler said this, he was cheered! We don't take any serious notice of this cheer. For, it came from a miscellaneous company. But is not Sir Henry a very pious man? His remarks, however, show that moral considerations have no value whatsoever with him; on the other hand, he has no objection to put them aside, when they stand in the way of material interest. Under the principle, promulgated above, there is no harm in receiving stolen goods. Indeed, what Sir H. Fowler says is practically this: "Let us shut our eyes to what they do. They bring good things to us; let us enjoy the good things that they bring and let them alone." This principle, not only does away with God, religion, and Christianity, but all moral considerations also.

Half barbarians as we are, we Hindus have a theory by which we can explain this anomaly in Sir H. Fowler, a celebrated pious Churchman.

The great Shankara was an ascetic from his infancy. He came to realise that he must see society of which he was totally ignorant, to be able to secure a harmonious development of his soul. An opportunity presented itself, as he was thinking of this subject on the bank of the river Ganges. The dead body of the king, who had died a short time before, was brought to the river-bank for the purpose of cremation. Shankara immediately disclosed to his two pupils, who were by his side, his plans. He proposed that he would enter into the dead body of the king and thus fulfil his mission. He enjoined them to take care of his body, which he would leave to their charge.

One idea gave him trouble. He had heard that worldliness had its charms, and the greatest of saints oftentimes succumbed to them. So he addressed his pupils thus: "You see, I shall come back as soon as I shall have experienced what human society is like. But if I fail to come, and if you see me engrossed with worldly thought and pleasure, read to me my Mohammadgar slokas, and they will surely cure of my folly."

These slokas are known to everybody in India. They describe that life on earth is of short duration; that salvation is the one object of life, and worldliness is its greatest enemy. They describe what great fools they are who sacrifice their eternal souls for the transient things of this world. Well, Shankara entered the body of the king, and the attendants of the latter saw that he (the king) had regained life. So they carried him home to the joy of his people and relations. So Shankara ruled as king.

Shankara at first found human society not only insipid, but sometimes really odious. Inch by inch, however, he began to sink in the mire, unknown to himself, and eventually he became a man of the world, pure and simple. His disciples impatiently waited for him, and then hastened to him to bring him back. But he refused to come! He said, he was very well off, and he said impatiently that he had no mind to go to pass his days and nights in wilderness, when he had such fine palaces and other good things to make life so enjoyable.

The disciples were petrified with astonishment at this change in the great saint! They argued,—but he laughed at their arguments. He said, "this life is very sweet, let me enjoy it as long as I can. Begone you fools!"

The disciples then read to him his own slokas, and then Shankara came to realize that he was going to give up the kingdom of Heaven for the kingdom of Earth; and, he left the body of the king and returned to his own.

Mr. Gladstone found Sir H. Fowler to be the best-suited man in his party to take charge of India. The chief recommendation of Sir H. Fowler was his extreme piety; for, he was after the Kingdom of Heaven when Mr. Gladstone led him to take charge of the earthly Kingdom of India. He tasted office, and the sweets of sovereignty; and like Shankara, sank inch by inch in the mire of worldliness. Now he has come to love the Empire of India. He has probably altogether forgotten that Christ promised the Kingdom of Heaven and not of earth, and also that those who seek the Kingdom on earth have very little chance of finding the Kingdom of Heaven. We wish he had friends to read to him the Mohammadgar slokas of Shankara.

THE Lahore Tribune is doing a yeoman's service to the country by writing a series of able articles on the Garshanker riot and criticising the manner in which the alleged rioters were hauled up, tried, and sentenced to various terms of imprisonment. The reader is already aware that the police fired on the townspeople without authority, because some stones and brickbats were thrown at them, and killed nine men and wounded forty-eight others. Some of the battles, fought between the Americans and the Spaniards, cannot show such terrible result. But while the police, who acted in disobedience of the orders of their official superiors, were let off even without a word of censure, 48 inhabitants of Garshanker were sent up as rioters by the police. Now, mind, if some Garshanker people gave offence by stoning the police, the latter were also in the position of defendants for having killed and wounded so many men, all or many of whom, for aught one knows to the contrary, were perfectly innocent. But though the police were at least equally to blame as some of the Garshanker people, yet the same police were let loose upon the latter, to catch as many of those who offended their dignity as they could, and haul them up for trial! The riot occurred on the morning of the 28th April. Immediately after, says the Magistrate in his judgment, the police "entered the town arresting the rioters and turning the people out of their houses." But how could the police distinguish the real assailants from those who were mere spectators? Indeed, judging from the following extract from the judgment of the Magistrate, it appears that arrests, as usual, were made indiscriminately:—

The number of persons who may be supposed to have taken a part or an active part in causing the disturbance, must naturally be considered in excess of what this chalan by the police deals with, but so difficult has been the position of investigating officers, and so loath have been the people to say a word against their fellow-townsmen, that it certainly required a good deal of energy and tact in making the witnesses to depose and bear testimony to the real facts of the case; and the success that has been gained in the matter, is due solely to the joint action and unswerving loyalty of the Teshildar, &c.

It is thus quite clear that neither the police nor the investigating officers got any help from the fellow-townsmen of the accused persons; and the inevitable inference is that the police arrested the persons in a haphazard manner, and the Magistrate, in convicting them, had to rely solely upon police evidence. What is still more extraordinary is that the accused were undefended, and that they were practically debarred from calling any defence witnesses. Says the Tribune:—

When so much difficulty was experienced in getting the people to say a word against their fellow-townsmen, we should naturally think there would be no difficulty in getting a large number of the people to say a word for their fellow-townsmen. But not one witness was called or appeared for the defence. The whole town was out in the segregation camp, every entrance to and exit from which was guarded by the police; the police were the complainants and the whole town was in their power. What witness could have been called by the accused and would have given evidence in their favour?

Again:—

There was no lawyer to defend any of the accused. Two pleaders went from Hoshiarpur, but they had to come away, finding it was impossible to pierce the cordon, or, having penetrated it, to do anything else. Would the pleader like to be placed in quarantine for ten days after he had appeared for his clients, if he could find them? That was a dismal outlook, and no pleader could stay under such a condition.

Then, again, though the alleged rioters were arrested on the 28th April, the case was not instituted against them till the 14th May. But, if there was this unusual delay in instituting the case, it was made up by the extraordinary haste with which it was finished. In short, it took the Magistrate only five days to try these 48 persons and convict them! Let us sum up. Six thousand men of Garshanker were asked on the evening of the 27th April to evacuate the town the next morning. There was necessarily fearful confusion and excitement amongst them, specially as they did not know where to go to. An armed police were thereupon let loose in their midst, to compel them to leave their houses. Some complied, some hesitated, while a few cast some stones and brick-bats at the police. The result was that the police fired without or against orders, and massacred nine men and wounded forty-eight. Forty-eight townsmen were subsequently arrested as rioters, convicted and sent to jail. No counsel could be engaged to defend these men, nor any defence witness cited to say one word in their favour. It is a sad affair, from the beginning to the end,—very sad, indeed.

In India, almost every officer is a Press-censor. A Magistrate is a Press-censor, so is a District Police Superintendent, even a Police Inspector, nay, a Postal Officer is a Press-censor. We did not know, however, that every Telegraph Master is also a bit of it. It will be seen that under rule 9 of the Indian Telegraph Guide, which is quoted below, he can withhold any message which he considers objectionable:—

9. Telegraph Offices are required to refuse to transmit any telegram which may be of a decidedly objectionable or alarming character.

Should the character of a telegram be open to doubt, the matter shall be referred to a Secretary to Government, if the telegram be tendered at a seat of Government, or to the Chief Civil or Military Officer, if tendered at another place.

The object of the Government is, no doubt, to prevent mischief by the publication of obnoxious telegrams, and, therefore, it is laudable; but, are Telegraph Masters, who are, as a rule, not a highly-educated class of people, the proper parties to be entrusted with such authority? Of course there is the provision of referring the objectionable message to the nearest Civil or Military authorities. But, they are also oftentimes as much at sea about these matters as the Telegraph Masters. At any event, this means delay and annoyance, and very few correspondents will agree to serve a newspaper under such conditions. But, above all, where is the necessity for such a measure? If anybody sends anything that is calculated to do mischief, the law, as it stands, is quite sufficient to bring both the sender and the publisher of such a telegram to book. Why, then, this additional fetter upon the liberty of the press?

It requires no ordinary amount of tact on the part of an Indian Magistrate to be able to satisfy people, and stick to his appointment. Babu Romesh Chandra Dutt first pointed out the way. Some of his successors have done remarkably well; and one of them is Mr. S. C. Mukherjee of Khulna. His name occurs to us just now from the account of a very dirty case which, however, we must decline publishing in our columns, though we can give some main facts suppressing names. A complaint, we are told, has been filed in the court of a Deputy Magistrate in Khulna by a low-caste man to the effect that on the 20th June his wife was forcibly carried away from his house by a Sub-Inspector of Police with the help of his constables and that an outrage was committed upon her. The poor husband tried to rescue the woman from the alleged ruffians, but he was overpowered and thrashed so mercilessly as to fall senseless on the spot. The Deputy Magistrate brought the matter to the notice of the District Magistrate, Mr. Mukherjee, who was on tour, and he at once issued summonses upon the accused, including the Sub-Inspector, to appear before him on the 7th instant. The matter, we are told, has caused a good deal of sensation in the locality, especially as a Sub-Inspector of Police is implicated in the matter.

SOMETIMES animals create history; at least, it is on record that the cackling of a goose saved an Empire once. The fall of an apple led to the discovery of the laws of gravitation. A kingdom was lost for a horse. Need we multiply instances to show how important results are sometimes unexpectedly obtained by quite inadequate means? Just now there is great commotion in the metropolis of British India. There is a split in the Municipality, which has formed strange combinations fusing the aphrodisiacs into the representatives, arraying representatives against representatives, aphrodisiacs against aphrodisiacs, developing mutes into orators and threatening a division in the Congress camp itself! The matter has just been taken up by the press; and it is likely to draw the Government itself into the whirlwind. And what is all this for? It is because one Golab Roy, has erected a temple on the side of the river at Kalighat. We all know the story of Captain Marryat, how one great Empire was split into two great factions on the question whether it was an advantage to have a pimple on the nose or not. The question, we are told, destroyed three Cabinets, caused fifty-seven riots, and created fifty thousand newspaper articles and five hundred folios. The question was at last decided by one simple remark from a plain unlettered man who said that a pimple was or was not a qualification according to the taste of the individual! This solution, whatever its import, was accepted by the country and the Empire was saved. This case of Golab Roy, in the same manner, is also capable of a simple solution. Has Golab Roy erected a temple? If he has, he has undoubtedly done it. If he has not, it is equally certain he has not. Why then quarrel over such trifling matter and create a public scandal and a danger? Already the matter has gone too far. Who ever has seen representative members taking opposite sides? We see the Hon'ble Surendra Nath is opposed to the Hon'ble Narendra Nath. And if the Hon'ble Narendra Nath cuts off his connection with the Congress in a huff, what will Surendra Nath do then? For the sake of the Congress, they ought to forbear. And there was a hot discussion in the Municipal hall whether Babu Surendra Nath or Babu Surendra Nath was a good Hindu. The question is interesting no doubt, but the Municipal hall is scarcely the place for a hot discussion on the subject. We ourselves have a complaint against Babu Surendra Nath. Referring to the temple, the orator said:—

His countrymen knew the part which Radha played in Hindu mythology. There would be natches held there, the friends of the prostitutes would be there.

What does the orator mean in the above? "His countrymen" know the part Radha played in Hindu Mythology. And what next? His countrymen do know the part played by Radha-Krishna, and they worship the Divine Couple. Of course, Surendra Nath is welcome to have his own view of Radha-Krishna; but he had no right to declare it openly and commit a serious offence and to drag in his countrymen in that way. Hindus do set up images of Radha-Krishna; but do they do it to bring in prostitutes? How intensely we long to earn the privilege of setting up such an image! But if it falls to our good lot to be able to do so, will the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath come forward to declare that our object is to bring in prostitutes and friends of prostitutes? If Babu Surendra Nath wants to be a leader, he must give up abusing the objects held sacred by his countrymen. No Christian missionary, however mad with zeal, would have dared use the language which glibly came out of the tongue of the orator. As for Golab Roy, is there any evidence against him to suggest that he is a scoundrel, and that his setting up of the image is a plea, and his real object is debauchery? If there is any such, let it be brought forward; but it is not correct to say that the images of Radha-Krishna are set up for the purpose of encouraging prostitutes and their friends!

Here is a paragraph which appears in the Pioneer :—

Mr. Pherozeshah Mehta is gazetted Additional Member of the Viceroy's Legislative Council. He was recommended by the Additional Members of the Bombay Legislative Council, or rather, we should say, his recommendation was supported by six of the Additional Members, and opposed by six others. Mr. Mehta obtaining a majority only by voting for himself. Mr. Mehta's action in the matter has disgusted nobody more than his own compatriots; for, we find the Parsee paper, the Rast Gafar, writing on June 26:—"Once for all, it is essentially necessary that the Government of India should decide whether a member of the Council can vote for himself when the fitness of his own appointment to a seat in the Supreme Council is concerned. The question is one of great public interest. Although the rules on the subject may be silent, Government has plainly to decide whether, under the Legislative Council's Act, a seat in the Council may be obtained by what must be called a hollow majority—obtained by throwing into the balance one's own weight in a matter of one's own preferment. As a question of fair play and ethics, there cannot be two opinions." In the circumstances, the best thing Mr. Pherozeshah Mehta could do would be to resign.

