A SUB-MAGISTRATE AND A

AERCHANT'S STRIKE (From a Correspondent.)

Tanjore, Dec. 3.
Seven miles north of Tanjore, lies the sacred place of Tiruvadi, which has had for some months past as its Sub-Magistrate, an officer, who convicted recently a poor old Paradesi for singing religious songs before his Court and sentenced him to 4 days' rigohis Court and sentenced him to 4 days' rigorous imprisonment, which was, however, set aside by Mr. Mahdi Hussein, Deputy Magistrate of Tanjore. Ever since his arrival at Tiruvadi he has been fining exorbitantly poor persons for petty nuisances. He has been fining the merchants for the most curious things, such as, for allowing carts to stand in front of shops during the loading and unloading of goods, for measuring out things in front of shops, for hanging plantain bunches and iron chains for sale in front of shops and for such other petty acts. The merchants became at last so exasperated that they closed their shops on the 27th November last. The Sub-Magistrate was not able to induce the merchants to open the shops either himself or through the local police. The local Union Chairman and the Tahsildar of Tanjore also did their best to induce them either himself or through the local police. The local Union Chairman and the Tansildar of Tanjore also did their best to induce them but did not succeed. The Police Superintendent and the District Magistrate were absent from the head-quarters and could not, therefore, go personally to Tiruvadi; but the Deputy Magistrate, Mr. Mahdi Hussein Sahib and the District Munsiff tried to persuade the merchants to open the shops, without much avail. The merchants saud that they would send for Mr. N. K. Ramasawmi Aiyar, High Court Vakil, Tanjore, and on his advice open the shops. They wanted to do so, in order that their grievances might be represented to the authorities with a view to their redressal. The merchants accordingly sent for him, and he came to Tiruvadi on the morning of the 28th November. As soon as he came there, he saw the Deputy Magistrate who was very sorry for what had occurred. Mr. Mahdi Hussein could see nothing wrong in all that the merchants were doing. After this interview Mr. N. K. Ramasawmi Aiyar and Mr. T. V. Krishna Das, Editor of the "Jananukulan" convened a meeting of the merchants T. V. Krishna Das, Editor of the "Jananu-kulan" convened a meeting of the merchants and of the public in the local temple. Mr. N. K. Ramasawmi Aiyar explained to them the willingness of the Deputy Magistrate to consider their grievances sympathetically. Resolutions were passed at the meeting regretting the Sub-Magistrate's actions and those of the local Police, thanking the Deputy Magistrate for his kindness and sympathy and stating their special grievances. Shops were immediately opened. The Deputy Magistrate went the round of the shops in the evening with Mr. N. K. Ramasawmi Aiyar, promised to build urinals near the the evening with Mr. N. K. Ramasawmi Aiyar, promised to build urinals near the bathing ghat on the Cauvery River, near the temple and in the bazar street, to allow the merchants to continue unmolested and to do such other things as might tend to public convenience. The strong Reserve Police sent for from Tanjore was withdrawn. But for the timely help of Mr. N. K. Ramasawmi Aiyar who refused to take fees from the people, and offered his services to them gratis, and for the kind sympathy of the Deputy Magistrate, things could not have been brought to such a peaceful end. A copy of the proceedings of the meeting of the merchants was given to the Deputy Magistrate by Mr. N. K. Ramasawmi Aiyar with a covering letter and a "vakalatnama" from the merchants composing the committee formed at the meeting, which head to have

N. K. R.—I have asked the people to draw up a list of nuisance cases in which present magistrate imposed exorbitant fines.

D. M.—What have you got to do with the preparation of such lists? Why do you make individual grievances public ones?

N. K. R.—I have been requested to file appeals. I have, therefore, asked for a list. Further, if fines are levied so exorbitantly on poor persons the matter comes to be of public importance.

D. M.—Then what are one grievances of the people which you call public?

N. K. R.—I cannot go on walking, by you while you are riding. If you stop I shall tell you everything.

(Then the District Magistrate reimed in his horse.)

N. K. R.—The grievances are (1) not allowing the carts to stop before shops during the time of loading and unloading; (2) not allowing merchants to stand in front of shops and measure out grain, etc., (3) not allowing them to have plants in hunches.

D. M.—I think they are offences.

N. K. R.—I know every little thing is an offence strictly speaking, but petty ones must not be noticed severely. Even the law says so.

D. M.—If they had grievances, why did they not appeal?

N. K. R.—Already they have paid heavy fines. They cannot indulge in litigation and waste their time and more money.

D. M.—Do you say it with reference to the people of this country who are notoriously litigious?

N. K. R.—There are some who indulge in litigation. But respectable merchants matter may be consulted. He has more experience of our people.

D. M.—No doubt I leave all this to the Deputy Magistrate. I have nothing to do with all this. But I think you had no business to interfere in the matter. Do you think that these people are going to succeed by such strikes? There is no unity among the people of this country.

N. K. R.—You must thank me for what have done. But for my persuasion and N. K. R.—You must thank me for what I have done. But for my persuasion and the sympathetic attitude of the Deputy Magustrate things would not have ended quietly. You see now, sir, that people are everywhere showing unity.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION IN JAPAN.

(Special for the "Patrika.")

For the sake of guidance and information of Indian students willing to come over to Japan for scientific and industrial education I write the following notes, which I hope will be of great use to them.

College and School Education.

Here are two imperial Universities at To kyo and Kyoto and four Higher Technological schools at Tokyo, Kyoto, Osaka and Nagoya. Besides these there are many Industrial schools of lower grade.

In the University of Tokyo there are among others, Colleges of Medicine, Engineering, Science and Agriculture. In the College of medicine there are two courses of Science and Agriculture. In the College of medicine there are two courses of

1. Medicine (4 years)

2. Pharmacy (3 years)

In the College of Engineering there are mine courses each of which extends for three years, (a) Civil Engineering, (b) Mechanical Engineering, (c) Naval Architecture, (d) Tech nology of arms, (e) Technology of explosives.

(f) Electrical Engineering, (g) Architecture, (h) Applied Chemistry, and (i) Mining and Metallurgy.

In the College of Science there are the fol-lowing eight courses each of which extends for 3 years.

(1) Mathematics, (2) Astronomy, (3) Theore tical Physics, (4) Experimental Physics, (5) Chemistry, (6) Zoology, (7) Botany and (8)

In the College of agriculture there are the ollowing four courses each of 3 years' dura-

(1) Agriculture, (2) Agricultural Chemistry, (3) Forestry and (4) Veterinery medicine. In this college there is a department for ericulture which can be joined for one year. In the University of Kyoto all the above

In the University of Kyoto all the above subjects are taught.

The Higher Technological school of Tokio has provisions to teach the following subjects each of which extends for 3 years.

(1) Dyeing and weaving, (2) Ceramics (Porcelain, glass, cement, brick, tiles etc.), Applied chemistry (Cosmetics, drugs, brewing, sugar refining, oils etc.), (4) Mechanical Engineering, (5) Electrical Engineering, (6) Electro Chemistry, (7) Industrial design and (8) Architecture.

The above subjects are taught also in the other three Technological schools.

In Tokyo there is an Imperial school of art in which the following subjects are taught:

(1) Painting, (2) Sculpture, (3) Bronze and metal works (statues etc.) and (4) Lacquer works. Each of these courses extends for 4 years but an Indian student may find it convenient to study for 3 years.

For females there are many schools of arts where Indian ladies can study with advantages.

The subjects taught are (1) Painting, (2)

The subjects taught are (1) Painting, (2) artificial flower making, (3) Embroidery, (4) Sewing and knitting, (5) Lacquering and (6)

Out of these courses one or more may be hosen at a time. The duration of the courchosen at a time. The duration of the courses is from one year to more.

Practical Education in Factories.

There are some subjects which can be only learnt by working in factories, while studying the theoretical portions at home. The ollowing subjects might be chosen. Matches, pencil, buttons, wire-drawing (needles, nails etc.), metal sheet work, umbrella, weaving, knitting, soap, paper making, felt cloth making, tools making, etc.

CHARGE AGAINST A BOMBAY MEDICAL PRACTITIONER.

SERIOUS ALLEGATIONS. Mr. N. De Silva, a medical practitioner, appeared before Mr. M. H. Dastur, at Mazagon, on Tuesday afternament appeared before Mr. M. H. Dastur, at Mazagon, on Tuesday afternoon, to answer a charge of adultery, preferred against him by Mr. A. Dillon, a Preventive Officer in the Bombay Customs. Mr. R. D. N. Wadia Barrister-at-Law, with Mr. De Quadros, pleader, appeared for the complainant, while Mr. Velinker and Mr. Godinho, pleaders defended the accused.

Mr. Pereira pleader, watched the proceedings on behalf of Mrs. Dillon, wife of the complainant.

Complainant in his evidence stated that the accused was a medical practitioner and had a dispensary at Parel Road. Witness was married on the 15th March 1900, to Miss Eileen Howard Walker at the Registrar's Office, High Court. After the marriage they lived together as man and wife. The accused knew that they were married. Mrs. Dillon was qualified as a nurse and a midwife. She did not know the accused till January last, when he came to witness's house and offered her professional work. Witness was present on the occasion. As far as he was aware, they were not acquainted before that. Mrs. Dillon accepted a professional engagement. After that the accused continually gave her cases, and they seemed to be on familiar terms. She used to visit the accused at his dispensary.

cases, and they seemed to be on familiar terms. She used to visit the accused at his dispensary.

About April last witness found her continually absent from home and he asked her where she used to go, when she gave him certain information. Witness then objected to her going to the accused's dispensary because he had heard rumours about the character of the accused. She promised not to go there. Subsequently, in the month of May, the accused gave his wife a case to nurse at Malabar Hill. The case lasted a little over twenty days. The accused used to take her in his gharry in the morning and bring her home at night. At that time witness used to be on duty for twenty-four hours at a stretch in the B, I. S. N. Dockyard.