The Pioneer is wrong in saying that the conduct of Mr. Mehta has disgusted his "compatriots." It has, no doubt, disgusted the Rast Gafar which is the organ of his opponent. Of the hundreds of Indian papers that have taken notice of his election, all have welcomed the success of Mr. Mehta excepting the Rast Gafar, which, as we said, is the organ of his opponent. So, it is not true to say that the "compatriots" of Mr. Mehta were disgusted at his conduct. The Pioneer recommends Mr. Mehta to resign. But why should he do it, when he is wanted by his countrymen? Indeed, his election has been hailed with enthusiasm by the entire country. There is another question: Why should the Pioneer ask him to resign? Is it because he is a friend of Mr. Mehta? Or he gives his advice in the guise of a friend, though his real motives are a little sinister? The belief in the country is that the presence of Mr. Mehta is not liked in the Council because of his ability and independence. If that be so, it is not good policy to betray nervousness in that manner. For, the likelihood is that the more he is pressed by the Pioneer to resign the more determinedly he will stick to his post. Anyhow he has only one vote, and despite his vaunted abilities, he is bound to succumb to the weight of numbers. If all the Government Members combine, would it be difficult to put him down? We don't think so.

India to hand has the following with reference to the Englishman's attack on the Patrika :—

The Englishman has lately thought proper to attack the Amrita Bazar Patrika, alleging that the latter's descriptions of popular feeling on the plague measures have done much to intensify the opposition, and more generally that the growing distrust with which the Indians regard the English, is due to such papers. It is not our intention to interfere in this controversy, wherein, no doubt, the Amrita Bazar Patrika will be able to give a good account of itself, but it may not be out of place to call attention to a temperate article in its issue of June 2, in which it points out some very much more probable causes of the growth of this distrust—the increasing number of young District Magistrates, the smaller control exercised over them, the frequent transfers, and the want of friendly consultation with Indians. And all this has been urged at least as strongly by the Pioneer and other Anglo-Indian newspapers as by the inculpated Amrita Bazar Patrika.

The Amrita Bazar Patrika has especially angered the Englishman by calling attention to the almost invariable acquittals of Europeans charged with killing Indians. But is the Indian Press to be blamed for demanding full enquiry in all such cases? Take the case of Dr. Laing. Attacked by a crowd, he and another doctor took refuge on a staircase up which only one person could come at a time. A lad of seventeen attempted to do so, and Dr. Laing at once shot him, so that he died soon after. The two doctors were thus in an impregnable position; and while his colleague stayed where he was, Dr. Laing descended almost immediately, and seeing five persons approaching him in the courtyard, he fired again. This time he killed a boy of twelve. Surely, here is a case in which there is no impropriety in demanding some further enquiry as to whether this bloodshed was necessary for self-defence, and in regretting that the matter was not referred to the sessions.

When we ventured to suggest that Dr. Laing should be put on his trial, we did it both in the interests of the public and Dr. Laing himself. Indeed, we said distinctly that no one perhaps had regretted the tragedy more sincerely than the Doctor, and he should be, therefore, given an opportunity in a court of law to prove that he acted in pure self-defence. Dr. Pearce, as the Indian Daily News pointed out, was made to go through a trial, though he was on a far better position than Dr. Laing, as the former did not shoot the man dead though he was charged with having murdered him. When one causes the death of another, even unconsciously and without any motive whatever, he is put on his trial. That is the law in this as well as in every civilized country. We were only for the maintenance of the majesty of the law when we asked for the trial of the Bombay Doctor.

SOME important questions arose in connection with the Critic's defamation case, which, we wish, were dealt with in a satisfactory manner by the presiding Judge. The case arose in this wise. One Mr. Fraser Nash prosecuted one Mr. G. O'Connell on a charge of misappropriation of money, and Mr. Allen, counsel for the defence, made a speech in court which was reported in some of the local dailies. The speech, as reported, contained serious allegations against Mr. Nash. The editor of the Critic, relying on this reported speech, wrote an article which was considered defamatory of Mr. Nash; and hence the case. Mr. Allen was cited as a witness by the prosecution, and in his evidence, he denied having slandered Mr. Nash in his speech in the way reported in the dailies. The question now is: how could the Critic be held responsible for having relied on this reported speech in two respectable daily papers and thus libelled Mr. Nash? His Lordship, in his summing-up, held that, "it was no defence in law to say that the defamatory matter complained of was copied from another paper." Quite so; but, in the present case, there were circumstances which ought to have been taken into consideration. Mr. Nash admitted having seen the report of the speech in one of the dailies; but, although he knew that the report was incorrect and that it contained libel against him, he did not take the trouble of contradicting it. He, however, pounced upon the Critic as soon as he saw the same report copied in that paper. Was not this rather hard upon the Critic? But the more important question is whether or not it is libellous to publish in newspapers the summary of counsel's speech, containing libellous statements. In short, were those daily papers which contained the summary of Mr. Allen's speech, equally liable to be prosecuted as the Critic? The matter concerns the daily papers vitally, as they have often to publish the speeches of counsel; and it is well known that the latter have the privilege of saying many unparliamentary things in the interests of their client.

THE Barrack-ones murder case, it will be seen, was taken up yesterday by the Chief Justice. The accused soldiers were provided with seats in the dock. Their counsel challenged every Indian juror, the result being that the jury was composed wholly of Europeans. We are glad that this was so.

MR. MACKIE, C. S. retires from the service.

THE Lieutenant-Governor of Burma holds a Durbar at Rangoon on the 25th instant.

THE trial of wood-paving the thoroughfare having proved a success in Rangoon, more is now being laid to extend the experiment.

MR. GILES, C. S., Central Provinces, joins the Political Department, and will be posted to Abu as one of the Assistants to the Agent to the Governor-General, Rajputana.

THE able manner in which Mr. Swaminatha Iyer has carried out the duties of officiating Dewan of Cochin has secured for him an extension of the office for three months.

DR. LEATHER, who is now home, has accepted the post of Agricultural Chemist and Lecturer to the Government of India at the Forest School at Dehra, and will shortly arrive in this country.

ARRANGEMENTS regarding the Viceroy's autumn tour will not be made until it is known who will succeed his Lordship and when he will arrive in India.

MR. THIRKELL WHITE, who is officiating as Judicial Commissioner, Upper Burma, will probably be confirmed in the appointment, as the post has now fallen vacant by the sad death of Mr. Burgess.

MR. T. W. HOLDENNESS has taken up the duties of his new appointment as Secretary to the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department, and Mr. G. R. Irwin has assumed officiating charge of the Thagi and Dacoity Department.

MR. ACRES officiates as Deputy Traffic Superintendent, North-Western Railway, vice Mr. Vining, on privilege leave. Mr. Schembry officiating as District Superintendent. Mr. Chase officiates as Locomotive Superintendent, Eastern Bengal Railway.

THE Madras Government have notified that a competitive examination will be held in December next for the purpose of filling up one vacancy in the Provincial Civil Service of Madras.

SYED ZULFIQAR ALI, a Zamindar of Meerut, has been sentenced to five years' imprisonment for taking a part in the Kankara murder case.

MR. JOHN MURRAY in his evidence before the Copyright Committee raised two points. One was the question of extracts in review of books; the other, the protection of news in the newspapers. On both points Mr. Murray desired to see the law amended and strengthened. He objected to "the habit of the newspapers to pick out the pith of a new book on the day of publication." This habit, he declares, "interferes largely with the sale of the book." But we doubt whether any amendment in these directions is necessary. There have been cases in the Courts recently, which showed that the existing law is able to give redress in cases of abuse.

SIR HENRY SEYMOUR KING has offered to guarantee the sum of 12,000 sterling for the provision of an adequate building and administrative staffs for the Indian Section at the Paris Exhibition of 1900. This munificent offer has been gratefully and unanimously accepted by the Executive Committee at a meeting of the Royal Commission, at which the Prince of Wales presided. A total area of about 58,000 square feet space has been allotted for the British Colonial possessions in the Trocadero Garden, and the Indian Committee has succeeded in getting about 22,000 feet of this space. It now remains to see what action, if any, the Indian Government will take, and whether they will decide to contribute collections from this country. If the latter are sent they will be exhibited in a building far larger than they have had at any previous International Exhibition.

THE Secretary of State of India has recently sanctioned a plan for placing Government publications within easier reach of the public by appointing a number of book-sellers to agents for their sale in India and England, and on the Continent of Europe, and by furnishing these firms periodically with complete lists of all the publications available. The plan originates in a proposal of Mr. G. A. Grierson, I. C. S., C. I. E., the Government Opium Agent in Behar, who is himself the author of a number of books and pamphlets issued by the Bengal Government. His proposal had special reference to publications of literary and scientific value, but it is equally applicable to all Government publications, from the half anna copy of an Act to the expensive tomes of the Archaeological Survey. In London there are now seven of these agents, viz., Arnold; Constable and Co.; Sampson Low; Marston and Co.; Kegan Paul, Trench, Trubner and Co.; Luzac and Co.; Bernard Quaritch; and H. S. King and Co. In Leipzig there are Messrs. O. Harrassowitz and Messrs. K. Hiersemann, in Berlin, Messrs. Friedlander; in Paris, Messrs. Leroux; and at the Hague, Messrs. Nyhoff. The list of agents in India comprises Messrs. Thacker, Spink and Co. and Messrs. Newmann and Co., of Calcutta; Messrs. Thacker and Co., of Bombay; and Messrs. Higgin Botham and Co., of Madras.

Calcutta and Provincial.
LORD GAURANGA
OR
SALVATION FOR ALL
BY
BABU SHISHIR KUMAR GHOSE.
Paper cover Rs. 1-12
Cloth bound Rs. 2-4
Postage extra.
To be had at the Patrika Office, Calcutta.

JU-T OUT
Indian Sketches
BY
Shishir Kumar Ghose
WITH AN INTRODUCTION
BY
W. S. Caine
(Extracts from the Introduction.)

I heartily commend to every cultured and earnest Indian, to every Christian Missionary, and also to every European who cares to look beneath the surface of Indian life and thought, the contents of this deeply interesting volume of miscellaneous articles from the pen of SHISHIR KUMAR GHOSE.
PRICE: 1 RUPEE AND 6 ANNAS.
To be had at the Patrika Office, Calcutta.

SNAKES, SNAKE-BITES
AND
Their Treatments.
PRICE ANNAS 12.
To be had of the Patrika Office.

FIRST SANSKRIT EXAMINATION.—The results of the First Sanskrit Examination held in February last, are published in yesterday's Calcutta Gazette.

EDEN CANAL RATES.—Yesterday's Calcutta Gazette publishes new rules and rates to be charged for water supplied from the Eden Canal, superseding those existing at present.

TIFFIN FOR JURORS.—The Sheriff of Calcutta provided a most sumptuous tiffin on Tuesday for the members of the special jury who are trying the Barrackpore Murder Case. The lunch will be continued daily till the trial of this case comes to a close.

THE POLICE COMMISSIONER.—Mr. James, the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, intended to go home on three months' leave next month, but owing to the pressure of his official duties through the plague, he has had to abandon the idea for the present.

ZOOLOGICAL.—Lieutenant-Colonel A. A. Buckland, I. S. C., has been appointed Joint Honorary Secretary and Honorary Treasurer to the Committee of Management of the Zoological Garden, Calcutta, vice Mr. T. A. Pope, resigned.

POSTAL.—Mr. G. S. Hooper, Mail Officer 1st class, Sea Post Office, Bombay, is appointed to act as Deputy Postmaster, Bombay, during the absence on deputation of Mr. E. R. Jardine, Deputy Postmaster, Bombay, to act as Presidency Postmaster, Bombay, or until further orders.

BLACK WATER FEVER.—Professor Koch says that there is a kind of fever known to Germans as Schwartzwasser feiber (black water fever) which has nothing to do with malaria, but is the result, in all probability, of the quinine treatment. At all events there was no case of this fever, in which it could be safely asserted that quinine poisoning was not present.

ACCIDENT TO A SOMNAMBULIST.—A sad accident, which threatens to terminate fatally, befell a girl at the Entally Convent on Monday. She got out of bed, and while still asleep dressed herself, and opening the door of a dormitory on the second floor, stepped out and fell on the ground below, sustaining injuries of so severe a character that she had to be removed to hospital, where she lies in a critical condition.

B. A. EXAMINATION RESULT.—Yesterday's Calcutta Gazette publishes the result of the last B. A. Examination. The Pass list contains 347 names. In Honour, in English 9 have passed in the first division; and 39 in the second; in Latin, one in the second; in French 1 in the first; in Sanskrit, 1 in the first and 9 in the second; in Arabic, 1 in the first; in Persian, 7 in the second; in Philosophy, 8 in the second; in History, 4 in the second; in Mathematics, 1 in the first and 5 in the second; and, in Physics 11 in the second.

A STRANGE PHENOMENON.—Last evening at about 7-40, a very strange meteoric phenomenon was witnessed in town. On the N. E. side a glowing light of unusual brilliancy suddenly burst forth, illuminating the horizon. Considerable sensation was produced among the populace, and the phenomenon was for some time the talk in everybody's mouth; and it is believed that such a meteor was never seen before. The explanation of this portent will be furnished by our brother of the Indian Mirror.

CROSSING THE ROOPNARAIN.—A most difficult problem in practical engineering which the Engineer officers of the Bengal-Nagpur Railway have to cope with is the spanning of that treacherous stream of water with its innumerable quicksands—the Roopnarain. It has cost the Company the loss of two officers and many subordinates. The main difficulty is in obtaining a foundation for the trestles. It would appear that a proposal was placed before the Directors of the Company for running an underground tunnel, beneath the river; the scheme, however, proving too costly, was abandoned.—L. Engineering CROP PROSPECTS IN BENGAL.—There was rain in all parts of the Province during the week ending the 11th, and the general agricultural prospects are favourable. Cultivation of winter rice is progressing, but more rain is required in some districts for purposes of transplantation. Early rice and jute are doing well, and the reports of the bhaddi crops in Bihar are good. Damage to early rice is reported to have been done by floods in Midnapur and by excessive rain in Noakhali. In Murshidabad the paddy plants in some of the fields in police station Jalangi have been destroyed by insects. Sugarcane and indigo crops are promising. No important change in the price of rice is reported. There is plenty of fodder everywhere. Cattle disease is still reported from some districts.

CALCUTTA UNIVERSITY.—The Senate will proceed, in the month of August, 1899, to the election of a Tagore Professor of Law for the term of one year, to commence on the 1st November, 1899. The salary of the Professorship is Rs. 9,000 per annum, and the Professor will be expected to deliver a course of not less than twelve lectures on one of the following subjects:—(1) The Interpretation of Deeds, Wills and Statutes in British India, (2) The Law of Torts in British India, (3) The Rules of Interpretation in Hindoo Law, with special reference to the Mimamsa aphorisms as applied to Hindoo Law. Candidates for the Professorship are requested to forward their applications to the Registrar on or before the 1st May, 1899, stating on which of the abovementioned three subjects they are prepared to lecture. Each candidate will forward with his application one hundred copies of a brief synopsis of his proposed lectures, and, if he so pleases, the same number of copies of his introductory lecture. The Professor will be expected to commence his lectures in November, 1899, to complete the delivery thereof in the following January, and to hold an examination of the students who have attended his lectures. He will be further required to send to the Registrar a complete manuscript copy of his lectures within five months from the commencement of the delivery thereof.

WANTED A KISS.—"Parent" writes to the Morning Post:—"I beg leave, through the medium of your widely-circulated paper, to voice a grievance which I hope you will be good enough to give insertion to in an early issue. The incident of which I have to complain will, I am sure from kindred occurrences, probably in the experience of other parents or guardians, move them to indignation at the treatment received. My eldest daughter, aged 14, attended Sunday School in the Protestant Church at Jubulpore last Sunday week, and forgot her umbrella there. The article was not missed until the Tuesday evening following when, having to attend school with her sister and cousin, the child remembered she had left it in the Church. Her aunt, the guardian of the two children above-named, with whom they are living, bade her go to the Church and enquire about it. The Church peon—a native who reads and writes English fluently and to whom the young girl's enquiry was addressed—assuming a tone of undue familiarity, promised to find the young lady's umbrella, if she would give him a kiss. The poor girl was naturally deeply offended and went home crying and related the circumstances to her aunt. On that lady communicating with the Church of England Chaplain, she received a reply both evasive and unsatisfactory. Now some people, particularly those who are neither parents nor guardians, may be disposed to make light of this occurrence; but no well-disposed nor considerate person will, I am sure, do so, when the increasing insolence and aggressiveness of the native of the present day is taken into account. One would reasonably expect this kind of insolent behaviour would be promptly and firmly repressed by those who are directly responsible.

THE Maharanes of Vizianagram and her daughter will be leaving shortly for Benares and thence they intend visiting Madras.

Money Market and Trade
Calcutta, 13th July 1898

Government Loans.
3 per cent	88 nominal
3½ per cent Loans	96 4 to 96 5
One month's sight	96 4 to 96 5
Small sums	96 8 to 96 9
Calcutta Port Trust Debentures.
4½ per cent of 1881-1883	Rs. 105
5½ per cent of 1883	115
5 per cent of 1895	123
Interest and Discount.
Bank of England from 7th April 1898	3½
Bank of Bengal from 7th July 1898	7½
Bank of Bombay from 5th May 1898	9½
Bank of Madras from 18th Apr. 1898	8½
Exchange on London.
Bank Wire Demand	13 11-16
3 Month's sight	13 23-32
6 Month's sight	13 25-32
12 Month's sight	13 13-16
3 Month's do D A	13 15-16 (Steady)
6 Month's do D P	13 23-32
12 Month's do D P	13 29-32
12 Month's do D P	13 13-16
Calcutta Municipal Debentures.
5 Per cent of 1878 (1908)	106
5 Per cent of 1884-85 (1905)	105
5 Per cent of 1886-87 (1915)	106
5 Per cent of 1888-89 (1916)	110
5 Per cent of 1889-90 (1918)	111
5 Per cent of 1890-91 (1919)	112
5 Per cent of 1891-92 (1920)	113
4½ Per cent of 1892-93 (1921)	101
4½ Per cent of 1895-96 (1921)	106
3½ Per cent of 1896 (1911)	100
3½ Per cent of 1896 (1911)	97
The following transactions were reported to-day:—
(Ordinary)
Howrah	127 128
Budge Budge	133 134
National	113 114
Fort Gloster	130 131
Do New Issue	15 16
Baranagore	premium
Kankarnath	70 71
Dunbar cotton	113 114
Bowreah cotton	80
Singlet Tea	77 78
Dehing Tea	80
Gelle Tea	45 46
India General	57 58
Bengal Assam	113 114
Do	2 and 3 pm.
Do	Par and 1 pm.

TOOLSY DAS ROY AND BROTHERS

PLAGUE IN CALCUTTA

FRIDAY'S OFFICIAL RETURNS.

There were 2 seizures - one in Ward 8 and one in Ward 14. There were 6 deaths - one in each of the following Wards: 1, 3, 10, 14, and two in Ward 8. The total seizures up to date have been 168; and the total deaths 133. The seizure in Ward 8 was that of Mahomed Ally, living at 12, Colootolla Street. He was removed to the Medical College Hospital, where he died, the case being reported by the Principal. The seizure in Ward 14 was that of Mrs. Eaton, who died at 11, Komedan Bagan Lane. Her house was disinfected, the case being reported by Dr. Path of the Vigilance Committee. The four deaths were those of Prapat Kalamer at the Mayo Native Hospital, Shaik Gurjan, Panchu (Dome) and Golap at the Medical College Hospital.

SATURDAY'S OFFICIAL RETURNS.

There were five suspected cases on Saturday - one in each of the Wards 6, 10, and 12, and two in Ward No 7. There were two deaths, - one in each of the Wards 6 and 10. The total number of deaths in the city from all causes was 24.

SUNDAY'S OFFICIAL RETURNS.

There were no suspected cases or deaths on Sunday. The total number of deaths from all causes was 38.

MONDAY'S OFFICIAL RETURNS.

On Monday there was no suspected case. There were three deaths, one in each of Ward 6, 7 and 12. The number of deaths in the city from all causes was 31.

TUESDAY'S OFFICIAL RETURNS.

On Tuesday there were two suspected cases - one in each of Wards 7 and 12. There was no death. The number of deaths from all causes in the city was 38. There is the following note to the blue paper: "Serial No. 171 of 7th July, proved not to be plague, eliminated, and one death wrongly eliminated on the 4th July replaced."

WEDNESDAY'S RETURNS.

Up to 6 P. M. Wednesday four cases were reported to the Health Officer: (1) Phalarum De, from Prosonna Kumar Tagore's house, Patuiringhata; (2) Romjan, from 40, Machooa Bazar Street; (3) Janken, from Kapalitoh Lane; (4) Gour Bystob, from 131 Manicktohal Street, Simla Bazar. The death of the first named patient was reported.

MEDICAL COLLEGE REPORT.

Up to 6 o'clock yesterday there was no admission or death in the Medical College Hospital.

THE SHALIMAR TRAGEDY.

The case against three men, charged with rioting, murder, and culpable homicide not amounting to murder, of the Austrian, Joseph Siewald, who was pursued and drowned in the river off Shalimar Point, has been concluded at the Howrah Criminal Sessions, presided over by Mr. Richardson, the Sessions Judge. He occupied several hours in summing up the voluminous evidence adduced in the case. The jury returned and declared that they were unanimous in their verdict of "not guilty" in respect to all three charges. The Judge, in declining to accept the verdict, intimated that he would refer the matter to the High Court.

RAISING A FALSE ALARM.

The trial of the man Fulchand Mistry employed in the Loco Department of the Howrah Railway, who stood charged with raising a false alarm that he had seen a man being forcibly seized in Calcutta, and removed to hospital by the plague officers, has been concluded at the court of Mr. C. N. Bannerji, Deputy Magistrate of Howrah. The accused has been convicted under Section 505, I. P. C., and sentenced to two months' imprisonment.

DOMES REFUSING WORK.

Owing to four deaths having taken place from plague among domes in the Medical College Dead House, they have in a body refused to handle or to do anything with dead bodies of plague patients. It is said that most of these four domes had fallen victims to the disease through direct inoculation. We are told that the students are now made to do the dome's work - such as weighing dead bodies, lifting them up on the tables, washing out the contents of the bowels, &c.

PROVED NOT TO BE PLAGUE.

From 24th June to 9th July, three seizures and one death have been proved not to be plague. These have accordingly been eliminated, the result being that the total of true cases up to date is 170, and of deaths, 137.

A CORRECTION.

It is not a fact that the four domes of the Medical College Dead House who died of plague had been inoculated. The right expression is that they died "through direct inoculation."

WEEKLY STATEMENT OF INOCULATIONS.

The weekly statement of inoculations performed by Drs. Cook and Christie in Calcutta, from the 3rd to the 9th instant, shows that of Hindus 33 male and 22 females, Mohammedan 59 male and 26 females, European 3 male and 28 females, other nationalities 9 male and 13 females, making a total of 173 in all. The number of inoculations has somewhat decreased for the past week or so.

THE RECENT MEHTER AND COOLIE STRIKE.

The Corporation of Calcutta has profited by the recent mehter and coolie strike in all the Wards of the town over the inoculation scare to the tune of Rs. 3,000, as these men left in a body without receiving their previous month's wages, and the accumulated amount now goes into the coffers of the Municipal Corporation.

RESIGNATION OF A PLAGUE OFFICER.

Dr. Stevens, who was attached on plague duty as District Medical Officer of Wards Nos. 8 and 9, has resigned his appointment and proceeded to Bombay. Dr. Mackenzie is temporarily officiating in his place.

DR. DYSON'S VIEWS.

Dr. Dyson, Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal, is of opinion that there are hopeful signs that the plague is not spreading, and is still keeping sporadic. It has not gone into the Provinces yet, also a very hopeful sign.

RECOVERY.

A resident of 20, British Indian Street, who was supposed to have been seized with the plague and was allowed to be segregated on the premises is said to be rapidly recovering.

THE BOAT MANJEES.

It is said that all the boatmen of the country and cargo boats, who ran away owing to the plague scare, have returned and resumed their former duties.

BURIALS AND BURNING GHATS.

The Commissioners of the South Suburban Municipality have adopted steps for the registration of deaths at the burning ghats and the examination of corpses. With a view to carrying this out efficiently they have asked the District Magistrate of Alipur to move the Government to sanction the adoption of the following bye-laws: - (1) No keeper of a burial or burning ground shall bury, burn, or allow to be buried or burnt any corpse unless such corpse is accompanied by a death certificate from a person empowered by the Chairman to grant such certificate or doctor who attended the patient or the Ward Commissioner; such certificate to be filed. (2) Every corpse brought to a burning ghat or a burial ground without a certificate shall be examined by the keeper of each burning ghat or burial ground without the corpse being touched. He shall forthwith send information to the Medical Officer of the Municipality who will proceed at once to the burial grounds or burning ghats, and ascertain the cause of death.

THE PLAGUE.

ON Tuesday there were 12 cases and 7 deaths in Bombay. In Karachi, there were 3 cases and 4 deaths.

THE Dacca Gazette complains that the newly-appointed Sanitary Officers of the local Municipality are showing rather an over-zeal, by demolishing privies and doing other acts, to the great trouble of the inhabitants.

THE Madras Government propose shortly to open an inspection on the Ganjam frontier in order to protect the northern part of the Presidency from the introduction of plague from the north. Other arrangements are, we understand, to be made to watch the whole Ganjam frontier.

THE attention of the Madras Government was recently called to the fact that the baskets in which ducks were imported into Bombay from Conjeevaram were returned again to Conjeevaram as empties. Such a proceeding was a distinct danger to this Presidency, as these dirty filth-stained baskets might have readily conveyed the dreaded germs of plague. Government has just forbidden the continuance of this practice.

IN consequence of the fortunate circumstance of the almost total disappearance of plague from the Punjab, the large staff on duty on the spot has already been considerably reduced, and after the 15th instant, the following only will remain: 3 civil officers, 2 commissioned medical officers, 6 naib-tahsildars, 8 hospital-assistants, and 2 dhows. This staff will be primarily for observation purposes, moving about and paying frequent visits to villages, but will be available for actual plague work in the event of a recrudescence of the disease.

A NAGPUR correspondent writes: - In view of the marked cessation of plague in Bombay, Poona, and elsewhere directly connected by railway with Nagpur, the authorities here have greatly modified the plague regulations which had been initiated to protect this station against the importation of the scourge. The segregation camps at Indora and Vidul, which had been hastily run up on the first scare, have now become things of the past, and not a single hut of the several which had been erected to serve as hospitals is now to be seen, and it is just as well they have been pulled down, for their material and their location must have been proved a source of no little embarrassment had it been found necessary to utilise them at the present season, and under the existing conditions of the weather. The precautions at present are limited to the examination of passengers at the railway station, and those found suffering from fever, or otherwise suspected, are detained at the Mayo Hospital for a limited time. No quarantine exists, passengers from the Calcutta direction are examined by the military authorities at Kamptee.

THE total number of persons examined at the four observation camps from the up-trains during the fortnight ending 26th June was 21,003, out of which 800 "suspects" were detained - 613 at Chousa, 97 at Mairwa, and 90 at Chakradherpur. The total number examined in the down-trains was 27,948, and of these 749 were detained - 509 at Chousa, 110 at Chakradherpur, 110 at Kharda, and 20 at Mairwa.

HIS Excellency the Governor of Madras in Council directs that all passengers, who arrive at Podanur from plague-infected parts on their way to the Nikiris, shall, with reference to the revised maffasil Regulation 17, obtain passports from the medical officer in charge of the plague-inspection station at Podanur before proceeding further.

THE appointment on account of plague inspection of ships of an Assistant Port Health Officer for Cocanada, made by the Collector of Godavery, has been approved, and a fee of Rs. 5 for each vessel inspected by him has been ordered to be paid from Port Funds.

TEN days' quarantine imposed at Porbander against the inhabitants of that infected town, requiring them to receive necessary certificate before leaving the place, has just been removed.