He then received certain information and asked his wife to tell the accused that he objected to his coming to his house during his absence. She promised to tell him not to come.

One night in the month of May witness came home unexpectedly. He found the accused in the dining room taking whisky. His wife was seated there. Witness spoke to the accused very sharply, and told him that he did not like his coming there in his absence. The accused promised not to come again

Early in the month of June witness and his wife had a difference over a letter which she had received. They had words and as a result he ordered her out of the house. A month later she came to him in the Dockyard with a deed of separation, and asked him to sign it, which he recused

On the 1st of August she came to the witness and asked him to take her back. Witness took her back on condition that she should have nothing more to do with the accused.

On the 17th August witness found his wife very ill. He took her to Dr. De-Quadros's dispensary at Kemp's. She was examined and found to be suffering from a certain complaint. The same night she made a certain to witness.

BEE-KEEPING IN INDIA.

A PROFITABLE INDUSTRY. A PROFITABLE INDUSTRY.

Mr. V. G. Dhanakoti Raju, of the Colleg of Agriculture, Saidapet, writes to us:

It may be interesting to describe bee-keeping in India and draw a comparison between the and the rethods adopted in Europe and America. Bee-keeping in India is very rare ly carried on, especially in the Madras residency. In Coorg, bees are demesticated by villagers. The latter take earthen pot with holes pierced in them, besmear the in side of the pot with honey wax and place them upside down on a piece of wood or slab of stone. The bees are attracted to the spot by the smell of the wax, and the person intending to domesticate them finds after few days that they have taken to remanathe pot. He then removes the pot at migrafter having covered it over with a blank and places it either on a tree near or und the eaves of his house or in any appoint place. The general method of han estimate the honey is rather peculiar. The burdiven from the comb by a tuft of burgrass placed just under the tree or where the bees are hanging, and during process, no doubt, many of the bees are held taken along with the young brood in it. After this is done the whole contaken along with the young brood in it. out this the shop-keepers adulterate honey with jaggery water, just as the in ghee with safflower oil. This is the called honey we get in our bazaars. Such a system of bee-keeping and harvesting prevailed in Europe also long. The first great improvement was the intion of the frame hive. The improved rendered it possible to examine the comb bees at any time, to feed, to take the band stores of honey from one hive to granother, to change the queen, make arp swarms and generally to control the bing and take the stores without injuring bees. A number of observers have checked the life history and anatomy of the and these are, no doubt, now so far to stood that bees can be bred as certain, poultry, fish, etc. The invention of grages, smokers, honey extractors, has a bee management easier, simpler and more certain in its results. The new tem has rendered it practicable to keep on a large scale as a remunerative ement.

As to the possibility of keeping k India after the improved method the be no doubt. The beginner must have at a frame hive, a queen cage, smoker the honey extractor. ### Amrita Bazar Patrika

CALCUTTA, DECEMBER 10, 1905.

CALCUTTA ST. ANDRE 'S DINNER. DR. TYTLER was a enthusiastic Christian, and and no end of contempt for the "idolators" (Hindus) of India. His contemporary, Raja Ram Mohan Roy, addressed him a letter under the pseudonym of Ram Sharma, posing himself as an "idolatrous Hindu." He wrote to the Doctor to say that he (Dr. Tytler) had no right to speak ill of the Hindus, as they were in reality that he (Dr. Tytler) had no right to speak ill of the Hindus, as they were in reality allies of the Christians against monotheists. For, said Ram Sharma in effect: "we Hindus to here in thirty-three million Gods; similarly you also believe in three, namely, God the ather, God the Son, and the Holy Ghost. We are thus quits. Indeed, we are both opposed to the stupid monotheists who believe only in one God. Let us, therefore, join hands and fight with the monotheists who are advocates of only one."

who are advocates of only one."

Dr. Tytler was very angry when he this letter and wrote an angry reply saying 'Dare you, an idolatrous Hindu, call the Christians your allies, etc?'

In the same manner we incurred the displeasure of some Scotchmen here by calling them "fellow-slaves of England, year or two ago, on the occasion of their annual festival, the St. Andrew's Dinner. Whenever, "Brither Scots" meet to glovify themselves and to feed Englishmen we canhelp feeling that the they do not see that, like the Hindus, they they do not see that, like the Hindus, they too are only subjects and staves of the English people. Thereupon, as stated above, some Scotchmen were very angry with us for having told them this plain truth. "We slaves of Englishmen!" they observed in astonishment; "why, we are their rivals. Nay, we gave them a King!" But let us be frank. Is it or is it not a fact that Scotland is as much dependent upon England for its very existence as India is? They have, no doubt, the privilege of sending representatives to Parliament; but what do they gain by it? Can ey initiate any measure or introduce any orm and carry it through successfully in a English oppose it? Can they remove the seat of the British Parliament from London to Scotland? If England to-day withdrew the useless privilege that Scotland enjoys of returning members to Parliament, what could the Scots do? They cannot do more than what the Bengalees have done since their country has been partitioned.

their country has been partitioned.

The Chairman of the St. Andrew's Dinne The Chairman of the St. Andrew's Dinner this year, Mr. Hamilton, talked as if he were an Englishman. He does not know that Englishmen laugh in their sleeves at this attitude of Scotchmen. Fancy the situation. Englishmen have practically taken their country, and in return, they give them a good dinner every year! The nore natural course for them would be to invite the Indians, their fellow-slaves, to the dinner; for, let them not think for a moment that they are equals of Englishmen. Let Scotchmen give up this infatuation; let them realize their true position; let them take note of what the Irish are doing, who too, like them, have the privilege of too, like them, have the privilege of returning members to Parliament and fighting for the expansion of the English Empire.

The Irish are more sensible; for they declined their position, which the Scottame do not. Do not the Scotts realize they have ceased to exist as a nation? Their guage, nay, their individuality itse

One prominent character of "Brither Scots" to be serious, and more so, when he to speak after a heavy meal. One er of the Caledonian brotherhood stood up at the last St. Andrew's dinner to propose the imposition of a tax on speculinaking at a rate proportionate to the length of the speech. Under this scheme, Mr. Hamilton, the Chairman, would have had to pay the heaviest penalty for the longest speech. He was full of love for his Bengalee friends, and he fully justified their wildest expectations in that direction. But his quaint humour in calling the Bengalee a "brither Scot" would have been quite out of place on any other occasion. up at the last St. Andrew's dinner to pro-

"There is Swadeshi and Swadeshi," said be; and the Bengalee knows the distinction between the false and the true. He knows there is a real distinction between the Swadeshi of his Anglo-Indian friends and that of his own countrythat of his own country-men. When he is told by an Anglo-Indian friend that the latter was the first Swadeshi to introduce miscellaneous stores on real Swadeshi principles, he, too, is bound to ad-mit—there is Swadeshi and Swadeshi.

We cannot quarrel with Mr. Hamilton for what fell from his lips regarding ourselves. In fact, we are bound to thank him for his kind wishes for our welfare. We have only to enquire whether the Bengalee should adopt the "Swadeshi" of the ruler of Assam as a pattern of the true true. "Swadeshi" as a pattern of the true type. "Swadeshi" is a Bengalee word, signifying, in a manner the devotion of one who can call Bengal his "Swadesh" of one who can call Bengal his "Swadesh" in the bengalee who can call Bengal his "Swadesh" in the bengalee atted to recognize a true "Swadeshi" in resent ruler of a.s.am, his hesitation wound a pardonable fault.

One thing alone—the most important of all, seems to have escaped the notice of Mr. Hamilton. It was the principle of protection. A true "Swadeshi" cannot but advocate some sort of protection which alone can foster infant industries or restore the dying mes to new vigor and life. As however, his protection, so bential in every way, cannot come from the State, it must come from the people. And the people do not wast any thing more. The Swadeshi movement, to be true and genuine, as advocated by Mr. Hamilton, would require a proper development of the arts and industries of one's Swadesh or mother country. Is it possible to secure any such development without some sort of protection? It should also be remembered that the Bengalees are admittedly poor. Is it proper for them to indulge in foreign luxuries at all? The Bengale cries for two things for only a foreign-luxury-curtailing movement.

The Bengalee cries for two things—for bread and water; the bread stands for the development of his national industries including agriculture, and the water for the abandance of matters in a standard control of the standard con onment of western luxuries including vices to secure the first, he must cease to purchase m foreign lands what he can make at home; and for the second he must give up all that is not a necessity but a mere luxury. The "Swadeshi" of the Bengalee aims at nothing more. It does not teach him to give up the purchase of all foreign goods so as to revolutionise the well-known rules of political economy. No the Bengalee is willing litical economy. No, the Bengalee is willing to purchase more from foreign lands so that he may be able to sell more to those countrie he may be able to sell more to those countries, but he does not want to purchase anything from others which he should not or which he can produce at home. So, Mr. Hamilton may rest assured that there was no occasion for the display of any needless alarm for the sanity of his Bengalee friends or for craving their "hearing" on a subject which was not altogether Greek to them.

There is no spirit in the country to teach the people to hate other nations with a view to increase their love for their own. Every Bengalee will readily contradict such a suggestion. Every Bengalee is willing, nay, anxious, now to pay more respect to foreigners than they used to do before; for every Bengalee aspires to come up to their level in patriotism and self-sacrifice. The pity is, he is not encouraged but thwarted in every possible way, when he makes an essay in this direction. Hatred never exalts a nation, and the an essay in this direction. Hatred never exalts a nation, and the Bengalee has no particular anxiety or incentive to ignore that truism. The fallacy of the particular and the general proposition it not unknown to him. He may hate individuals but nations never. duals, but nations never-

ANARCHY AT SERAJGUNJ His Excellency the Viceroy declined to receive a deputation of the Indian members of the Bengal Council who prayed for permission to wait on him with a view to explain the situation in Eastern Bengal But explain the situation in Eastern Bengal But it is nothing short of a perfect reign of terror that has been established in that part of His Majesty's dominions in India. Law and order,—justice and constitution, peace and security—everything appears to have altogether disappeared from the tract, placed under the charge of Mr. Fuller. Yesterday we placed before the public what had happened at Mymensingh, and the reader has seen how very alarming the situation there is at present. To-day we have the painful duty to record an equally horrible state of things at Serajgunj. These unvarnished tales of horror, when coupled with what had occurred at Barisal and Rungpur make up a sum total of anarand Rungpur make up a sum total of anarchy, never witnessed in this or any other part of India, and could not fail to make an impression on whoever may read it, whe ther here or in any other civilized country.

The Viceroy, we presume, has already got some idea of the situation at Serajgunj, for the following telegram has been sent to His Excellency by the people

"The people of Serajgunj are very much alarmed in consequence of the repeated unprovoked assaults and systematic ill-treatment of them by Assam Police located here. Local authorities refuse redress. The town will be deserted and all business stopped unless prompt relief is given. Relief at His Excellency's hand is earnestly solicited."

The signatories to this message were some of the most prominent leaders of the town; and so, there could be no denying the facts mentioned by them, and the state of panic that has seized upon the townsmen. As Mr. Fuller has lost the balance of his mind the interference of Lord Minto is urgently needed to infuse hope and confidence in the minds of the people.

We would now proceed to give the particulars of the horrors that are being enacted in the town by the Assam Police, for which, however, the local authorities have failed to provide any redress. The reader will remember that some time back there was some elight "golmal" between a European employe of the local Bank and some students. Since then a number of the Assam Police came then a number of the Assam Police came and held the town, but beyond patrollin the streets in lines of six they did not brea this month. We should here observe, that on the 3hd instant the Hon. Mr. Fuller to Calcutta to interview His Excellency the Viceroy, halted for an hour or two, at Sirajgunj when the Sub-divisional Officer, Mr. A. Marr, came on board the yacht and had half an hour's interview with his chief. It was, as stated above, on the 4th instant that the hurricane swept over the devoted town. In the morning of that day the armed Assam Police, patrolling the streets, began to assault passers-by, among whom were boys of tender ages. In the course of three or four hours no less than 17 persons were assaulted, some seriously. Here are the names of some.—(1) Jadunath Bardhan of Sirajgunj, (2) Upendra Monan Shaha, (3) Sirajgunj, (2) Upendra Monan Shaha, (5 Krishna Lal Shaha (both of Raipur), (6 Chinibash Modak of Dhanghora, (5) Hen Krishna Lal Shaha (both of Raipur), (4)

Chinibash Modak of Dhanghora, (5) Hem Chandra Shaha of Sirajgunj, (6) a cooly of the S. D. O., (7) Kshitish Chandra Roy, student, Victoria School, (8) Gopiballav
Chakrawarti, student, Victoria School, (9)
Tarani Kanta Chakravarti of Chandpur, (10)
Protap Chander Bhattacharjee, and (11)
Sulov Chunder Bhattacharjee, and (11) Sulov Chunder Bhattacharjee (both of Gradha). The following message was sent to the Telegraph office on that day at 4-30 p.m. for despatch to this and three other papers, but it was refused:—

"Yesterday the L.-G. on his way down to Calcutta halted at the Sirajgunj steamer ghat and the S. D. O. interviewed him. A posse of armed constables from Assam had arrived here just after the students' case.
They have been ordered to patrol the principal streets in lines of sies. This morning they indiscriminately assaulted ten persons including some school boys. The assault in each case was deliberate and unprovoked.
Greatest panic prevails."

At 6 p.m. another message was sought to be sent to the address of a Calcutta paper, but it, too, was refused. It ran thus:—

"Fresh cases of assault upon students and

"Fresh cases of assault upon students and youths other than students. In some cases the assault was severe. One student fell senseless on the ground. A respectably dressed gentleman was also assaulted. If such state of things continues any longer the entire business of the town will be at abso-lute standstill."

lute standstill."
On the 5th instant no less than 40 persons are assaulted, among whom were Babu Shashidhar Neogi, L.M.S., Honorary Magistrate and Municipal Commissioner, and two Native Christian Missionaries, as also Basanta Kumar Pramanik of Belkuchi, Basanta Kumar Roy of Pangashi, and 5 persons of the Jatra party of Gour Mohan Santradhar Dr. Shashidhar is a gentleman highly respected by all sections of the local community. He was insulted and beaten with a some members of the members of force without any consternation. The wire of the doctor is reported to have taken the assault and insult so deeply to heart as to insist on him not to go out on professional calls after dusk. Two messages for Calcutta papers regarding tms incident were again refused by the local telegraph office, after consultation with the

But this is not the sum total of the horror But this is not the sum total of the norrors that are being practised. A petition was filed by Dr. Sashidhar before Mr. Marr, Subdivisional Officer, who passed orders thereon to the following effect:—

"Such a complaint must be filed before the District Magistrate at Pabna. I refer the complainant to that court."

So, while unheard of brutality is thus bein practised on the people of Sirajgunj, they are denied redress by the officer in whose hands their destinies have been placed. Failing in their effort to obtain redress from their local masters, the leaders petitioned the Viceroy by wire; and this message, published above after some cogitation, was at last forwarded to its destination. Since writing the above we retion, was at last forwarded to its destination. Since writing the above we received the following telegram from Sirajgunj, under date the 7th instant:—
"Sirajgunj, Dec 7, 4-20 p.m. For the last three days the Assam police has been assaulting people of all ranks and creeds, and of a green.

ing people of all ranks and creeds, and of every age. Even women and children were not excepted. An Honorary Magistrate was assaulted. A Munsiff narrowly escaped. Cases of assault are numerous. The panic created by the indiscriminate assault by the police has prevented parties and pleaders and muktears from attending court. Business in Civil and criminal courts is practically suspended. Don't know how long it may last."

Now this caps everything that has gone before or we have heard. That under a civilized Government women and children should be assaulted by the police or that respectable judicial officers of Government should find themselves in danger of life or court business should practically be suspended—are contingencies for which India was not prepared before.

We now put it to His Excellency the

We now put it to His Excellency the Viceroy whether or not the people Sirajgunj, Mymensingh, Barisal, Rungpur, and other districts in the new proving deserve immediate protection at his hands If they had a Government or a sober-mind-ed local ruler of their own, their case would have been different; but they are practically without a Government or a ruler who has any sense of responsibility of his position. Fancy, the people of Sirajgunj are absolutely at the mercy of the Assam police; and although the latter are committing dreadful atrocities upon them they do not know to whom to go for protection. In the name of humanity we appeal to Lord Minto to save the people of the new province from the terrible and intolerable situation in which they have protection. In the name of humanity we appeal to Lord Minto to save the people of the new province from the terrible and intolerable situation in which they have been placed for no fault of their own. In conclusion we would point out to His Excellency that while the old province is all but perfectly quiet, under Sir Andrew Fraser, the new province, which too, only a month and-a-half ago enjoyed the same quiet, has been turned by Mr. Fuller topsy-turvey and converted into an area where not a semblance of law or order where not a semblance of law or order appears of the inevitable. SITUATION IN THE OTHER HALF OF BENGAL.

HERE is a story to explain the situation. A hare, hotly pursued by a couple of dogs, entered the den of a jackal to save its life. Seeing itself in the jaws of another enemy, as dreadful as its pursuers, the poor cr ture resorted to a stratagem. What it did was to accost the jackal and congratulate him on his good fortune. The King," began the long-eared puss, "has appointed you as his Prime Minister, and has sent two messangers, who are welting wo messengers, who are waiting at you as his Prime Minister, and has sent two messengers, who are waiting at the door of your den, to escort you to His Majesty's presence. Go and occupy your important office and don't forget me who has first given you this joyful tidings!"

The jackal, very much pleased, was coming out to receive the alleged messengers of the King, when the hare, fearing that the jackal might see the dogs and detect his trick, exclaimed, "Stop, my friend; you may spoil every thing by showing disrespect to the King's messengers; for, that is not the way to receive such august personages". "What should I do then" enquired the jackal. "The way to receive the messengers of the King and shew them proper respect," replied the hare, "is to show them your two hind legs first and your face afterwards."

The jackal thanked the hare and acted up to his advice; but no sooner had his

The jackal thanked the hare and acted up to his advice; but no sooner had his two hind legs been thrust out of the den than the dogs caught them in their sharp fangs and began to drag the creature out. And then the jackal cried in pain: "How is this, father hare? Where is my Premiership? Instead of the power and the salary attached to it, I get only a good bite at the hands of the messengers."

When the Bengalees opposed the partition of their province they were told that the measure would bring them innumerable blessings. But where are these blessings? In measure would bring them innumerable blessings. But where are these blessings? In their place they see only anarchy, despotism and misrule. Here is a passage that we quote from the Mymensingh speech of Lord Curzon on the partition measure:

"The argument has been used that the advanced districts of Bengal will be placed under uncovenanted military officers. It is enough to say in reply that such officers will be debarred from any posts, the tenure of which is at present confined to the Indian Civil Service in Bengal."