WRITES our Bankipore correspondent: - We are very much thankful to Sir John Woodburn for issuing the following letter to the Commissioner of Patna: - "I am desirous to suggest that, having regard to the serious consequences that may arise from premature or injudicious action under the Plague Regulations, it would be well for you to instruct the District Officers of your Division, that all plague orders which they intend to issue, should be previously submitted to you for approval. In cases of clear urgency action must of course be taken by them beforehand, but in these cases the facts should be reported to you for confirmation." The District Magistrate of Patna has suggested that three Hospitals should be opened in Patna City, one in Dinapore, one in Barh and one in Bihar and 30 armed Constables under 3 Head Constables should be posted to the Hospitals at Patna, 10 at Dinapore, 8 at Bihar and 6 in Barh, under one Head Constable. No doubt these are precautionary measures taken by the Magistrate, of course with good intentions; but it must be borne in mind that these are sufficient to create panic and unrest among the lower classes of people. The other day Dr. Sadul Huq, of Patna City, reported to Dr. Asdar Ali Khan, the Health Officer, that a certain gentleman of Mohulla Lodikatra was suffering from bubonic plague and requested him to examine the patient at once. Dr. Asdar Ali hurriedly went to the spot, but, to his great delight, found that it was a case of simple fever.

GOVERNMENT NOTIFICATIONS.

THE following Probationary Dy Collectors are posted to the head quarters stations of the districts mentioned opposite their names: -

Babu Purna Chandra Maulik M.A., B.L., Murshidabad. Babu Srish Chunder Basu, B.A., 24-Parganas. Maulvi Abu Naser Mohammad Ali, B.A., Dacca. Mr. A. E. Staley, Offg. Dist. and Sessions Judge, Hooghly, is transferred to Muzaffarpore. Rai Mohendra Nath Gupto, Bahadur, Dy Magre. and Dy Coll., on furlough, is posted to Hooghly.

Babu Srinath Sen, Officiating Dy. Magistrate and Dy. Collr, Howrah, is transferred to Baraset. The following Asst Stms of Police, second grade, on probation, are confirmed in that grade, with effect from the 8th May 1898: - Messrs. W. Swain, A. E. O'Sullivan, E. G. Hart, J. E. Armstrong, H. A. S. Burt. Maulvi Muhammad Napi Khan, Special Sub-Registrar, Champaran, is transferred to Purnea.

Babu Girwardhari Lal, Special Sub-Registrar, Purneah, is transferred to Monghyr. Maulvi Shah Mohammad Yakub, Special Sub-Registrar, Monghyr, is transferred to Champaran. Rai Bhuban Mohan Raha Bahadur, Special Sub-Registrar, Bankura, is allowed leave, without allowances, for six months. Maulvi Zulfikar Haidar, Special Sub-Registrar, Dumka, is transferred to Bmnkura. Maulvi Syed Kasim Ali Khan, Rural Sub-Registrar of Rajmahal, is transferred to Dumka.

The order of the 23rd June, 1898, appointing Babu Bimwar Lal Banerji, M. A., B.L., to act as a Munsif of Dinajpur, is cancelled. Babu Durga Charan Ghosh, Sub-Judge, is allowed leave for three months.

Babu Ramapati Dey, Munsif of Kasba, is transferred to Dacca. Babu Mohendra Nath Dass, Munsif of Dacca, acting for him. Babu Norendra Nath Ghose, B.L., is appointed to act as a Munsif of Kasba during the absence on leave of Babu Mohendra Nath Dass. Babu Munsif of Munshiganj, but to be on deputation at Narayanganj. He will, however, continue to act in his present appointment.

Babu Koylsh Chunder Sen, Munsif of Ghatila, is allowed leave for five n days. Babu Advaita Prasad De, Munsif of Patiya, is allowed leave for seven days.

Babu Bipin Behari Sen, Munsif of Dirbhanga, is allowed leave for one month. Babu Protap Chandra Mozoomdar, Munsif of Munshiganj, is allowed leave for one month in extension of the leave granted to him.

Babu Hriday Nath Mozoomdar, Munsif of Brahmanbaria, is allowed leave for eight days, in extension of the leave granted to him. The leave for one month granted to Babu Brajendra Lal Dey, Munsif of Dinajpur, is cancelled.

Babu Ramlal Dutt, Munsif of Nilphamari, is allowed leave for three weeks. Babu Advaita Prasad De, Munsif of Patiya, is allowed leave for four days in extension of the leave granted to him.

THE following Probationary Sub-Deputy Collectors are posted to the head-quarters stations of the districts mentioned opposite their names: - Babu Nirad Krishna Ray, B.A., Myrmensingh. Sisir Kumar Chatterjee, B.A., Bhagalpur. Khandji Sahay, B.A., Shahabad. Mr. C. C. Pereira, Howrah. Babu Jages Chandra Dutt, substantive pro tempore Sub-Deputy Collector, Buxar, Shahabad, is allowed leave for one month.

Babu Kaylsh Chunder Chatterjee, Sub-Deputy Collector, Nator, Rajshahi, is allowed leave for three months. Babu Chintaharan Chatterjee, substantive pro tempore Sub-Deputy Collector, on leave, is posted to Nator.

Dr. J. L. Hendley, acting as Inspecting Medical Officer, Khurda Road Station, is appointed to be Civil Medical Officer of Puri. Dr. V. L. Watts, Officiating Civil Medical Officer of Bogra, is acting for him.

THE Madras High Court opened on Monday after a long vacation, Justice Shephard officiating as Chief Justice during Sir Arthur Collins' leave. The temporary vacancy caused by Sir Arthur's leave has been filled by Mr. Lewis Moore, a senior Sessions Judge. The latter took his seat in the High Court.

ONE result of the Mad Mullah's rumoured doings has been the temporary check of trade along the Chitral road. The panic among traders has, however, begun to diminish. In connection with the Sutrapur (Dacca) riot, a local paper says that four sepoys and eight Mussalmans have been arrested. It is said that the authorities are trying to have the matter amicably settled.

THE other day a Burman Sub-divisional Officer, while hearing a case, flung from the bench a book at a witness, and afterwards caused a third-grade advocate to be forcibly pushed down the stair-case from the Court. The matter was reported to the Judicial Commissioner who ordered an enquiry to be held. The District Magistrate submitted the result of his inquiries to the Lieutenant-Governor who has just passed orders, reprimanding the Sub-divisional Officer.

THE Gondal State has notified the introduction, from the 1st July, of the Company's Act of 1882 in its jurisdiction with all the modifications and subsequent alterations made therein.

A MARINE court of inquiry on the burning of the Ganges has been opened at Bombay. Four possible hypotheses as to the origin of the fire were suggested tentatively to the court at Monday's sittings - namely, (1) spontaneous combustion in the coal bunkers, (2) fusing of electric wires, (3) carelessness with regard to lights, and (4) some incautious action on the main deck. Until however the ruined bulk of the old Ganges has been pumped dry and an inspection made of the interior - an operation that has already been started - the court can have no special reason to prefer any one of these four theories. The captain of the vessel, when under examination on Monday, declared it to be impossible to offer any explanation of the outbreak at present.

Telegrams.

INDIAN TELEGRAMS.

SIMLA, JULY 11. It is most likely that Surgeon-General Cleghorn will retire from the service on the expiry of his leave, and that Dr. Harvey will be confirmed in his place. The man who was assaulted by Mr. Lubbock is, I hear, getting better every day.

The last meeting of the Famine Commission was held to-day. The Report is expected early in September next. It is rumoured here that Sir John Woodburn will come up to Simla to confer with the Plague Committee.

We hear instructions have been issued to all Departments of the Government of India to prepare memorandums of Lord Elgin's administration.

SIMLA, JULY 3.

Mr. Ribbentrop, Inspector-General of Forests, left Simla this morning for an extensive tour in Burma.

At next Friday's meeting of the Viceroy's Legislative Council, besides the passing of the Paper Currency Bill, the Hon'ble Mr. Rivaz will introduce a Bill to make a better provision for the regulation of the importation of live stock.

FOREIGN TELEGRAMS.

LONDON, JULY 8.

The rumours of peace negotiations between the American and the Spanish Governments are denied at Madrid.

It is believed at Washington that much in way of peace overtures hinges upon the attitude of the Powers.

LONDON, JULY 8.

M. Michel de Giers has been appointed Russian Minister to China, replacing M. Despeyer, who is transferred to Rio de Janeiro.

LONDON, JULY 8.

China has notified to Great Britain that, in accordance with the Treaty of Tientsin she now desires a revision of the tariff.

LONDON, JULY 9.

Mr. Alger, the American Secretary of State for War, has received a telegram from General Shafter indicating that negotiations for the capitulation of Santiago are proceeding.

LONDON, JULY 9.

The rising of Black-Flags in Kwangsi and Ywanguan is assuming grave proportions. It is believed that the rebellion is largely due to the collection of likin dues. The rebels, have captured Moning and Tiempak, and are now surrounding Wuchuenhsien. In Kwangtung province many likin officials have been killed, and the orders have also arisen at Shikiang (? Chinking) in the Yangtse Valley, where the Chinese are impeding the navigation of the river.

LONDON, JULY 10.

Advices from Peking state that Russia's latest threat to seize Kuldja has caused the greatest consternation among the Chinese, who now declare that it is better for China to die immediately than to suffer the torture of losing limb after limb. It is, however, considered possible that Count Pavloff, acting Russian Minister to China, has exceeded his instructions, in view of the fact that he is summarily finishing the negotiations with which he has been entrusted by his Government.

LONDON, JULY 10.

President M'Kinley, after conferring with Mr. Alger, the Secretary of State for War, has decided that America is unable to entertain the Spanish proposal for allowing the garrison of Santiago to retreat. The President, therefore, demands an unconditional surrender of the Spanish Garrison.

LONDON, JULY 10.

The rebels in China consist of Blackflag and Annamite deserters and are under the leadership of three foreigners whose nationality is not stated. The rebels are now marching to the Lienchu Peninsula to attack the French. Three thousand Manchu troops have gone to Wuchau.

LONDON, JULY 10.

Russia has withdrawn her opposition to the extension of the Northern Railway on learning that the line is to remain under the Chinese control.

LONDON, JULY 11.

The Times' telegram from Madrid says that the Spanish Cabinet, being hopelessly divided, has resigned. The formation of a new Cabinet with a strong military element, capable of maintaining order at home and making terms of peace, is expected.

LONDON, JULY 11.

It is notable that a movement in favour of peace is becoming apparent in Spain, and it appears that the main difficulty in bringing hostilities to an end is the military ardour of Marshall Blanco's undefeated troops at Havana.

LONDON, JULY 11.

The second battalion of the Grenadier Guards sail for Gibraltar on Wednesday. The truce between the American and Spanish forces at Santiago expiring, and General Foral, Spanish Commander, refusing to surrender unconditionally, hostilities were resumed on Sunday. The Spaniards opened fire with light guns, which the Americans soon silenced. During this engagement only three Americans were wounded.

LONDON, JULY 11.

The disturbances in China are spreading. Rioters have attacked the Protestant and Catholic Missions at Shung Chinfu, and the brigands have captured a French priest, for whose release they demand a heavy ransom. The situation has become critical. The Foreign Consuls at Chungking are maintaining a strict watch.

LONDON, JULY 11.

Three of the American warships yesterday fired shells over the cliffs near Santiago in the hope of striking the town at a distance of five miles inland, but the bombardment proved quite ineffective, owing to the impossibility of obtaining sufficient elevation for the guns though the ships were listed to the utmost limit.

LONDON, JULY 11.

More troops have been landed in Cuba, and General Shafter hopes to complete the investment of Santiago to-day.

LONDON, JULY 11.

Mr. Thomas Owen, Liberal Member for Launceston Division of Cornwall, has been found drowned in a pond near his Welsh seat.

LONDON, JULY 11.

Lord Arthur Hill, Conservative Member for West Down, has resigned his seat.

LONDON, JULY 12.

General Miles and Staff have arrived at Santiago, the Commander-in-Chief having a conference with Admiral Sampson immediately on arrival.

LONDON, JULY 12.

The Naval bombardment of Santiago was resumed yesterday, and lasted for two hours, when General Shafter signalled to the fleet that shells were mostly falling short. The last shot fired by the fleet, however, struck a church in the heart of the city in which were large stores of munitions of war, which exploded. Fears are expressed at Washington that the garrison of Santiago may escape to the mountains.

LONDON, JULY 12.

Applications for the six-million sterling Indian loan, bearing interest at 2 per cent, opened to-day. The total amount tendered was 22,35,300 at the average price of £88-10. Tenders at £88-5 receive one per cent of their applications above in full.

LONDON, JULY 12.

It is semi-officially announced at Madrid that Spain will continue the struggle with America till she is able to attain an honourable peace, cost whatever sacrifices it may.

LONDON, JULY 12.

Latest despatches from Santiago state that General Shafter has sent a message to the Spanish Commander that further resistance is hopeless, to which General Toral has replied that he must again refer to Madrid for instructions. The American investment of the lines was completed yesterday afternoon, the Spaniards offering little resistance.

LONDON, JULY 12.

Owing to a case of plague on the steamship Carthage the vessel has been quarantined at Moses Wells, the mails being transhipped to the steamer Isis. The case was that of a stoker on the Carthage who was landed at Aden.

LONDON, JULY 13.

General Toral, in replying to General Shafter's message that further resistance by the garrison of Santiago was hopeless reiterated his determination to resist to the last. Notwithstanding the Spanish Commander's refusal to capitulate, the American batteries have not renewed the bombardment of Santiago. Torrential rains prevent the mounting of siege guns, and yellow fever has broken out amongst the troops at Caimamera, Guantanamo, and elsewhere on the Cuban coast.

LONDON, JULY 13.

The Cabinet crisis at Madrid hangs fire.

LONDON, JULY 13.

A speech, made in the French Chamber of Deputies on the 7th instant by M. Cavaignac, Minister of War, has re-opened the whole of the Dreyfus controversy, and has led to the arrest of Major Esterhazy.

LONDON, JULY 12.

The Kwang rebels have captured nine towns and defeated the Chinese Regulars near Wuchau, which has been placarded with posters announcing that the war is directed against officials. The Canton authorities are negotiating for the supply of machine guns.

LONDON, JULY 13.

The Times rejoices at the success of the new Indian loan, because of the assistance it will afford the Indian Government. A large syndicate, which had applied for the whole of the loan, was greatly disappointed, its bid being sixpence too low.

LONDON, JULY 13.

The Duke of Norfolk, Postmaster-General, announces the establishment of a penny postage between Great Britain and Canada, Newfoundland, the Cape, Natal, and also all the Crown Colonies, desiring to join. The Times concludes that India is included in this concession. The date for the reduced postal rate coming into force has not yet been fixed.

LONDON, JULY 13.

THE Madras Government has sanctioned the grant of Rs. 25,000 for the Victoria Students' Hostel, which it promised to give at a public meeting convened two years ago, to commemorate the late Professor Ranganadham's services to the Presidency.

LONDON, JULY 13.

THE Madras Government has been humbly inquiring as to the number of orphans left on the hands of Government at the close of the late famine, and the Collectors of affected districts were requested to report. The reports have been sent in, and the number is surprisingly small. The Acting Collector of Vizagapatam reported "None." So did the Acting Collectors of Bellary and Cuddapah, and the Collector of Godavari. The Collector of Anantapur reported that a boy of six years age had been left at Dharmavaram with no one to support him but arrangements had been made for the adoption of the boy by a family of the same caste. The Collector of Ganjam reported that there had been seven. Of these seven little ones, to had been taken over and adopted by their caste people without any pecuniary remuneration. A third had died, and a fourth had been given over to a Haddi for adoption with a magnificent present of Rs. 50 from the Indian Famine Charitable Relief Fund; while a fifth, a girl, had been handed over to her maternal uncle. A sixth had died of small-pox, and the last had been taken charge of by a relative. The Acting Collector of Kurnool had five, whose present conditions and prospects have yet to be reported. Only thirteen orphans as the survivors of a serious famine is a small number - too small, of course, to be the actual sum total of the little ones.

THE NEW LOAN BILL.

SIR WILLIAM WEDDERBURN'S AMENDMENT. The adjourned debate on Sir William Wedderburn's amendment to the motion for the second reading of the East India Loan Bill, declaring that this House declines to sanction a sterling loan of £10,000,000 until a Select Committee on an examination of the East India accounts, shall have reported that such loan is in the interest of the Indian taxpayer, and will not unduly increase the burden he now sustains, was resumed.

Mr. Swift MacNeill, supporting the amendment, complained that there were no words in the Bill limiting or defining the specific purposes to which the money was to be applied. There was a proposal, however, that over two millions and a half should be expended on railways. Why should not these railways be left to private enterprise? He believed this sum would not be expended in the interests of the Indian people, but in the interests of English capitalists and of the iron and steel traders of this country. On the other hand, there was the greatest stinginess in expenditure on such works as irrigation, because in such works the labour would be unskilled, and would therefore be Indian. The noble lord by his triumphant plea as to India paying its way, pointed out that while the revenue in this country fluctuated in times of adversity, it was stable during similar periods in India. But why was that? Because the means of life were mercilessly taxed in India. If the unfortunate people who earned an average of three half-pence a day wanted to buy a pennyworth of salt, which was absolutely necessary in a rice-eating country, they had to pay 1s. 6d. for it. And it was now proposed to raise ten millions sterling on the resources of a country taxed in that brutal fashion. The people of India had no influence on the votes for members of Parliament. It was a terrible thought that the humblest map in this country who dropped a vote on paper into a ballot box exercised more influence on the legislation of the House than the millions of India. The people of India should on that account have all the more influence on the consciences of members of the House. Yet those members who tried to do their best for the people of India were subjected to unfriendly and discourteous criticism at the hands of the noble lord the Secretary for India. If India had self-government, the country would be governed in the interest of its own people, and not as now for the benefit of a class in this country. (Cheers.)

Mr. Henry Fowler said: Some misstatements, or perhaps, misunderstandings of fact, have been set before the House, and I think I should not be doing my duty if I did not attempt to correct them, especially as the forms of the Indian Bill, the Secretary of State for India prevent the opinion of the admirable manner in which India is governed, and of the high character which the great Indian civil service bears, and which has been sustained during the past 120 years. (Hear, hear.) I can assure those hon. gentlemen who have been betrayed into expressions of censure upon that department of the public service that they do not represent to any appreciable extent the feelings of the members of this House or of the public outside. (Hear, hear.) I was amused just now by my hon. friend behind me when he referred to Warren Hastings and Lord Clive, and intimated that the present Viceroy should have the same meed of honour awarded to him in respect of the men's aequi in arduis as has been awarded to them. I may suggest that if proceedings discussed in this House on frequent occasions, and if those proceedings had been made the subject of Parliamentary enquiries, we should possibly not have had an Indian Empire. (Hear, hear.) There are four points upon which hon. members have completely misunderstood the facts. The hon. member for South Donegal always deals in superlatives, and we are obliged, when he addresses us about India, or Ireland, or England, to have discount tables with us for immediate use. (Laughter.) He stated that a burden of 16 millions was imposed upon the taxpayers of India for the purpose of meeting home charges, and he described the money as going to half-pay officers, and others. I ventured at the time to correct him to the extent of half the sum which he mentioned, and he did not dispute my correction, but treated it as airy, as if the difference between 16 millions and 8 millions was a difference of a few shillings. Let me now tell him what the figures really are for the present year. The amount which will have to be remitted from India to London this year is £16,286,500. Out of that amount the sum of £8,815,500 is to be sent over to pay the interest upon capital which has been advanced by persons in this country for the purpose of constructing railway works, canal irrigation works, and the other great public works of India. That £8,000,000 does not represent the entire revenue of the railways of India. The gross revenue of India for railways last year was upwards of 22 millions—I am speaking from recollection—and one-half of that sum went in expenses—in wages paid to the people of India and in stores consumed in India. Therefore half of the gross revenue of the Indian Railways is expended in India. No doubt there are large charges in connexion with the Indian army, amounting to between five and six millions. Into that expenditure a Royal Commission has been enquiring, and the hon. member for Banffshire is a member of it, and we are anxiously awaiting its report. I may remind the House that when I was at the India Office a dispute about expenditure between the Indian Government and the Admiralty was referred to the arbitration of the Prime Minister and settled in a few weeks. Putting the whole railway capital of India together—taking into account, that is to say, famine railways, which are not producing revenue—I find that the return on this capital in 1895-96 was so seriously affected by famine and plague that it fell to what? 53 per cent. That is not a very serious state of things. (Hear, hear.) The hon. member said that the Secretary of State is going to pay off capitalists who are receiving four per cent, and under. But, the operation by which the noble lord is going to get rid of these bloodsuckers—(laughter)—will be not giving to India the credit of England? (Hear, hear.) I have always maintained that the true commercial policy for India is to extend her railway system as largely as possible. My hon. friends have encouraged me, and cheered me when I have expressed that view, and commercial men have risen and given figures showing the enormous discrepancy between India and other countries in the mere mileage of railways. I am, in fact, responsible to a large extent, for this railway expenditure, and I congratulate the noble lord on having carried on that expenditure under great difficulties. The policy was not initiated without considerable controversy, but the result has been most satisfactory. If we are to do good to India commercially we must facilitate the transit of her goods and open up her great natural resources. The one link that is wanted between production and consumption is the link of rapid, cheap, and efficient communication. (Hear, hear.) But a still more serious charge has been made with reference to the salt tax, but it is as well that the facts concerning it should be stated correctly. In 1888, the tax on salt was fixed at 24 rupees per 52 lb. The full amount then would be 55s., but it is nothing like that now. There has been an increase in the consumption of salt during the last ten years—an increase far exceeding the proportionate increase in the population. I worked it out very carefully with the assistance of the statisticians at the India Office, and the average consumption per head, in India, is 10 1/2 lb. per head per annum. Taking the average in the Indian family at five members, the taxation would fall at the rate of 1 1/2 rupee per annum per family, or five annas per head. An anna is a penny, and this is the taxation. I do not say that it is not a heavy taxation. My hon. friend was very indignant about irrigation, and asked why do we not spend money on irrigation remarking that he would prefer irrigation to railways. The last speaker also shared that view. Let us take the facts about irrigation. The Indian Government has not neglected irrigation. Since 1877, the year of the last great famine, what has been done? The canals and great works have received an extension of 24,000 miles, and there has been an increase of 24 million acres in the land irrigated, while the Indian Government has spent on great works 130 millions, and on smaller works 30 millions. You cannot irrigate all the land in India; it is not a process like making a railway. First, you have to deal with the great sources of irrigation which are the wells and scarcely less remarkable was the enormous development of well irrigation. It must be remembered, however, that one-eleventh of the whole area is available for well irrigation, and that reduces the figures very materially. My hon. friend asked, "Why do you not tap the rivers? Certainly; but they must be tapped where there is sufficient water, and not taken at a point so as to create a swamp, and thus induce the danger of malaria. These irrigation works have proved to be a satisfactory investment to the Indian Government. Irrigation pays them better than anything else, because the Government charge for the water supply. The work is now carried out so perfectly that at the present time the land irrigated in India is the equivalent of 120 millions of the population. To say, therefore, that the Indian Government have neglected irrigation and that they do not spend money on the work is not a fair criticism. (Cheers.) Something has been said about the land tax, but the land tax is not a taxation. My hon. friend drew a picture of the Indian Government clutching at the sum given by the charity of Great Britain in order to repay themselves the land tax which had not been discharged owing to the famine. The entire cost for the two years 1896-8 of the remission of the land revenue and temporary suspension of the land revenue is Rs. 3 millions. What is Sir James Westland's estimate for next year? He has estimated this temporary suspension in remission at Rs. 7 millions. He may have taken too sanguine a view of the position. (Hear, hear.) I will not dispute that, but at all events, it is not that terrible oppression which appears to be indicated, by my hon. friend. (Cheers.) India has been described as a terribly over-taxed country; that we ought to commiserate, as we are bound to do, the poverty of the people; that we should do all we can to encourage agricultural banks, to improve agriculture, and by all possible means help the people of India, which I think we do with the aid of British capital and credit to a large extent. (Cheers.) I hope that the Committee over which I preside at the time will be able to increase the available capital to flow into India. But what is the taxation of India? The official statement of the Secretary of State for India placed on the Table of the House, for which he is personally responsible, and which is strictly accurate, says that without making any deduction of the proportion derived from excise and customs, which fall on the Natives of the Native States, the burden of taxation per head for 1898-9 is one rupee four annas and nine pie, which, at the exchange value of 1s. 4d. is 9d. per head. (Cheers.)

Mr. Samuel Smith said the amount that India had to pay to this country for pensions and allowances of a non-effective kind was too great. The military pensions and allowances came to about five millions sterling a year, and he said that was an enormous charge. The member for Wolverhampton had stated that the salt tax was not oppressive, and that the consumption of salt in India was increasing, but he (Mr. Smith) maintained that the consumption was very small, and very much less than it should be. With regard to irrigation, he thought the amount spent on that was not so large as it should be, while the amount spent on railways was proportionately too large. The right hon. gentleman also spoke of the land tax as not being of the nature of a tax, but he (Mr. Smith) held that it was a misnomer to call it rent. He did not agree with the right hon. gentleman that the burden of taxation in India was light, because while in his country the average rate of taxation was 6 per cent., in India it was 9 per cent. (Hear, hear.) The House divided and there voted— For the Amendment 83 Against 245

Majority against 162

The Bill was then read a second time without a division.

Law Intelligence.

HIGH COURT: CRIMINAL SESSIONS. — JULY 12. (Before the Chief Justice and a Special Jury.)

THE BARRACKPORE MURDER CASE.

The above case, in which three soldiers, of the name of Wynne, Wicks and Reid, stand charged with the murder of Dr. Suresh Chunder Sircar at Barrackpore on the 30th April last, came on for hearing to-day. Mr. Pugh and Mr. C. E. Gray appeared for the prosecution; and Mr. Zorab, Mr. Jacob and Mr. Knight, for the defence.

The prisoners were charged, under fourteen counts, for murder, culpable homicide and abetment of the above offences. They pleaded 'not guilty'. They were provided with seats in the dock.

Mr. Zorab challenged every native gentleman who was called, and he thus obtained a jury, composed entirely of Europeans, consisting of Messrs. J. H. Gilliland (foreman), C. F. Larmour, G. Kempthorne, Andrew Glen, J. Hickie, H. F. King, W. Orrell, C. W. Grey and John Gimmel.

Mr. Pugh, in opening the case on behalf of the Crown, told the jury that they had heard the several counts of the long indictment read, and he was afraid that they would have a certain amount of difficulty in following it, but he would endeavour to explain its actual meaning as he placed the facts before them. He would be able to do this when he came to the evidence with the view of enabling him to draw attention to particular points, to prove which witnesses would be called. In doing this, however, he would in no way lay down the law, as it would be placed before them by his Lordship. They had heard that the charges against the accused were those of murder and culpable homicide of an old man, named Suresh Chander Sircar, a doctor or medical practitioner at Barrackpore. He did not remember the deceased's age; but he was an old man and had large practice there, and was held in respect. The accused, who were charged with having caused his death, were three men belonging to the artillery at Barrackpore. This was the story of what was said to have occurred on the 30th April last. These three men got leave in order to come to Calcutta. They came down to Calcutta and returned to Barrackpore at about 8.30 or 9 P.M. Counsel would call two or three men from the artillery, who would prove the prisoners having gone away that day on leave. The main portion of the story commenced when the men were returning from the station to the barracks; and, in order, to assist the jury, he would place before them a plan, showing the different places along the road they went by. There is a sort of lemonade shop just outside the station on the right hand. This shop was kept by a man, named Nagor, who would be called to prove what happened there. He did not think it would be suggested that there were any other men from the artillery about except these three men. The three accused went to the shop and took one or two bottles of lemonade, and on the shop-keeper asking to be paid, one of them threatened to strike him. They then left the shop. The next place in the story was the Chanak outpost; and the Head Constable in charge, who was an important witness in the case, would tell them that Wicks and Reid came and complained that they were not able to get a gharry at the station. He saw coming down the road a third European in uniform, whom he could not recognise at the time; and Wicks and Reid followed this man. Counsel had got to the identification of Wicks and Reid as two of the men who went down that road at that particular time. The next place they came to was the house of one Hare Kristo Sircar. This man had a son-in-law, one of the principal witnesses in the case. This man saw accused took hold of the deceased's carriage and shook it as if they were trying to overturn it. After that one of these three men threw a stone at the window of the medical dispensary and broke the glass. The old man came out and spoke to the accused in English and a youth seventeen years of age heard him speak, but did not understand what he said. The accused were acting in concert at the time the old man came out and spoke to them. What he said was not known but no doubt remonstrated with the accused. All that was known after that was that the old man came on the road some short distance away where the road branches off to the right and it was there that he was found upon the ground with these three men round him and with a wound upon his head. There were no other marks of violence upon the body. Then as regards identification there was the driver in a stable almost opposite and he would identify the three accused as being the men who went down the road and he would speak to the details of what occurred. Counsel would not enter further into details at present. When the deceased was struck and knocked down more or less of a hue and cry was raised to seize the accused. A considerable number of people came upon the scene. The three accused then ran away and were pursued by the head constable and a number of constables. Wynne ran into a hut and appears to have shut himself up in it because on his pursuers trying to open the door it appeared to have been fastened from the inside. His pursuers took the further precaution of fastening the door from the outside to make sure of him. Wicks and Reid ran along the right road into a small lane where they separated, Wicks going to the barracks. Wicks was followed and his helmet which had fallen off his head was picked up by one of his pursuers and as his name was found inside it he was identified by persons in the barracks. Wicks and Reid returned to the barracks somewhere at 11 o'clock. The pursuers accompanied by some men from the barracks then went back to the hut where Wynne was, and he was taken out of the hut. Of that there could be no doubt whatever. The old man was carried to the hospital where he died shortly after. There was no doubt that he died actually from the injuries caused on the scalp. The rest of the evidence would show that he received the fatal blow while on the ground. Their case was that the man was there and then kicked in such a manner as to cause his death. The question then would be as regards the liability of each prisoner. There was no doubt that all the three prisoners were acting in concert together at the time of the attack and that under such circumstances all the three were equally liable under the law for the act of each and every one of them. Counsel then proceeded to explain the sections on murder and culpable homicide as laid down in the Penal Code after which he proceeded to cite evidence in support of the case for the prosecution.