Where is Lord Curzon now? Is he aware how his faithful nominee is keeping his ow his faithful nominee is keeping his patron's promise? The members of the uncovenanted military service are at least covenanted mileary service are at least educated gentlemen, and some of them are as good as an average Civilian; but Mr. Fuller is ruling the province through hordes of ferocious Gurkhas and Assam military police! Is this not a grand blessing? How cruelly were the people of Eastern and Northern Bengal deceived by "the greatest of English Viceroys!" Lord Curzon also promised that no officer, trained in Assam, would administer the affairs of such advanced districts as Basea and Mymensingh. anced districts as Dacca and Mymen But Mr. Clarke, the present Magistrate of Mymensingh, who is making an exhibition of himself in various ways, hails from the wilds of Assam. He has got only one idea in his head, namely, to di from office who may his displeasure, by illegal and hig orders. And why should he not issue when his Chief does so? Indeed, the strangest part of the affair is the way the big officers are behaving themselves. Is it possible for any member of the Civil Service to smear his face with lime and soot and dance in a public place? Is it possible for a District Magistrate to lime and soot and dance in a public place? Is it possible for a District Magistrate to make faces at passers-by, at his subordinates, or at the accused placed before him? Is it possible for him to pursue school boys under the impulse of a violent fit of anger; or lead a band of lawless constabulary to attack innocent people and break their heads? One possessing vast powers is apt now and then to act in an arbitrary manner, but we never suspected that English gentlemen, belonging to "the ablest and most honourable service in the world," could cast to the four winds not only law and constitution but even common decency and the innate courtesy of the English race.

Mark also how some of them have reduced themselves to the position of effets despots, to whom nothing is sweeter than lowly salams and cringing servility. "Receive me on the railway platform, otherwise I will teach you a good lesson". "You did not pay me proper respect, you are therefore dismissed from the post of Government pleader". "As Chairman of the Municipality you did not come to salam me; I will humiliate you." "Gurkhas will be fastened upon you, because you are supporters of the Swadeshi movement". "My patronage is at the disposal of the Mussalmans even though they are undeserving, but the Hindus for three generations shall never be allowed to enter "Government servi" "These are the paraphrases of some of the Government service."

These are the paraphrases of some of the These are the paraphrases of some of the astounding observations of the Hon'ble Mr. Fuller, an ornament of the Indian Civil Service, who is no longer a young Assistant Magistrate but is a Lieutenant-Governor, holding the destinies of 35 millions of human beings in his hands! Is the English nation deteriorating? Or else, they should be able to produce a better specimen of humanity to occupy such a distinguished and exalted position as that of the ruler of one of the most advanced provinces of India.

position as that of the ruler of one of the most advanced provinces of India.

Look, again, to the infatuation of this English officer whose head has apparently been completely turned by the possession and exercise of large irresponsible authority. For three generations, says he, Government will not employ Hindus. But where will he himself be three generations hence? A despot thinks that all others will die except himself; that not only is he immune from death but he will for ever continue to lord to the possession and make them kneed the same and who was the same and make them kneed the same and same it over his fellows and make them kneedown before him. Only five years hence Mr. Fuller, like his late great master will be merged in the great English nation, and be utterly forgotten. It was the "Pioneer" which said that, M ed to his care and not for the gratification of his own passions and prejudices, he will yet be loved and respected. But if he tramples under foot all law, order and constitution, and brings about a reign of anarchy, chaos and consternation in their place, he cannot but be feared and shunned like plague. In that case no amount of terrorism on his part can lead the people to love and respect him. Indeed love and respect can terrible. We must freely confess, this is quite a new experience for the peope of Bengal. During the last hundred and fifty years they have been used to a different system of rule altogether. They are themselves a gentle, law-abiding and civilized people, and not irrepressible savages. In culture and enlightenment there are milions of them who will had their own lions of them who will hoo their own against the best among European nations. They abhor bloodshed and brutality in every shape. Even the meanest of them will not do what Mr. Fuller was led to do in a fit of passion, namely, to invite men and then insult and intimidate them under his roof. or to humiliate his host whose hospitality ne had been enjoying. Mr. Fuller is very much mistaken to suppose that the present policy of repression can do any good to himself, to the English nation, or to the people whose destinies have been entrusted to his keeping.

It is quite open to Mr. Fuller to continue in his policy of repression or to replace it by one of liberality, or in other words to follow in the wake of his predecessors, nay, in that of his brother in old Bengal. If he in that of his brother in old Bengal. If he preferred the former he would no doubt succeed in creating anarchy and lawlessness, but he would, at the same time, deepen the existing discontent and open up a new source of danger to the Empire. By adopting the other policy, however, he would make himself and his people happy, and strengthen the basis of the Empire. The choice lies absolutely with him: he is quite we come to adopt any of the two courses noted allove. But we may be permitted to hope that he will yet see his way to play the latter role—the role of a sympathetic and generous ruler, if not in the interests of the people at least in those of British rule in India. Fancy that H. R. H. the Prince of Wales is on his way to Bengal, and Mr. Fuller is engaged in trying to stamm out loyalty from the hearts of her children by presenting belts and batons to gentlemen and letting loose Gurkha and Military police upon the peaceful Society of Bengal. ful Society of Bengal.

We are in a position to state on the highest authority that there is no foundation about Lord Minto's resignation in view of the change of Ministry. The rumour is like the well-known Scotch saying: "They say"—"what say they?"—"Let them say."

FURTHER development of the state of affairs at Mymensing will be found in the letter of our own correspondent published elsewhere. The local authorities present a spectacle which is most unique and is perhaps unprecedented in the annuals of British tion of the law to show that the Magistrate had no authority to dismiss him! He also wrote a similar insulting letter to Dr. Tara wrote a similar insulting letter to Dr. Tara Nath Bal, suspending him, pending his dismissal, from his office as Honorary Magistrate. The latter also gave the same reply as Babu Shama, harn did, namely, that under the law the Magistrate could not touch him. An officer who is so grossly ignorant of the first principles of law, is appointed to administer the affairs of an advanced district like Mymensingh! Then, we fancy, the duty of a District Magistrate is not to support but to check police lawlessness. But see the barefaced manner in which the Magistrate is backing the high-handed local police. He will allow the police to institute proceedings against schoolboys, but he will not allow a subordinate Magistrate to take up serious complaints against the to take up serious complaints against the police! In this beautiful way the Magistrate of Mymensingh is administering the affairs of his district. No wonder the people are asking themselves if they are living under British rule or under some other Government.

THEN, look to the way the police are fishing out culprits. According to their first information, some two hundred students had taken part in the alleged disturbance at Burrabazar, Mymensingh; but they could not produce even half-a-dozen. So, what they are going to do is to demand attendares provides the band of the could not be a stronger of the country of the attendance registers from the head-masters of local schools, under the authority of the Magistrate. Their object evidently is to take down the names of 200 boys from these registers and then cause summonses or warrants to be issued against them as budmashes. What a nice arrangement! The headmasters have very properly refused to produce their registers.

The Magistrate, it will be seen, sent another letter to Dr. Tara Nath Bal in which he demanded an answer "within one day," as to whether he had spoken at a certain meeting or not. Suppose he does not give a reply in one day or he gives no reply at all; and suppose, again, he says in reply that he did speak: Would the Magistrate hang him or send him to the Andamans? Another or send him to the Andamans? Another equally foolish letter he wrote to the Principal of the City College, Mymensingh, threatening that the students of his college would get no Government appointments if they were to go to the Burrabazar quarter. And Mr. Fuller is going, to strengthen the hands of this jungly Magistrate by a detachment of Gurkhas! When will all these scandals cease?

Barisal beat Rungpur, but Mymensing has eclipsed both. Read the thriling account of our Mymensing correspondent, published yesterday, and you will realize how an official tornado has swept away all law, order and constitution from that town. The story told by our correspondent seems to be incredible; yet the Magistrate of Mymensingh has gone only on step further than his master, Mr. Fuller is it for this that Bengal was partitioned is this the blessing that Lord Curzon primised to the people of East Bengal? Is the the way to minister to the happiness of the people entrusted to the care of responsible British officers? We wonder if there be a single Englishman in the country who will single Englishman in the country who will not hang down his head in shame when he goes through the story. They talk of anarchy in Russia, but is it a reign of law that is prevailing at Mymensingh when such atrocities, as are described by our correspondent, are committed in that town?

Like attracts like. Mr. Fuller is very ucky in his District Magistrates. like Messrs Emerson, Jack, and Clarke are, ings in Mymensing, hails, we hear, from the wilds of Assam. We are curious to know how he felt when his ukases dismissing the Honorary Magistrate, and the Chairman of the Municipality were hurled back at his face by the gentlemen who were so insolently sought to be humiliated by him. We are also anxious to know if Mr. Fuller is proud or ashamed of the doines of his suborduate. sought to be humiliated by him. We are also anxious to know if Mr. Fuller is proud or ashamed of the doings of his subordinate. Most probably he will support him; if so, will he thereby brighten or tarnish his reputation as a highly placed British officer? If a small boy of ten years utters the words, "Bande Mataram," the indignation of the authorities knows no bounds. Indeed, it is this very Magistrate of Mymensing, Mr. Clarke, who chased two school-boys and made an exhibition of himself before the public because they uttered those horrible words. If a school boy were to appeal to a countryman not to use foreign goods, he is arrested by the police and treated as a criminal. But when the police and the magistracy combine and trample law and order under foot that does not, however, excite the least indignation of the responsible rulers! Does Mr. Fuller think he will strengthen the foundations of British rule in India by the Russian policy he has adopted to chastise and emasculate the Hindus in his province? Possession of power is not always a blessing. and emasculate the Hindus in his province? Possession of power is not always a blessing. See, how it has proved a veritable evil in the case of Mr. Fuller, though he is a highly educated Englishman, and the ruler of a province, with a population of 35 millions.

Here is another case in which a number of gentlemen have been sworn in as special constables. Wednesday morning the District Police Superintendent of Howrah with three Sub-Inspectors and half-a-dozen constables, all of a sudden, appeared at Andul, a village in the district, with nine belts and batons, and entered the palace of the ancient well-known Rajas of the place, accosted the second son of the Raja, Kumar Nagendra Nath Mitter, told him that, he and eight others had been enrolled as special constables by the District Magistrate, Mr. Forrest, and handed the belt and baton intended for him. The Police Superintendent next summoned eight other gentlemen of the place.

Police Superintendent next summoned eight other gentlemen of the place, and gave them the same information and the same badges of office. In doing so he gave them a long lecture on the duties of special con stables adding that in England it was great honor for people to be sworn in as such. In this way nine gentlemen of the place were, at one swoop, honored with the office of special constables though, be it said here, those on whom the honor was conterred did not appreciate the kindness at all; on the other hand they wanted to know why such an indignity was sought to be im-posed on them in the name of honor. The Andul special constables are—Kumar Nagen-dra Nath Mittra; Babus Srish Ch. Mukherjee B.A., Headmaster, and Bishnupada Chatter-jee, B.A., 3rd Master, Andul H.E. School; Babus Debendra Nath Chowdhury, D.A., Nagendra Nath Mullick, Jatindra Nath Mullick, Srish Chandra Mullick, Chunilal Mitra, ahl Chintamoni Ghosh. The general impression is that Sir Andrew Fraser has kept himself aloof from the noxious atmosphere which has completely demoratised Mr. Fuller and his subordinates. We therefore trust His Honor will be We therefore trust His Honor will be pleased to take prompt steps to put a stop to these high-handed proceedings. Mr Forrest, the Magistrate of Howrah, at whose instance this arbitrary proceeding has been taken is, we believe, the same officer, who received severe castigation at the hands of the High Court while he was Dy. Commissioner of Hazaribag, for his high-handed and illegal acts. On the present occasion he should have waited till the Rungpur special constable case, which is now pending before the Criminal Bench, was disposed of. There is, we are told, absolutely no ground to justify the Magistrate to humiliate the nine gentlemen in the way he has done. If so, he gentlemen in the way he has done. If so, he has we think, rendered himself liable to be sued for heavy damages. As usual the action of the Magistrate is directed against the Swadeshi movement. All the nine gentlemen are active promoters of the Swadeshi. Indeed, they have opened a Swadeshi Store in their native village. For this grave crime, we are told, they have been treated in this atmosphere was a six and any wearth. in this atrocious way. Sir Andrew, we submit, should put down such scandals with a strong hand.

The Indian members of the Bengal Legislative Council submitted a representation to H. E. the Viceroy soliciting an interview so that they might acquaint him with the present state of affairs in the new province. We regret Lord Minto has not acceded to the request on the ground stated in his Private Secretary's letter published below:—4th Dec. 1905.

From the Private Secretary to the Vice-To the Indian Members of the Benga

Legislative Council.

Gentlemen,-I have the honour to acknow ledge the receipt of your letter dated 29th November which I have submitted to the November which I have submitted to the Viceroy. I am directed to inform you that His Excellency, while fully appreciating your desire that the Government of India should be in possession of the feelings and opinions of all classes of the community on current events, regrets that your request cannot be granted. It is, in His Excellency's opinion, obviously unconstitutional for the cannot be granted. It is, in His Excellency's opinion, obviously unconstitutional for the Governor-General to receive members of the Legislative Council of one Local Administran for the purpose of discussing the affairs

> I have the honour to be, Sirs, Your most obedient Servant J. R. Dunlop Smith, Private Secretary to the Viceroy

Private Secretary to the Viceroy. Here is evidently a misunderstanding. At least two of the members of the Bengal Council belong to and represent the new province, namely, the Hon'ble Mr. J. Choudhry and the Hon'ble Babu Ambika Phurn Mozumdar. According to the principle laid down by His Excellency it is thus juite constitutional for the Governor-General to receive these two members and discuss the affairs of their province with them. We trust, these two members will again submit trust, these two members will again submit a representation to the Viceroy and seek an a representation to the Viceroy and seek an interview with His Excellency, for the purpose of acquainting him with the present situation in the new province. Will Lord Minto be pleased to go through the account, published elsewhere, describing the state of affairs at Mymensingh? His Excellency will find that it has become absolutely necessary, in the interests of British rule in this country, that he should be pleased to send for some representative men of the country and learn from them how ducks and drakes are being played with the liberties of innocent. being played with the liberties of innocent people. Fancy, even small boys have become objects of bitter persecution to the officials!

LIKE every other policy of the Hon'ble Mr. Fuller, his attempt to pit the Maho-medans against the hindus, is, to say the least, a little ridiculous. Does not His Honor see that the Bengalee Mahomedans, in other words, the Bengali-speaking followers of Islam, whose mother-land is Bengal, have, as a body, out-grown that spirit of sycophancy and that code of morality under which everything is to be sacrificed for a few loaves and fishes in the shape of Government appointments? We freely admit that there are yet some so-called Mu-ssalman leaders who, for some immediate personal gain, wish in their heart of hearts to remain aloof from the Hindus, and are capable of injuring the best interests of their community and the country at large. But they have been found out; and most of the really sensible Mahomedans do not ecknowledge them or follow their lead. This was vividly illustrated by the Re-union of Hindus and Mussalmans on the recent 'Id day when more than 400 educated Mahomedans were present to reiterate their vow that they do cast in their lot with their Hindu brethren and support the Swadeshi movement at any cost. Of late a practice has been adopted by some high officers of Government to specific high officers of Government to sper k patronizingly of the Bengali Mahor ledans as if they took a pride in sycor nancy, and in considering themselves a separate nation from the Hindus. So arely Mr. Fuller ought to have felt by the nis time that the general body of Mahor medans really resent such patronizing air. As to the Swadeshi movement, we have already pointed out that the Mahome does perhaps are, in many that the Mahome dans perhaps are, in many instances, mor e interested in the development and p reservation of the indigenous chan are the Hindus. In Bengal, specially in the eastern and northern district s, it was the Mahomedan Johas and Kariy as, it was the Mahomedan Johns and in a surface who enjoyed the monopoly in espect of the weaving industry, and suffered most by the introduction of the cheap and, therefore, nasty, Manchest or manufactures. The Swadeshi movement has also enabled millions of Mussalman cultivators to revive their dying sugar industry by driving beet sugar from our markets.

A pro-Indian Englishman asked an antithe Bengalees. The former had come across several educated children of Bengal in Engfrom our markets.

THE reader is aware how press messages to this and other papers have, within the last few days, been refused, at Barisal, Mymensing, Sirajgunj, Belgaum, etc., and how even the message of the Sirajgunj leaders to the Viceroy, was not accepted at once but only Viceroy was not accepted at once but only sent after a reference to the Sub-divisional officer. The way this is being done, not merely in the disturbed tract, it we may use the expression in view of the repressive measures inaugurated by the new ruler of the new provance, but in other parts of the new provance, but in other parts of the country as well, has simply taken the breath out of the people. If the public voice were thus to be stifled and gagged in a portion of the British Empire, the liberty of the press and or the people must be held to be a myth—a chimera—a delusion. Now, what is happen— British Empire, the liberty of the press and or the people must be held to be a myth—a chimera—a delusion. Now, what is happening is this. Orders have been issued to telegraph masters and signallers that "objectionable' and "seditious" messages should not be accepted without the counter-signature of a Secretary to the Government, that is, a District Magistrate or any such official in the neighbourhood of the office. It is an open secret, however, that as a rule, employes of the Telegraph Department in the moffusil are neither very educated nor responsible officers, and so, to expect them to distinguish the really objectionable from the mass of messages is to expect for the millenium. Naturally, therefore, these men refer any message they receive relating to the Swadeshi movement, the "Bande Mataram" or the attitude of the local authorities, to the very officers who are responsible for the deplorable situation complained of; and no wonder if they are refused. A greater evil than this we can hardly conceive of. A persistence in the present method will only accentuate the feeling of insecurity that has taken so strong a hold of the public mind and thereby lead to worse episodes than what have convulsed the country so far. The closing of the telegraphic system means the utter disorganisation of society and Government, and does not suit any country not governed under the so-called Russian system. We wonder what the people of Emgland, and of the whole civilized world for the matter of that, will say to this unprecedented attitude of the authorities, for which, land, and of the whole civilized world for the matter of that, will say to this unprecedented attitude of the authorities, for which, again, the laws of the land hardly find any sanction. We say "hardly" advisedly for what the law provides has yet to be proved as having taken place in any part of the country. Lord Minto is a liberal and large hearted statesman; to him we put it whether this stifling of the public voice is among the root principles of British Government. And will the Liberal Ministry put up with such a deliberate attempt to put back the hands of the clock of progress on the part of British officers?

WE shall make a few remarks more on We shall make a few remarks more on the utterances of "Brither Scot" at the last St. Andrew's Dinner. He has shown commendable anxiety to find for us the key to our success. He cried "Eureka" when he declared that he had discovered the key in the "Bande Mataram," as the motheriand appeared to him to be the only seat of our line. Who can dispute the wisdom of this noble proclamation? But "Brither Scot" omitted to tell us under what conditions can the motherland be a practical seat of our the motherland be a practical seat of our life. We wish to live and live in peace. This aspiration is modest and natural. Is it possible to live in peace with the sword of Damocles constantly hanging overhead? "Brither Scot" would have won our eternal gratitude if he had ventured to tell our new Vicercy how peace could be restored to us.
We want to have real, liberal education and not a sham. We want real representative element in the administration and not a mere name. We want real development of our industries, and not a huge Our demands in these respects, though modest and natural, are not encouraged but are repressed with a strong hand. Are these the conditions under which our mother-land can ever be considered a seat of our national life?

The policy of administration, which shapes and guides our destiny, tries to enfeeble us in body and mind, in strength and intellect. the policy of our rulers is to divide and rule. While we try our best to cherish our confidence in British justice and fairplay, our local rulers forge new shackles to destro threatened with loss of State patronage for three or four generations. Their best repre-sentative men have been invited and insulted. Their national anthem has been sup-pressed by brute force. Cases got up against them have been invariably made over to Mahomedan Deputy Magistrates for trial, and Mahomedans have been publicly encouraged to stand a of from their Hindu couraged to stand a of from their Hindu fellow-citizens, without whom, however, they can hardly live in peace for a day. Surely these are not conditions under which the nation can find their key to success in their motherland! No man is an angel; and those who treat their fellow-men as brutes are certainly something less than ordinary human beings. Yet such is the present condition under which we have been obliged to live.