OUR customers say you manufacture three of the best remedies on earth" said the mercantile firm of Haas, Harris, Brim & McLain of Dawson, Ga., in a recent letter to the Chamberlain Medicine Co. This is the universal vendit Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the finest preparation in the world for rheumatism, neuralgia, lame back, quinsy, sore throat, cuts, bruises, burns, colds, pains and swellings. A bottle of this liniment in the house, will save a great deal of suffering. Buy it at any drug store.

MAN in Virginia, rode forty miles, to Fairfax Station, for the express purpose of getting Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and took home with him, a dozen bottles of the medicine. The druggist who relates the incident, adds: "Your remedy seems to be a general favorite wherever known." Its effects, indeed, wonderful in all lung and throat troubles. A bottle at any drug store.

Centre for Studies in Social Sciences, Calcutta

India and England.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, JUNE 24.

LONDON INDIAN SOCIETY'S MEETING.

The London Indian Society convened last Monday a meeting of all Indians, resident in the United Kingdom, to discuss resolutions, dealing with the Indian Currency question, the new laws dealing with sedition, and the unjust incidence of the cost of the Frontier war. There was a large attendance of Indians; but British members of Parliament, with a lively recollection of Dr. Mullick's foolish speech some months ago at a similar gathering, were conspicuous by their absence. Mr. Dadabhai Naoroji, as President of the Society, took the chair, and himself moved the first resolution on currency, which condemned the closing of the mints and the contemplated introduction of the gold standard, and affirmed that the real cause of India's poverty was what Lord Salisbury called the "bleeding" of that country, which was further increased by the fall in exchange or rise in gold, and that until this "bleeding" was stopped, there was little chance of saving India and the Empire from serious disasters. Mr. Dadabhai Naoroji, made an exhaustive speech on lines which are, no doubt, quite familiar to your readers, but which I have never been myself able to accept. The resolution formulates them, I do not think a company of young students, though, on the average, men of singular ability and patriotism, is quite the body to carry any public weight on a question of unusual difficulty and intricacy that puzzles and perplexes the most experienced financiers and to enquire into which an expert commission has just been appointed. It would have been far better to have rested content with the just protest against the composition of the Currency Committee which forms the closing sentence of the resolution. The statement that the closing of the mints, whatever may have been the wisdom or folly of it, is a "covert act of exacting 45 per cent. more taxation from the Indian tax-payers," is a monstrous statement, calculated to secure the ridicule of all men of any financial skill. Dr. Mullick's speech, in seconding the resolution, was moderate and judicious in tone and language, and did not pretend to knowledge that it was impossible the speaker should possess.

All the other resolutions were sensible and very pertinent to the occasion. Mr. Dutt, C.I.E. moved, and Mr. Zea Uddin Balkhi seconded, that this meeting condemn the new Sedition Law of India, (1) which makes intricate distinctions between different classes of Her Majesty's subjects, (2) which seeks to restrict the free discussion of Indian measures, by Her Majesty's Indian subjects in England, by threats of prosecution on their return to India, (3) which takes away the liberty of the Press that has been enjoyed in India for over half a century, and substitutes a method of repression, unworthy of the British Government, (4) which empowers Magistrates in India, who are heads of the police, to demand security for good behaviour from editors of newspapers, to refuse such security when offered, and to send the editors to jail with hard labour, without trial for any specific offence, (5) and lastly, which is based on suspicion and distrust against the people and is thereby calculated to alienate the people and weaken the foundations of the British Empire in the East.

Mr. Dutt declared with good reason that the law contained provisions, so antagonistic to British ideas of liberty, that the most powerful Government, seen for many years, was afraid to bring it before the British Parliament. While in charge of a large district in India, he always felt that his own security and that of the people of his district rested entirely on the confidence of the people in the justice of British Government; but he could hardly remember the time when the confidence of the people in the justice and fair play of the British Government had been so shaken as in the last two years.

The Hon'ble Mr. A. M. Bose moved and Mr. J. N. Roy seconded— That this meeting views with deep regret and alarm the introduction of a Bill in the Legislative Council of Bengal to deprive the metropolis of India of the measure of municipal self-government, which was conferred on it so far back as 1876 by the Government of the day, after mature deliberation and on competent advice, and which has redounded in every respect to the advantage and improvement of the city, as testified to alike by high and responsible official opinion, and by independent evidence. This meeting earnestly appeals to the Government to withdraw, or at least, to very greatly modify, a measure which is seriously reactionary in its character, unsatisfactory in its provisions, and calculated to do grave injury to the cause of good administration and municipal progress.

The last resolution was moved by Mr. H. S. Khalil and seconded by Mr. Balwant Singh. That this Conference regrets the unjust decision of present Government, charging to the finances of India the whole cost of the late war waged beyond the Indian Frontier for Imperial purposes; that in strict justice, a fair share of it should have been defrayed from the Imperial Exchequer, as was done in 1881; that in the present instance, the injustice done is tantamount to cruelty, considering the disasters and misfortunes from which the people of India have lately suffered.

With the exception of the currency resolution, the other three would now be carried with unanimity by any meeting of Liberals throughout the United Kingdom; and I heartily wish they could be submitted by competent speakers to every Liberal Association and club before the General Election. There can be no doubt at all that the fatuous, one might indeed say the iniquitous, Indian policy of the present Government has done more than any other question to affect by-elections against them; and I hope, it may give comfort and courage to those in India, who are smarting under its results, that a day of reckoning is not far distant when they will be amply avenged.

MR. R. C. DUTT.

It is a long time since any persons rendered such loyal and valuable service to the cause of the Congress movement and Indian reform generally as Mr. Dutt, C.I.E. and Mr. A. M. Bose. Mr. Bose is simply untiring in his energy, and addresses public meetings after meeting with great effect. Mr. Dutt is, on the whole, the wisest and shrewdest counsellor we possess in this country. His wide experience of Indian administration, his deep and varied knowledge of the Indian people, his skill and tact, and his rare literary powers, are all at the service of any member of the British Committee or the Indian Parliamentary Committee. Mr. J. Herbert Roberts, who is the Honorary Secretary of the latter body, constantly speaks to me of the helpful counsel he gets from Mr. Dutt. I wish Mr. Dutt would join the British Congress Committee; but this he steadily refuses to do, believing he can be of greater service to the cause by remaining entirely apart from and independent of any organization whatever. But he will always attend a Committee meeting when matters are to be considered in which his advice is needed.

THE EAST INDIA LOAN BILL.

The East India Loan Bill passed through committee last night quite peacefully. Sir William Wedderburn moved an amendment limiting the possible amount of the loan to £3,384,000, on the somewhat illogical ground that the question of the condition of the masses should be gone into rather than a large scheme of railways. It is, however, difficult to avoid being now and then illogical in opposition to a Bill in Parliament, otherwise it would often be difficult to discuss it at all. It is one of the inevitable results of the Rules, orders and forms of procedure, relating to public business, which fill a printed volume of 200 pages, that to obtain discussion at all, opposition on some ground or other has to be set up. With regard to Indian questions this is almost universally the case; and members who wish to discuss Indian proposals are often put to shifts with a view to orderly opposition, that to an outsider have all the appearance of fatuous obstruction. The Anglo-Indian press is quick to make the most unscrupulous use of this condition of things; and men like Sir William Wedderburn and Mr. J. H. Roberts are always being held up to scorn and reprobation as mere factious and obstructive critics, because they are inevitably driven to notices of opposition before they can obtain opportunities for criticism.

Let me trespass upon your space for a moment to give an illustration of this, as Sir William Wedderburn's action with regard to the East India Loan Bill furnishes a useful opportunity. It has been my habit for many years to subscribe for, and carefully read, the "Times of India" as a wholesome tonic and corrective to the stimulating diet of the Amrita Bazar Patrika, the "Madras Standard," and their like. In its issue of June 4, the Editor, (who knows better) furnishes a good illustration of the unscrupulous journalism of which I complain. He heads his article "Indian interests in Parliament," and this is what he writes—

The brief discussion in the House of Commons last month on the India Office Stores Department Bill did not add to the Parliamentary influence of the gentlemen who have undertaken to look after the interests of India. Mr. Herbert Roberts has been conspicuous during the present Parliament in championing, to the best of his influence and ability, any Indian grievance which he could lay hands upon, —not always with remarkable success. The latest instance will lead even the Congress party to pray to be saved from his friends in Parliament. A motion was made on the paper for the second reading of the Bill named above. Now we all know that a good deal is to be said against the Stores Department of the India Office. It is an expensive institution which works slowly and badly; and the feeling out here is that the less it is allowed to do the better it will be for Indian finances. But from that belief to the conclusion that this particular Bill ought to be opposed tooth and nail, is an argumentative step which could be taken only by a politician who was careless to inform himself as to the facts. Lord George Hamilton was able to show, that by rejecting the Bill, as Mr. Herbert Roberts invited the House to do, Parliament would only be "doing a good turn to the ground landlord" who owned a portion of the site and whose interest it was proposed to acquire under the compulsory provisions of the Lands Clauses Act. As this was clearly set out in the explanatory note accompanying the Bill, it seems that Mr. Herbert Roberts has been filing the role of friend of India in a somewhat perfunctory fashion. A good deal might be said about the India Office Stores Department; but Mr. Roberts misunderstood the occasion, and left his clients in India in some doubt as to whether the so-called "Indian party" in the House of Commons is a very serious agency for good.

If the Editor of the Times of India had been a mere "Native" he could not have displayed greater ignorance of the elementary conditions of Parliamentary procedure. But the Editor knows all about these conditions perfectly well; for, there is not in all British journalism a man who has been better trained for his work or who is a more accomplished and brilliant journalist. He is entirely without excuse. Mr. Roberts justly holds precisely the same views about the India Office Stores Department, as are expressed in this editorial article, viz., "that it is an expensive institution which works slowly and badly"; and the feeling among the members of Parliament, with whom Mr. Roberts associates himself, is also that of the Editor of the Times of India, to wit, "that the less it is allowed to do, the better it will be for Indian finances."

Now, what are the opportunities given to a member of Parliament for discussing a department of the Indian Government that is thus vehemently condemned by its best and wisest supporter in the Anglo-Indian press. The India Office Stores Department is not borne on the Estimates for the year submitted to Parliament; neither is the salary of the Secretary of State. So the usual opportunity given for "grievance before supply" does not apply; and that open and useful door is closed to the Indian critic. The only chance for Indian grievance is the seven hours set aside on the last day of the session for the solemn farce of passing the Indian Budget, half of which is usually occupied by the Secretary of State alone.

There appears suddenly on the Order Book of the House a little bill to enable the Secretary of State to buy a bit of land for £30,000, on which has been erected on leasehold tenure some premises in the occupation of the Indian Stores Department. Mr. Roberts, experienced in Parliamentary procedure and opportunity, puts down the only notice that will prevent the Bill being smuggled through without any discussion, the manifest object of the Secretary of State, "that the Bill be read a second time that day six months." This notice has the effect of preventing the Bill being passed, without debate, after 12 o'clock at night, as it certainly would have been but for Mr. Roberts' notice. The Secretary of State for India quite understood what was meant, and brought the Bill on at a time when adequate discussion was possible. The discussion took place and Mr. Roberts made a careful and capable speech on the desirability of limiting the scope of the Department which the Times of India considers an expensive institution, which works slowly and badly and pointing out the great desirability of making wider use of Indian resources. The whole of

Mr. Roberts' action was wise, constitutional, opportune and in strict accordance with the best Parliamentary traditions; and no one is better aware of all this than the able editor himself who mocks at it. Mr. Roberts would have justified his action if nothing more important had come of it than the declaration of the most influential and powerful Editor in India that the India Office Stores Department is "an expensive institution which works slowly and badly, and the less it is allowed to do the better it will be for Indian finances."

It would be well if Editors of newspapers in India watched these attacks on Sir William Wedderburn and his colleagues in Parliamentary criticism and explained them away to the Indian public. It is not possible to overstate the difficulties which lie in the way of the proper discussion by Parliament of Indian questions; they are often quite insurmountable and almost always the opportunity has to be created by such action as that taken by Mr. Roberts on the India Office Stores Bill, and Sir William Wedderburn on the Loan Bill. In both cases, debate having been secured, the motions were courteously withdrawn, and the Bills allowed to pass without any obstruction beyond what was necessary to make debate possible. I hope all Congress friends who read my letters to you, in which I have frequently commented on these difficulties, will understand and fully appreciate at their true worth such disingenuous attacks as the one I have just exposed.