THE reader is aware how the Hon. Mr Fuller came on Monday, on a flying visi to Calcutta to obtain an interview with His Excellency the Viceroy. What passed between them is not known nor is likely to be known to the public, though the whole Country is on the tiptoe of expectation to learn the result. Following this visit of the ruler of the new province, His Honor Sir Andrew Fraser obtained an interview of the Viceroy on Wednesday morning. Naturally, therefore, the public may expect that His Excellency is now in possession of the entire line of policy adopted by the dual Governments of onited Bengal. But as His Excellency has chosen to direct that he would not receive the non-official members of the Bengal Council to place before him the Indian view of the satuation, if his lordship would at least carefully go through the columns of the more important of Indian newspapers he might easily form a correct opinion by comparing notes and weighing facts with a fair, judi-cial and impartial mind. The country is evidently passing through a crisis, and no amount of cheek or brazen-facedness can hide under even the deepest cloud of words the seriousness of the situation.

several educated children or Bongar in Ling-land and found them to be exceedingly good fellows. He could not, therefore, account for the bitter feeling betrayed towards then by a large number of his countrymen in lindia, some of them even occupying ruling positions. The Anglo-Indian friend to whom India, some of them even occupying ruling positions. The Anglo-Indian friend to whom this pro-Indian Englishman wrote for an explanation was a highly-placed officer of Government who had, to the latter's surprise, developed into a Babu-hater. The rollowing is said to have been the reply which the Englishman at home got from his Anglo-Indian triend, and a copy of which reached us by the last mail, though we cannot vouch for the correctness of the document:—"Why do I hate the Bengalees? Well, it is because they are gentle and law-soiding. It is because they give us no hold to pull them down. It is because they carry an independent bearing which is hateful to an Englishman here. All other races in India are very submissive, but the Bengalees pose, as if they were our peers. You may ask why we Englishmen,—who always respect manimess and independence,—snould hate the Bengalees for being manly and independent. This is, no doubt, an anomaly. But here in India we are taught to cherish the servile flatterer though we know very well that he is allways a fee in discusse who is canable of we are taught to cherish the servile flat-terer though we know very well that he is al-ways a foe in disguise, who is capable of stabbing in the dark and can never be a friend, and that one who is open and frank and independent is more reliable and better entitled to respect. But then, you must know, a Bengalee is really a superior person, and we cannot tolerate such a one in India: he is not at all wanted in this country. Then, the other reason for this prejudice against the Bengalee Babus is that we can-not put them down. Attempts are made to against the Bengalee Babus is that we cannot put them down. Attempts are made to pit the Mahomedans against them. But the latter will not educate themselves properly so as to be able to fill responsible offices with credit. Of course, they have now found out their mistake and are trying to compete with the Hindus, but the mischies is that an educated Mahomedan is not a friend of the cated Mahomedan is not a friend of the Anglo-Indians but of the Bengalees! Edu-cate a Mussalman and he will join the Congress and assume an independent bearing. If you don't educate him he may hate the If you don't educate him he may hate the Congress; but when educated the Mussalman is of very little use to Englishmen. True, there is the Eurasian community; and Lord Curzon has made gigantic efforts to pit the Eurasians against the Bengalees; but alas! there are several difficulties in the way. Many educated men are not to be found among them, while those who have acquired some education, having adopted European habits, are not willing to serve on ropean habits, are not willing to serve on moderate salaries. Several of them were moderate salaries. Several of them were tried and found wanting, for, living in a high European style and not knowing how to make the two ends meet, they were driven to the necessity of taking bribes and disgracing themselves and their race. From this point of view, the Babu, though an evil, is a necessary evil. But the main reason why he is hated by us has yet to be told. We have come here to lead a happy life and make our pile; and not to be criticised and abused. Open the file of any Hindu newspaper and see with what rubbish it is filled. It is full of abuse of ourselves and our doings. We are not angels but men: we cannot certainly bear all this, specially when we are the conquerors. I hope you will now understand why we hate the Bengalees.

The annual railway construction programme has been sent to England for the approval of the Secretary of State.

The Government of India have sanctioned the proposal of the Madras Corporation to raise a loan of Rs. 50,000 in the open market under the Local Authorities (Emergency) Loans Act 1897, the loan being repayable at the end of five years and bearing interest at 4 per cent. The Corpora-tion has been asked to invest fund towards the repayment of the loan.

A largely and influentially signed re presentation has been submitted to the Magistrate of Hooghly and to the Agent and Chief Engineer of the E. I. Ry. by the inhabitants of Sripur, Chandra S. mra, Sukra, Bankipur and other villages against the present riverside alignment of the Howrah-Calna line made by the Resident Engineer, Mr. Warneford. The signatories point out to some very cogent reason for a change in the alignment to the south-west from some "point at Chandra to run by the south of Somra school and reach Guptipara via Somra fields" it stead of passing through these populous villages and cutting them up in two not only to the inconvenience of the villagers and to the detri-ment of the health of the villages by obstructing the drainage but also to heavy, obstructing the drainage but also to heavy, avoidable capital expenditure on the part of the railway authorities. The reasons on which this change is recommended appear to us to be such as would commend themselves to the early and favourable consideration of the authorities who have been approached on the subject.

What strikes one as strange is that nspite of the consensus of opinion on the partition question and its unspeakable attendant evils, it should be persisted in with a tenacity worthy, indeed, of a better cause. Mr. Fuller has declared himself to be opposed to it, although he rules over the hundred districts as Lieutenant-Governor; the more important organs of Anglo-Indion opinion do not similarly conceal their opposition to it; the Indian population has opposed it to a man-and yet there it stands a monument of Curzonian blunder and the riding of a Curzonian hobby-horse. In course of a leading article the "Englishman" remarks: -"So far as Parliament is concerned the partition of Bengal stands on very much the same footing as the army fiasco. Dis-cussion in Parliament was evaded by an ambiguous promise, and the partition scheme was forced through with a reckless haste which has led to the most deplorable results. We have never concealed our opinion that the partition of Bengal, rushed and huddled into effect as it was, was a first class administrative blunder." Then again from the extracts published in our columns from the World's press it will have been seen how the measure of partition and the results that have been obtained so far have affected people outside the sone of their influence. Much has been made of the Crag-picket incident on the Samana Range, but according to the latest advices, the Orakzais are very quiet, and the incident remains unaccounted for. Perhaps it was nothing but the attempt of local budmashes to loot.

The young Maharaj Rana of Dholpur is among the inventors who have filed specifications of inventions which they want protected in the Patent Office, Calcutta. His Highness, in conjunction with Mr. H. This is one of the happiest signs of the times.

The Countess of Minto, writes "Sketch," has had plenty of experience Canada, where she and Lord Minto successions. ed an exceptionally popular and brilliant pair. Not since Lord and Lady Dufferin were at Government House, Calcutta, and at the Viceregal Lodge, Simla, has the Indian Court been graced by what may be called the debutante element, and Lord Minto's three beautiful daughters will be warmly welcomed by the Anglo-Indian world. The new Vicereine is a daughter of that General Vicereine is a daughter of that General Grey who was an intimate friend of the Grey who was an intimate friend of the Prince Consort, and she and her brother, the present Governor-General of Canada, have been "persona grata" at Court from childhood upwards, therefore, the Prince and Princess of Wales will feel on the most agreeable terms of old friendship and intimacy with their hostess,—indeed, it is whispered that Lord Minto owes his important appointment to the fact that no other great English noble could have filled the part of English noble could have filled the part of Indian Viceroy during a Royal Visit so Whole India by this time knows how "a Punjabi Hindu Sikh threw himself before the carriage of the Prince of Wales at Bomba carriage of the Prince of Wales at Bombay with a petition and afterwards hung on to the harness of the horses. He was of course promptly arrested and removed, and the police took him into custody. Before however, he could be put up before a Magistrate on such charge as the police might desire to bring against him, a message came from His Royal Highness that the man should be set at liberty, and accordingly he was allowed to go free. The Prince appreciated the real motive of the man and extended to him the royal prerogative of mercy." On the the royal prerogative of mercy." On the other hand, reports the "Indian People" other hand, reports the "Indian People" "we have personal knowledge of an instance of a man who had a grievance and threw himself in front of a Lieutenant-Governor to make an appeal. There was an alarmed shout for the police from the Secretaries and officials around and the dazed man was promptly arrested and put outside the limits of the city and was not allowed to return during the Lieutenant-Governor's stay. The Lieutenant-Governor of course never inquired what the man's grievance was or what had what the man's grievance was, or what had become of him." Now compare the two incidents and see what it comes to.

pen of Mr. David Hooper, F.I.C., F.C.S., in the last number of the "Agricultural Ledger" on the manufacture and composition of salt-petre in India. The report is chiefly based on the results of the enquiries made by the Director-General of Agriculture in India in Director-General of Agriculture in India in 1902. Nitre deposits in various parts of the country and the methods of manufacture adopted in separating and refining the salt-petre were investigated and the process of formation of nitrates of potash and lime explained. It is a known fact that when animal and vegetable matters containing nitrogen decay in earth impregnated with wood-ashes or lime these nitrates are formed. There are various countries where nitrates are to be met with in abundance, such as, besides India, Egypt, Poland, Hungary, Italy, Turkey, Burma, Tibet Turkestan, Sumatra and Brazil. In each of these countries rich deposits of saltpetre occur which may be worked with profit on commercial lines. In India the Indo-Gangetic region is the chief source of supply of getic region is the chief source of supply of this nitre. Bannu and Dera Ghazikhan getic region is the chief source of supply of this nitre. Bannu and Dera Ghazikhan beyond the Indus abound with saltpetre deposits. Between the Jhelum and the Sutlej there is a region including Shahpur, Guzrat, Multan, Gujranwalka, Montgomery and Lahore, where this mineral can also be obtained. Beyond the Sutlej it can be had at Gurgaon Karnal, Hissar, Rohtak and Delhi. In the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, the districts of Farruckabad, Mainpuri, Aligarh, Badaun, Hardoi Meerut, Muttra, Etah, Etawah, Agra, Jakaun, Cawnpore, Hamirpur, Fatchpur, Allahabad, Benares, Ballia, Gorakhpur, Azimgarh, Mirzapur and Ghazipur are more or less rich in such deposits. It occurs principally in the Behar districts of Saran, Champaran, Muzaffarpur, Darbhanga and Monghyr, Small quantities of it may be obtained in Kashmir and the Native States of Patiala and Rampur, and in some of the districts of the Bombay and Madras Presidencies and the Central Provinces. The manufacture of saltpetre is carried on in Burma on a small scale.