Let me now give you in contrast an instance of a much more unscrupulous use of the Rules of the House. I doubt very much if Mr. Roberts after all will be able to move the adjournment of the House this week on the subject of the Sedition and Press laws. In spite of the virtual promise given by Lord George Hamilton, that the papers on this subject should be discussed by the House after the Whitsuntide holidays, it is evident he means to shirk it if he can. According to the rules of the House, a motion for adjournment, relating to a matter of public urgency, cannot be made upon "matters under notice for discussion" on the Order Book of the House, and a somewhat obscure member who does such odd jobs for members on the Front Bench, has put on the Order Book a notice of motion, in precisely the same terms as that of which Mr. Roberts had given private notice to Lord George Hamilton, and until and unless that is first removed, Mr. Roberts cannot move the adjournment. This is an exceedingly stupid rule, which is always being taken advantage of by unscrupulous opponents; and it is a common trick of Front Bench men who want to shirk debate on an unpopular subject. If Lord George Hamilton likes to bid his henchman remove the notice, the debate will come on; if he does not, then all India may conclude that he dare not face the criticism of the House of Commons on his "Sedition" policy. The Government has decided to take the Committee stage of the East India Loan Bill upon any opportunity that may offer, and jostle it through in the small hours of the morning. There is no doubt that the policy of friction and exasperation, which just now is the condition of things between Lord George and the Congress leaders in the House, does not tend to the advancement of public business.

INDIAN BARRISTERS.

An unusual number of Indian gentlemen were called to the Bar this week at the various Inns of Court: 5 from Gray's Inn, 4 from the Middle Temple, 1 from the Inner Temple, and no less than 18 from Lincoln's Inn, which now appears to be the popular Inn for natives of India. Among them is Mr. Mohimohun Ghose, of Balliol College and the Indian Civil Service, the distinguished and accomplished son of the late Monomohun Ghose. The 24 calls are made up of 16 Hindus, 4 Mahomedans and 3 Parsees. Among the latter, is Mr. Kanjivan J. Mehta, who is, I believe, the son of the Hon'ble Pherozshah Mehta. I wish both Mr. Ghose and Mr. Mehta a distinguished career as their fathers had, and that they may live, like them, in the hearts and affections of a grateful country.

So British capital finds another profitable investment in Indian product. We understand that a Company, called the Indian Fisheries Company, with an influential directorate, has just been registered with a capital of £100,000. One particular object of the Company is to develop the Bay of Bengal fisheries.

Of late, there were aquatic sports at Allahabad, at which the ladies' swimming prizes were allowed to be contested before the public. This has provoked the indignation of a local ecclesiastic, the Rev. Father Carroll, who in course of his Sunday sermon in church, strongly condemned the practice and called upon all, who had regard for the honour and respect due to womanhood, to see to its discontinuance in future.

The 9th of July came and went quite peacefully on the frontier, although the Mad Mullah had given out that that would be the day on which the new jihad would commence. This, according to a Simla correspondent, means that the Fakir's preachings have had but little effect on the people of Upper Swat. There is, however, a rumour on the Swat frontier that a fresh outbreak will occur before the 19th of this month.

The following official communique is issued by the Foreign Office: For many months past, one of the most disturbing influences in the Mamund country has been that of a party of some thirty well-armed men, —followers of Umra Khan of Jandol. These men have from time to time given out that Umra Khan had been released by the Amir, and was coming to Bajaur to resume his own. During the last few weeks the Mamunds have expelled the whole gang, —a proceeding which should result in quiet for Bajaur.

REPORT of an assault on a European planter by some coolies, reaches us from the Nilgiris. It is said that one Mr. Jennings, of Slieveore farm, was one day walking over his estate when he came across a coolie, making a thoroughfare of his grounds. Mr. Jennings told him to stop, and he obeyed. Further on however, he met some half-a-dozen coolies doing the same thing. He ordered the party to stop, but this time met with a refusal. This enraged the Sahib who knocked one coolie down and began to abuse the party. Upon this, the coolies attacked the Sahib with their lathis, and so belaboured him as to necessitate his removal to hospital. The matter is now being investigated by the Police.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Tuesday, June 21.

THE EAST INDIA LOAN BILL.—In answer to Sir W. Wedderburn, Mr. Balfour said he should endeavour to take the Committee stage of the East India Loan Bill upon any opportunity which offered. He believed the Bill had been very generally discussed already.

THE ARMY MEDICAL STAFF.—Captain Norton asked the Under-Secretary for War whether, in connection with coming changes in the Army Medical Staff, it was in contemplation to withdraw the officers of the Army Medical Staff from the medical charge of her Majesty's troops serving in India. Mr. Brodrick: I am not aware of any such intention.

THE INDIAN MEDICAL SERVICE.—Captain Norton asked the Secretary for India when it was proposed to amend the Indian medical regulations so as to insure that officers of the Indian Medical Service who have no previous military experience, or at all events have not any lengthened period of experience in military duties, shall be made to pass a longer period for military medical training than two months in the office of a principal medical officer prior to being selected for promotion to administrative grade; whether any changes, and if so, what changes, in this respect had been proposed or recommended; and when they would be promulgated.

Lord G. Hamilton said he was not aware of any proposals at present before the Indian Government to amend the Indian medical regulations in regard to the training of medical officers selected for promotion to the administrative grade.

THE POONA NEWSPAPERS.—Mr. Lewis asked the Secretary of State for India whether a Press Committee had been established in Poona; whether the vernacular and Anglo-vernacular papers published at Poona had been asked to send copies to the Committee; and whether the Committee had any, and if so, what power of censorship over such newspapers.

Lord G. Hamilton: Under the existing law of India no Committee which may have been appointed in Poona or elsewhere could have any power of censorship over the Press. Its functions would necessarily be limited to keeping the responsible officials informed as to the character of the matter published in the newspapers.

HOURS OF LABOUR IN INDIAN JUTE FACTORIES.—Sir J. Leng asked the Secretary for India whether he was now able to correct the imputation on the agents of the Dundee jute mills in India, of refusing to consent to the closing of these mills after three o'clock on Saturdays and the whole of Sundays, consequent on a misapprehension by the Indian factory inspector as to the ownership of another mill near Calcutta.

Lord G. Hamilton said that in reply to an inquiry he learned that the inspector on whose report his previous answer to the hon. gentleman was founded was found to be mistaken. He was glad to have this opportunity of correcting the mistake and expressing his regret that it had been made.

Thursday, June 23.

THE PLAGUE IN INDIA.—Sir Mancherjee Bhownagree asked the Secretary of State for India: Whether the Government intend to recognise in any special manner the services rendered during the last eighteen months by the civil and military officers and troops, both British and native, who so nobly responded to the call made upon them, in many cases at the risk of their lives, to stamp out the plague in Bombay, Poona, and other places in Western India; as well as the services of those who took a prominent part in quelling the disturbances that took place in consequence of the plague.

Lord G. Hamilton said: As my hon. friend is aware, various temporary concessions in the shape of leave or special pay or both, have already been granted to civil and military officers and to soldiers engaged in the work of suppressing the plague. The authorities in India are fully aware of the excellent service that has been rendered for India by civil, by medical, and by military officials, as well as by many non-officials, in the arduous campaign against the plague, and the work so done will not be forgotten.

SANDHURST CADETS.—Replying to Captain Norton, Mr. Brodrick said: The whole of the intermediate and junior divisions of the cadets at Sandhurst, infantry, cavalry, and Indian Staff Corps, will pass out a term earlier than usual. In gazeteting these cadets no change will be made in the usual rules. The cadets of the Indian Staff Corps of the elder batch will be gazetted senior to those of the junior batch.

EAST INDIA LOAN BILL.—This Bill was considered in Committee (Mr. Lowther in the chair). On Clause 3.

Sir W. Wedderburn moved that the amount of the loan should be 3,384,000, instead of 10,000,000. He argued that it was essential to do all that was possible to minimise the evils of overtaxation in India.

Lord G. Hamilton said the Bill was introduced by him in order to put certain money at the disposal of the Indian Government, and one of the objects for which the money was required was the prosecution of a scheme of railways which had already been sanctioned. If the hon. baronet succeeded in his motion, the Indian Government would have to contemplate the breaking up of establishments and abandoning contracts because they could not fulfil them, or they would have to borrow the money in the Indian market at a higher price.

Sir W. Wedderburn said he would withdraw his amendment.

The amendment was then withdrawn, and the Bill passed through Committee, and was reported to the House without amendment.

A CURIOUS story comes from Ceylon side. The Government Medical Officer of Anaradhapura, Dr. Solomon, was one night professionally called by one Mrs. Bell; but the Doctor appeared in deshabille and in an unfit condition. This was reported to the higher authorities; and a Ceylon paper says that this conduct of the Doctor will cost him his appointment.

THE SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR.

SOME particulars of the bombardment of the Santiago forts on Thursday have been received. The attack lasted for an hour and was directed chiefly against the batteries at the entrance to the harbour. Care was taken not to hit El Morro, where Lieutenant Hobson and the other Marimac prisoners are confined. At first the Spaniards replied with a hot fire, but this gradually slackened until the guns were completely silenced. The Western batteries were completely destroyed, but the batteries on the east of El Morro, which were not so accessible for the American ships, offered a longer resistance. In all some 5,000 shots were fired.

Despatches from Manila show that the situation of the Spaniards there is extremely critical. Food and ammunition are growing very scarce, and fresh supplies cannot be procured. The Spanish outposts are retiring from apparently strong positions after a mere show of resistance. In the provinces several important garrisons have surrendered to the insurgents. At a Council of War at Manila on the 5th instant the Governor proposed to surrender declaring that further resistance was useless. This proposal, however, was not entertained, and the Governor thereupon resigned. He was succeeded by the second in command. The rebels do not appear to be committing any excesses. It is stated that they intend to claim a Republic under Anglo-American tutelage.

Telegrams from despatch boats in Guantanamo Bay state that the Spaniards are very short of food, the soldiers being on half rations. Shells have been thrown into the town by the American warships. One struck a mine which, however, did not explode. It is stated that transports conveying American troops have arrived off Santiago.

A notable manifesto in favour of peace has been signed on behalf of thirty-one provincial associations and eighteen newspapers in Catalonia. It strongly condemns the folly of persevering in a contest, the result of which must be ruin to Spain, and declares that immediate peace alone can save the country from utter annihilation.

Transports with American troops on board, arrived off Santiago on Monday. General Shafter and Admiral Sampson landed 17 miles west of Santiago and held a long consultation with the insurgent leader Calixto Garcia at his camp. It is stated that a landing will be made at several points.

Marshal Blanco is reported from Havana to have been shot at by a volunteer and wounded in the knee.

The war has now entered upon its third month. The pace so far has certainly been slow, but as neither of the combatants was at all ready for the fray this is not to be wondered at. From the first timely recognition of the inevitable might have saved the Philippines for Spain at the cost of her West Indian colonies. It is conceivable that peace might be obtained on that basis even now, but more probably the time has gone by. Spain will flounder on inflicting some serious losses it may be on the Americans, but not preventing thereby the inevitable end, and will lose the Philippines as well as Cuba.

A telegram from Washington says, the President adheres to the plan not to despatch 100,000 men to Havana until the danger of yellow fever has diminished or disappeared, and until the troops have been perfectly equipped, disciplined and drilled.

Washington officials are chagrined by the publicity which has been given to the intentions of the Government in respect to Puerto Rico. It is ascertained that owing to information in the newspapers, the military strength of Puerto Rico has been considerably developed.

The refusal of Spain to exchange Lieutenant Hobson and his men has caused no little excitement in America. The prevailing opinion is that the Spaniards have learned what a popular idol Hobson has become in the States, and propose to hold him for exchange with some Spanish prisoner very much higher in rank, possibly Admiral Cervera himself.

The despatch of the Cadiz fleet is indicated in the States as impossible.

We are told there is an increase of the present contempt felt by American naval and military authorities for Spanish fighting equipment and powers. As a Naval officer said recently, at Santiago, after the bombardment "Spanish gunners cannot hit anything except the Atlantic Ocean, and would miss that if it were not so big."

The resistance to the landing in Cuba was simply overwhelmed by hundreds of shells being dropped into the forts east and west of Santiago before any landing was attempted. As soon as disembarkation began at Cabanas and Aguadores, a co-operation force of a thousand Cuban patriots, under Colonel Castillo, opened fire with their Mauser rifles upon the Spanish batteries, and kept up a perfect hail of bullets upon the enemy's gunners. Cuban sharpshooters commanded batteries on all sides, and their rifle fire did more to demoralise the Spaniards probably than the bombardment from the warships. The result was that landings were effected with scarcely any loss on the side of the invaders. At 10-10 prodigious cheering from the shore was caught up by the nearest ships, and flying from vessel to vessel through the whole squadron announced that the American Army had begun to land on Cuban soil. The operation was completed without accident or loss of life. The troops as soon as they landed formed up and moved into quarters.

MR. B. B. JOSHI, B. A., LL. B. who had gone to England in the latter part of April last, has returned to Kathiwar after securing the course of two terms for the Barister's examination, and has begun his practice.

THE Mysore Government Gazette, Extraordinary, announces the abolition of the District and Sessions Court of Bangalore and the transfer of all the original Civil and Criminal jurisdiction of that Court to the Chief Court.

IN reply to the address of the Monywa Municipality the Lieutenant-Governor of Burmah said that the construction of the railway through Maymyo, detailed plans and estimates for which were ready fifteen months ago, is only awaiting the sanction of the Secretary of State. His Honour hoped that his next visit to the place would be by rail.

Novelty in Ayurvedic Medicine.

KAVIRAJ NOGENDRA NATH SEN'S Ayurvedic Pharmacy, 18-1, Lower Chitpore Road, Tarti Bazar, CALCUTTA.