Successive members of the Legislative Council have brought to the notice of Government the need for the establishment of a Government Farm in the Kistna District. President Roosevelt in his message, said that the enormous power of Trusts must be supervised; the constitution being amended if necessary. Government regulation of railway rates is especially essential. Recent events have emphasized the necessity for stricter insurance regulations. With regard to the Navy, President Roosevelt says that though rigid economy is necessary, it would be a retional crime to cut it down, or delay the work on the Panama Canal.

The main cause of the boycott in China

The main cause of the boycott in China has been the resentment of students and merchants, against the harshness of the American law towards educated Chinamen. These classes should be encouraged to come to America and be treated precisely on the same footing as other foreigners of similar classes, only Chinese labour be-ing excluded. President Roosevelt cordially sympathised with Japan's announced purpose to stand for the integrity of China. Such an attitude tended towards the peace of the world.

THE TAXATION OF URBAN AND SUBURBAN LAND VALUES.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I have been amused during the last few days reading the criticisms made by a number of your contemporaries, both European and Bengali, on my remarks regarding the Taxation or Land Values. I am accused of having secialistic views because I drew attention to the fact that a County of the agitation will soon die adwing the last few years. The really significant feature is the tendency shown to copy the methods of the Far East—a tendency which will induce some people to discover the first stage in a great union of the Asiatic races. It is possible that the boycott movement may be but the beginning of a wider and more sustained campaign to demand for the Indian peoples a larger share in the Government of the country. It may be the small cloud no bigger than a man's hand which portends the rise of the storm which Mr. Meredith Townsend believes will mean the beginning of the end of British and the down in the last few years. The really significant feature is the tendency shown to copy the methods of the Far East—a tendency which will induce some people to discover the first stage in a great union of the Asiatic races. It is possible that the boycott movement may be but the beginning of a wider and more sustained campaign to demand for the Indian peoples a larger share in the Government of the country. It may be the small cloud no bigger than a man's hand which portends the rise of the storm which Mr. Meredith the properties of the storm which Mr. Meredith t of having socialistic views because I drew attention to the fact that a Conservative House of Commons has already passed the second reading of a Bill for the Taxation of Land Values, the object of the bill being to relieve congestion in the large cities at home by curtailing the power of the land gambler.

Let me again explain in a few words that the Taxation of Land Values is not an additional tax to be placed on landlords but is

Total amount payable by tenant Rs. 550

The market value of the house is there for Rs. 550 per month, and if the public are willing to pay this price for a particular house, the landlord will get it whether it is called by the name of "rent" only, or "rent and taxes." The landlord therefore who utilises his property is not directly touched by the change in the system of rating. except in so far as rents may eventually fattor stop rising owing to the increased house supply, but this again will depend on the demand for houses in a particular locality. The man who is touched is the land gambler who keeps his land unused waiting for the rise which he knows is sure to comes—a form of gambling which is encouraged by the exist. rise which he knows is sure to comes—a form of gambling which is encouraged by the existing system of charging only nominal rates on land which is lying idle. Such land, of course, exists chiefly in the outskirts, and it is there that the land gamblers are now aiting watching the approach of the city. While the rate-payers are spending money under the City Improvement Scheme, in running streets out into the suburbs and providing drains, water, lighting etc., the land gambler is watching his opportunity to swoop down and seize the value which is being created solely by the tax-payers.

By simply insisting on the landholder payis full share of the rates like o people, he cannot afford to sit on his land; he is forced either to build on it or part with it to people who will build, with the result that more building land comes into result that more building land comes into the market at reasonable rates, more houses go up, and the supply of land and houses being increased, rents stop rising. The improvement of the building trade will also give a fillip to other local industries. Is it not surprising therefore to find the papers which claim to further the interests of trade and industry, opposing so healthy a measure?

The proposed system of rating is already in force in various parts of the world and has been approved by the leading Municipalities in Great Britain and elsewhere, so that I am putting forward nothing new o revolutionary.

If my critics can shew a better method of relieving the congestion of the city or of guarding from confiscation the property created by the tax payers, they will confer an obligation on the city if they will do so in the columns of your journal.

AGITATED INDIA.

("Rand Daily Mail.")

The reader unacquainted with life in India might easily gain, from the recent cable-grams, an exaggerated idea of the importance of the strikes, the boycott, and the outward evidences of widespread popular dissatisfaction which have followed the partition of Bengal. With the skiltul political engineering of the National Congress Party and the influence of the numberless eloquent, if not over-scripplous native journals, it is and the influence of the numberless eloquent, if not over-scrupulous native journals, it is not difficult to send up an immense body of smoke from very little fire. It is evident from the Indian papers that the boycott has only been kept above by gross intimidation, and probably the strikes have the same foundation. Nothing would please the Congress Party more than to be able to obtain what it could allude to as an expression of "nate." it could allude to as an expression of "national" opinion from India. But this they have not yet done, and it will be long before Sir John Strachey's description of India as not a nation, but a congeries of races will beout of date. The mill hands of Bombay and the raists of the Punjab care nothing about the partition of Bengal. The agitation is a great extent artificial. It has been reco nised for years that some means must be devised of dealisg with the unwieldy province in which a Lieut. Governor had to rule many people as here are in the United States of America. With the important position which Endia has of late years played in the politics of the world the Viceroy cannowatch Bengal administration with the close ness possible a quarter of a century ago. Thu the Lieut. Governor has had the burden or ruling over seventy-four millions of people of more than twice the number in the Governor ship of Madras, and nearly four times that in the Governorship of Bombay. To take away over twenty millions and tack them on to the people of Assam, thus forming a new province with thirty millions of people, strikes one as being nothing more than a step calculated to ensure better administrastep calculated to ensure better administration both in the old province and the new Eastern Bengal may probably gain by severance from Calcutta, for the new administration will certainly adopt a railway policy likely to develop the port of Chittagong as the proper outlet for the jute trade. This of course, would injure Calcutta, and this is probably at the bottom of much of the indignation which has been worked up. Perhaps, too, some of the Calcutta side full do not like the idea of the possible revival of the ancient glories of Dacca, which Sir Richard Temple considered the Venice of the East. But, though the Bengal imagination has conjured up all sorts of extraordinary bogeys the agitation will soon die down nary bogeys the agitation will soon die down if left alone. It is not the first storm in a cloud no bigger than a man's hand which portends the rise of the storm which Mr. Meredith Townsend believes will mean the beginning of the end of British rule in India. But that is a question too big to be discussed at the moment. Anyway, taken alone, the preliminary cloud is not important. It is of interest to learn that since the year 1897 up to the present date, Rs. 31,115 worth of stolen gold, amalgam, quartz sand and quartz recovered from thieves and receivers, in nearly 3,000 cases brought to the Special Magistrate's Court at Kolar have been constituted to the same and the companies being Magistrate's Court at Kolar have been confiscated to Government, the companies being in those cases unable to furnish proof to which Mine the property legally belonged. By a strange coincidence, the value of such mining material recovered and returned to the respective companies in some 2,000 other cases before the same Court closely approximates the above sum, the figures being Rs. 31,164, giving a total of Rs. 62,279 as the value of the mining material stolen from the Mines which has actually been recovered. It may eafely be assumed that this represents less than a fiftieth part of the amount actually abstracted from the Mines by illicit means.

by illicit means.

The Government of Madras has accorded sanction to the proposals of the Inspector General of Registration to transfer (1) seven villages from the registration sub-district of Walajabad to that of Conjeeveram, (2) five villages from the registration subdistrict of Walajabad to that of Big Conjeeveram, and (3) three villages from the subdistrict of Conjeeveram to that of Big Conjeeveram. Proposals (1) and (2) are made as the villages therein mentioned are nearer to the Conjeeveram offices than to the Walajabad office. The transfers are recommended by the Tahsildar of Conjeeveram, and the Collector of the District, who was consulted on the point, has no objection to the proposal. Proposal (3) is made, as it is found that while three villages therein mentioned have long been attached to the Conjeeveram Municipality which is now attached to the Big Conjeeveram office recently opened. This anomaly of divided jurisdiction and the consequent inconvenience to the inhabitants of fose villages will be removed by the presentative.

DACCA NOTES. (From Our Own Correspondent.)

Dacca, Dec. 5.

THE GURKHAS.

So, the Gurkhas have at last come here But things Jog on in the oldway,-bar ring the discontinuance of pipe-water supply yesterday for about six hours. Their camp has been set up in the old Fort in the outskirts of the city, where Shaista Khan the First sleeps the Eternal sleep. A high official is reported to have said that the Gurkhas—who, after all, look more like the Manipuris than the sons of Nepalhave been brought in here only to form a guard-of-honour to the Hon'ble Mr. Fuller on his arrival. Later on, however, this official is reported to have promised that Government officials would get immunity from "molestation" by the Gur-khas. I leave it to my readers to draw their own inferences from this. I also learn that a Gurkha on being asked by a Mahomedan said that they had been sent there by the 'Sircar' to teach the Hindus

"HINDUS WON'T GET WATER." The arrival of the Gurkhas yesterday vas, as I have already haid, signalized as it were by the stoppage of the water-supply for the latter half of the day. This re-minds me of a quaint talk I overheard among a few low class Mahomedans the other day. They ware talking of the ungratefulness of the Hindus to the Nawab to whose ancestors, said they, they owe so much of the comforts they now enjoy. One of them averred that he was in a position to say that the present Nawab had ordered for from "Belat" a novel kind of tap that would respond to the touch of the Mahomedans only, and thus when the Hindus would get no water they would fully realise what it was to support the Swadeshi movement and run counter to the Nawab Shaheb's wishes. So, yes terday, when the taps did not work, it occurred to my mind as a curious coincidence that a mechanism, as aforesaid, had really arrived from "Belat"! But, thank God, we are getting water to-day.