KAVIRAJ NOGENDRO NATH SEN, Physician, Surgeon, Accoucher, Member, Paris Chemical Society, Indian Medical Association, and Calcutta Medical Society, etc., etc., practises the Ayurvedic system of Medicine after having learnt the principles of Western Medical Science, and obtained with credit, Diploma from one of the Government Medical Institutions of the country.

KARNA ROGANTAKA TAILA. EAR DROPS. It cures otitis, oitis, tympanitis, inflammation of the middle ear, deafness, if not of long standing, is sure to be cured by its use.

CHYAVANA PRASA. Our Own Herb-Restorer. It cures all local irritation, improves the digestion, and strengthens the constitution.

It diminishes the secretion of mucus in the bronchial tubes and lessens the irritation of the respiratory centre. It increases longevity and renders the organs strong.

Specific for Diabetics.—The regular use of the above medicine is sure to cure Diabetics. It entirely removes general debility, burning of the palms and soles, weakness of the brain, excessive thirst, semi-incontinence, resulting from excessive urination, discharge of saccharine matter with the urine, and acid eruptions, aching pains in the limbs, sigmoidema of the legs, drowsiness, loss of power and beauty of youth.

Specific for Rheumatism.—The regular use of the above medicine is sure to cure Rheumatism. It entirely removes general debility, burning of the palms and soles, weakness of the brain, excessive thirst, semi-incontinence, resulting from excessive urination, discharge of saccharine matter with the urine, and acid eruptions, aching pains in the limbs, sigmoidema of the legs, drowsiness, loss of power and beauty of youth.

Illustrated catalogues, containing full accounts of diseases and remedies, are transmitted on application.

Thousands of unsolicited Testimonials from all parts of India about the remarkable efficacy of our Specifics and other Medicines.

NOTICE OF REMOVAL. Our customers, patrons, and friends are requested to direct their Letters, Money-orders, etc., henceforth to this new address, viz—18-1, Lower Chitpore Road, Calcutta, in future.

KAVIRAJ NOGENDRA NATH SEN, Govt. Medical Diploma Holder, and Member of the Chemical Society, Paris, Medical Society of Calcutta, and Indian Medical Association.

A Sister volume to the "Hindu System of Moral Science" is just out. It is from the pen of the same author and is entitled "THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART."

The price of the book is one rupee. The Amrita Bazar Patrika says regarding the book: "If the Hindu System of Moral Science," by Babu Kishori Lal Sarker, M. A., B. L., evoked admiration from many distinguished Hindus and such eminent Christians of world-wide celebrity as Professor Max Muller and Professor Cowell, his treatise, entitled "The Hindu System of Religious Science and Art" which has just been published, will, we doubt not, secure still greater admiration for his complete grasp of the difficult subject and the mastery way in which he has presented them to the world.

The Hon'ble P. Ananda Charlu, Rai Bahadur, C. I. E., says: "The book deserves to be made a first text book of religious teaching in every school. I will ask every Hindu to read it. I want every young man to be taught it. I can not do better justice than to proclaim it as a little mental work of his weight in gold deserving to be read by every Hindu parent and by him to be taught to his sons and daughters."

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

Paragon Tooth-Powder.—Cheap, Aromatic free from any harmful drug. A medicine for all diseases of the teeth and gums. Try once. Price 2 Annas per tin.

To be had at No. 7-1 Nobin Sircar's Lane Bag Bazar Street, Calcutta.

"Once Tried Favored Always." The "Mundul Flut" "Srutu Mundul Flute"

(i. e., box harmonious containing strutes) That Supplied to H. H. The Maharaja of Independent Tippera (Hill).

The best Box Harmoniums of the kind to play and accompany Bengali, Hindi and English Music.

CATALOGUES ON APPLICATION. Violins, Violas, Violoncellos, Double Basses, Clarinettes, Horns, Piccolos, Fagocets, Banjos, Guitars, Mandolins, Stringing, Reeds, Piano and Harmonium Materials and Fittings, Strings, etc., etc. Best prices. Humble Margins.

MUNDUL & CO., Manufacturers, Importers, Pairers (and Tuners) of Musical Instruments, Strings, Wires and all sorts of fittings, etc.

PERFUMERY. We can recommend our Lavender Water as a really superior perfume. It is very carefully prepared from the Extracts of the finest quality Lavender flowers grown in France.

MUSK LAVENDER. This Musk Lavender is prepared by the addition of a small quantity of the finest Chinese Musk to the finest quality Lavender Water.

MILK OF ROSES. To correct all impurities of the skin and restore the bloom and freshness of health and beauty, nothing can equal the Milk of Roses.

EAU-DE COLOGNE. This famous perfume which was first prepared in Cologne in Germany, is the most popular and has the largest sale of all the perfumes.

NEW BOOKS. GENERAL LETTER WRITER.—Nearly 200 pages. Containing 523 letters. Useful to every man in every position of life for daily use.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

Kuntal-Kanti Taila.

This sweet-scented oil cures all kinds of hair diseases such as baldness, untimely whiteness and falling off of hairs.

lost natural strength and vigour of their brain by excessive mental labour, drinking, unusual intercourse or keeping up nights, will find an infallible remedy in this oil.

Price: Phial As. 8, Re. 1-5, Rs. 2-8, 4-8. Postage Packing V. P. Com As. 8, Re. 1-5, Rs. 1-8, 3-4, 4-8.

B. BROTHERS & CO., No. 75, Neemoo Gossain's Lane, Calcutta.

Bhagat Ram's Herb's Oil.

It has Two Invaluable Qualities: (1) Its external application cures fire burns, scalds, scorpion, wasp and other venom stings, prickly heat and all sorts of itchings and skin diseases.

(2) Internally taken it cures Cholera and Gonorrhoea. Price is so fixed that every one can buy it, i. e., annas 8 per phial, postage extra.

Apply to BAKHSI RAM, Agent, MR. BHAGAT RAM, Bar-at-Law, Gurgaon.

NITYANANDA BISWAS Jewellery, Poddary Shop.

All sorts of gold, silver and jewellery ornaments are kept ready for sale, and also made to order.

DEAR SIR.—The ornaments which you have supplied to me on order, on the occasion of my daughter's marriage, have all been of approved design and of neat workmanship.

NEW BOOKS. GENERAL LETTER WRITER.—Nearly 200 pages. Containing 523 letters. Useful to every man in every position of life for daily use.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

THE HINDU SYSTEM OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE AND ART. The price of the book is one rupee.

GONORRHEA DROPS.

DISCOVERED by an eminent English physician and recognized by the latest edition of the British Pharmacopoeia as the only safe, sure and efficacious remedy for Value returned in Case of Failure. To ensure a permanent and radical cure the Calcutta patients are requested to see the Doctor, Moulshi patients should, when ordering for a phial, write in detail the disease.

Price Rs. 2-8 per phial; V. P. P. As. 6 extra. Dr. H. BISWAS, 11, Annanda Chatterji's Lane Bag-bazar, Calcutta.

BIJAY RATNA SEN KAVIRAJAN'S AYURVEDIC AUSHADHALAYA

It is one of the best ingredients for many of the Ayurvedic medicines, which cannot be prepared efficaciously without genuine musks.

Ass. musk... Rs. 40 per tolah. Nepali and Cashmere musk Rs. 32 per tolah.

Kalp-Latika-Batika.—It is a marvellous remedy for general debility, loss of appetite and loss of cheerfulness.

Kamdeva-Ghrita.—It is a powerful remedy in cases of mental debility and loss of the retentive faculty, caused by too much study or exercise of the brain.

Mohasamaghasya-Batika.—This cures Diabetes, Albumenuria and like diseases.

Jivanti-Rasayan.—It is a best remedy for all impurities of blood, disorder of the bowels, itching of the body, pain over body, effects of mercury and disorder of the liver.

Manjari-Bal.—It cures all sorts of headache and diseases of the brain, proceeding from too much study and loss of vitæ fluid.

Keshari-Oil.—This prevents the hair from becoming grey before time, preserves the hair and cures all sorts of skin diseases of the head and defects of the hair.

INDIAN Gonorrhoea Mixture. CURES THOSE CASES WHICH ALLOPATHS AND HOMOEOPATHS FAIL TO CURE.

Price refunded if it fails. Prepared exclusively from the juice of the Indian vegetables. It cures any kind of GONORRHEA and LEUCORRHEA within 2 weeks.

BIJOLI KANTI GHOSH, Nebubagan, Bagbazar Calcutta.

HALF-PRICE SALE. PLEADER'S GUIDE. (pp. 427) NEW EDITION; ENLARGED.

DR. NUNDO LALL GHOSH, of 30 years experience in Govt. service, Lecturer of Medicine, Midwifery, Diseases of women and children, Patna, Dacca and Campbell Medical Schools, Physician Surgeon, Accoucher and Electrophorist.

DR. NUNDO LALL GHOSH, of 30 years experience in Govt. service, Lecturer of Medicine, Midwifery, Diseases of women and children, Patna, Dacca and Campbell Medical Schools, Physician Surgeon, Accoucher and Electrophorist.

DR. NUNDO LALL GHOSH, of 30 years experience in Govt. service, Lecturer of Medicine, Midwifery, Diseases of women and children, Patna, Dacca and Campbell Medical Schools, Physician Surgeon, Accoucher and Electrophorist.

DR. NUNDO LALL GHOSH, of 30 years experience in Govt. service, Lecturer of Medicine, Midwifery, Diseases of women and children, Patna, Dacca and Campbell Medical Schools, Physician Surgeon, Accoucher and Electrophorist.

DR. NUNDO LALL GHOSH, of 30 years experience in Govt. service, Lecturer of Medicine, Midwifery, Diseases of women and children, Patna, Dacca and Campbell Medical Schools, Physician Surgeon, Accoucher and Electrophorist.

PERFECT BRAZIL PEBBLE Spectacles and Folders

Spectacles: Steel Frame Rs. 6, Nickel " " 7, Silver " " 10, Gold " " 25. Folders: Steel Frames Rs. 7, Nickel " " 8, Silver " " 12, Gold " " 30.

All kinds of Repairs undertaken. New Frames fitted. Pebbles and Crystals of accurate numbers matched. Special attention paid to Oculists' prescriptions. Moulds orders per V. P. Price list free on application.

DEY, MULLICK & CO. Opticians and Spectacles Makers, 20, Lal Bazar Street, Calcutta.

KING & CO. THE NEW HOMOEOPATHIC PHARMACY

Under the distinguished patronage of Dr. W. Youmans, M.B., C.M.; B. N. Banerjee, M.D.; D. N. Ray, M.D.; and all the other leading Homoeopathic physicians of the country.

Just received an import of Medicines, Books and sundries per S. S. Bavaria. We keep only the medicines of Messrs. Borek and Tapel of America. Try them and realize their superiority to others.

Our new price-list will be ready in another fortnight, when it will be sent free of postage to all who have written to us for it or will write for it in future.

HARAN CHUNDR MOOKERJEE'S পুরাতন জ্বরের পাচন। Anti-periodic Decoction. The medicine is in use for over twenty years and cured thousands of patients.

Numerous testimonials have been received. Babu Adhar Chandra Mookerjee, M. A., B. L., Professor, General Assembly's Institution, writes: "It is an excellent medicine for chronic and malarious fevers of all descriptions. I tried it several times on myself and other members of my family, and I am glad to say that it produced wonderful effect."

To be had of HARAN CHUNDR MOOKERJEE, 326, Upper Chitpore Road, Calcutta.

এছ বিতরণ। কবিরাজ মণিশঙ্কর গৌবিন্দজী শাস্ত্রী জাম নগর নামক স্থানের একজন সুপ্রসিদ্ধ আয়ুর্বেদী চিকিৎসক।

ইনি সম্প্রতি ১৩৬-৬৮ হারিসান রোড, বড়বাজার, কলিকাতায় একটা শাখা ওষধালয় স্থাপন করিয়াছেন। ইনি ইহার কতকগুলি চিকিৎসা ও সাহিত্য বিষয়ক গ্রন্থ বাহলা ইংরাজি ও হিন্দিতে ভাষান্তরিত করিয়া মূল্য ও বিনা ডাকমাগলে সাধারণকে বিতরণ করিবেন।

ইহার অগ্রহণ করিয়া নিম্নলিখিত ঠিকানায় কবিরাজ মহাশয়কে পত্র লিখিয়া বাধিত করিবেন। নাম ধাম স্পষ্ট করিয়া লিখিবেন। ১৩৬-৬৮ হারিসান রোড, বড়বাজার কলিকাতা।

স্বপ্নে প্রাপ্ত। সত্যিকার রোগের ঔষধ।

আমার প্রপিতামহ কর্তৃক স্বপ্নে প্রাপ্ত এই মচৌষধি ধারণে এ বাবৎ অনেক রোগী আরোগ্য লাভ করিয়াছেন। ইহা ধারণে বিশেষ কোন নিয়ম প্রতিপালন করিতে হয় না, কিন্তু এই ঔষধ সমস্ত স্থানে প্রচার নাই। ইহার মূল্য লওয়া নিষেধ; তবে ৭ গোপালবিগ্রহের প্রণামী ও রূপার মাদুলির মূল্য ইত্যাদি বাবদ মোট ১/০ লাগিবেক। ভিঃ পিঃ তে ঔষধ পাঠান য়।

বৌগীর নাম জানা আবশ্যিক। শ্রীযতীন্দ্রনাথ দত্ত। গ্রাম কছদী, পোঃ আঃ বগীয়া, স্বেয়া বশোইর।

Religious Publications (in Bengali) BY BABU SHISHIR KUMAR GHOSH, SRI AMIYA NIMAI OCHARI.

The Hindu Edition of SRI AMIYA NIMAI OCHARI. Translated by SRI MADHU SUDAN GOSWAMI, Of Brindaban.

NOROTTAM OCHARI. Price Ans. 12. Postage one anna.

SRI KALACHAND GEMTA. Religious Philosophical Poem in Bengalee With beautiful illustrations: A BOOK EXPOUNDING The Religion of Love AND Solving the problems of this life and the next.

Printed and published by K. L. Roy at the PATRIKA PRESS, 2, Ananda Chatterjee's Lane, and Issued by the PATRIKA POST OFFICE, Calcutta.