COLLEGIATE BOYS. Some of the Collegiate boys who re-joined the school under instructions from their guardians have been rusticated. As far as I am aware more Professors than one of the Dacca College were sent to a leader of ours to confer with him on the possibility of a settlement regarding the boys who had gone on strike. It was at the time reported that their fines would be remitted if they would return. But the tables seem, completely to have been turned against the boys who relying on the report rejoined the school.

It is said that the Nawab, the Khan Bahadur and the Sub-Registrar have been asked by Government to nominate few Mahomedans for the posts of Sub-Inspectors of Police. A bird whispers into my ears that the Nawab is going to be appointed an Extra Assistant Commissioner in Assam. I am not prone to believe it; but the Nawab served at one time as a Deputy Magistrate.

OFFICIAL.

The L. G. is expected to-morrow. The "ap-ke-waste" people are in a flurry. Our good Commissioner and our good Magistrate are to leave us soon. Mr. Allen is to succeed Mr. Scroope, and it is said that Mr. Le Mesurier will be our Commissioner.

MUNICIPAL.

We wish we had no Municipality. The Commissioners who mostly seek for official and demi-official recognition and letter are very remiss in their work. Only those streets, which are in by Europeans, are watered while other noroughfares are left quite uncared for.

The accommodation in Public Offices, Bangalore having proved insufficient, arrangements are made, we hear, to erect a separate building at a cost 6 lakhs of rupees.

Two men were working in a crucible pit at the Mid-Vale Steel Works, U.S.A., when 80,000 pounds of molten steel fell on them which must have converted their bodies into ashes in a moment, not even a button being found afterwards. The steel was afterwards accorded "Christian burial." MYMENSINGH IN FERMENT.

THE POLICE AND MAGISTRATE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mymensingh, Nov. 5.

Your readers already know that five persons were arrested by the Police for alleged complicity in Thursday's occurrence. Two more have since been arrested. As to-day was the date fixed, the seven accused, for-merly released on bail of Rs. 500 each, put in their appearance at 11 o'clock. In a moment the whole court-room was thronged to suffocation. The Court Sub-Inspector informed the court that "A" form had not been received and that the been received and that the investigating Police officer wanted a week's time more to submit his final report. So the case had to be postponed and 12th December was fixed for further hearing. The accused were ordered to remain on bail of Rs. 200.

To-day at noon the Police Inspector of the Kotwali station with three Sub-Inspectors and a number of Police constables went to the Head Master of the Edward Institution with the following letter from the District

"To the Head Masters of the City Colle-giate School, Edward School and Mritunion

"I shall be obliged if you will produc your attendance registers for last week for the inspection of the Police officers who bear this letter. 5-11-05.

(Sd. L. O. Clarke, Magistrate. On the Head Masters' asking as to why th attendance register was wanted, the Inspector told that it would help in the identification of the accused. The Head Master courteously refused inspection saying that he could not allow it without the permission of the proprietor of or Secretary to the School. Then the Police officers went to the Mritunjoy School and the City Col. legiate School both of which were found to be closed. After this the Police officers left. It is simply beyond human concep-tion how attendance registers could help in the identification of accused in a criminal case. But to proceed.

The following curious letter has been sent to the Principal of the City College, Mymensingh.

"No. 1787
"To The Principal, City College, Mymen

"In view of recent occurrences in the town you are advised to keep your boys away from Barabazar altogether.
"A disregard of the interests of the Government and of discipline in this matte. will entail the formal and public barring of the pupils from all service under Gov-

Mymensingh. (Sd.) L. O. Clarke, The 2nd December, 1905.

Comment on the letter is absolutely unnecessary. It is to be wondered how a boy simply by going to Barabazar could disregard the interests of Government. There ought to have at least been a clear definition of those "interests." Similar letters have also been issued to the heads of all the local schools.

In my last letter I have sent you a copy of the District Magistrate's letter to Dr. Taranath Bal suspending him from Honorary Magistracy as also one of that gentle-man's reply to the same. Yesterday Dr. Bal received another letter, a true copy of which is given below.

"No. 2428 J. "Mymensingh Magistracy.
"Doctor Taranath Bal, Honorary Magistrate (under suspension) is required to state within one day whether it is true that he took part in, and spoke at, the meeting of the 24th in Mymensingh when the people of Barisal, Madaripur and Rungpur were thanked for their attitude towards Government Government.

(Sd. L. O. Clarke, Magistrate. The people of the town are simply panic-stricken at the rumour that 50 Gurkhas have been ordered to be posted here. The Asst. Secretary of the Mymensingh Association has sent the following telegram to the Divisional Commis-

"Rumour that Gurkhas will be sent here

"Rumour that Gurkhas will be sent here; pray do not send them without yourself personally holding enquiry in the locality."

Thursday's Occurrence.

It is now as clear that that Mr. Roddis (D. S. P.) and his posse of Constables ruthlessly struck whomsoever they met in Barabazar. They even pulled down men who were standing on the verandahs of private compounds and the District Superintendent of Police personally dealt blows. on many young boys and innocent men. Seeing the fate of the complaints of 3 gentlemen and fearing that they might be hauled up as accused in the Police case these men have been advised not to institute any criminal case. They will shortly institute civil cases claiming damages for wrongful assault and battery. The Collectorate peon, who has instituted a criminal case against the Police, is lying in th hospital. He has been rather nastily hit on his leg by bamboo lathies and it is feared that he won't be able to join his post within a month. Babu Surendra Mohan Ghose, a clerk in the Jute office of Mr. Priyer who was arrested for his alleged complicity in Thursday's occurrence, yesterday instituted a criminal case under Section 220 I. P. C. against the D. S. P. and his Sub-Inspectors and Inspectors who are said to have been present at the occurrence alluded to above. The usual order, "Put up after the disposal of the Police case" has been passed.

Other accused are expected to institute damage suits and necessary notices will Mymensingh, Dec. 3.

For some time past, we have been observing inusual activity on the part of the college authorities here to make declionstrations against the Swadeshi movement. I have already written to you how a number constables, headed by Sub-Inspectors and red with long and thick bamboos, have a daily parading the streets and some of mactually advising intending purchasers. actually advising intending purchasers rechase "belati" clothes for their poss and drawing their attention to the ss of price of country-made clothes, also informed you that up to the 1st November no body saw any sign sort of lawlessness on the part of the bach of the peace, and I ventured suggest that if, at any future time, ach of the peace occurred, it would be provoked by the action of the It now seems that my predictions on the peace occurred it would be provoked by the action of the It now seems that my predictions on the peace occurred it would be provoked by the action of the It now seems that my predictions of the peace occurred it would be provoked by the action of the It now seems that my predictions of the peace occurred it would be provoked by the action of the peace occurred it would be peace occurred in the peace occurred it would be peace occurred in the peace occurred it would be peace occurred in the peace o It now seems that my predictions en fulfilled and the inevitable has

In the meantime an application for copy of the First Information in the Police case, was filed with expedition fees, but the office refused, saying that no such copy could be given as no such First Information report had reached the office. This was at 2 p.m.; again at 4 p.m. the application for copy was renewed but no such paper could be found in court. Next day, the First Information report in the so-called police case was received by the office. One curious fact that strikes one in this connection and deserves some notice is that, in it we find amongst the witnesses mentioned one "European who was accompanying the D. S. P. but whose name is not known" to the informant. It is very much broadly rumoured that this gentleman was no other than the "Special Correspon-dent of the Englishman."

Pending the submission of the "A" form in the so-called police case, which will be submitted on the 5th, the investigating Police officers are going through the "arresting process." To-day one Surendra Mohan how dury, a student of the second class, Zilla school, was passing along the front of the Kotwali station; Junior Sub-Inspector Satish Chandra Sen, who is personally known to Surendra Mohan and is his next-door neighbour, called him to the thana saying that he was wanted by the Inspector. Another boy was then with Surendra and he too went. As soon as he went there he was arrested and the boy who accompanied him too went. As soon as he went there he was arrested and the boy who accompanied him was sent to his guardian to procure bail. This was done although his name does not appear in the First Information Report in which this Satish Sen was a principal witness and in whose presence it was drafted. I understand a constable identified him saying that he was in the crowd. This bey was a witness in the case brought against the Police. Police was, on Saturday evening, threatened by the police for having instituted a case against them and was required to withdraw it, but as he did not agree he was arrested by the police, taken to the thana and is alleged to have been roughly handled. Subsequently he was arrested as an accused in the Police case in the morning, and released on bail in the evening. This Police case will be taken up on the 5th. It appears that the authorities here are in a fix to ascertain as to how to cope with the situation created by them. 2. I further beg to state that by the recent agitations, I presume you mean the Swadeshi movement, the object of which is to promote and revive indigenous arts, industries and manufactures of the country and as such is perfectly proper and legitimate and in my opinion it is not improper on the part of anybody to take any part in it. Participation in such movement can not imprefere be a ground for the suspension or dismissal of an Honorary Magistrate. It is very much to be regretted that pension or dismissal of an Honorary Magistrate. It is very much to be regretted that you have taken such an attitude towards it.

To The Magistrate, Mymensingh.

Mymensingh, 4th Dec. 1905.

Sir,—With reference to your letter No. 1782 G., dated the 1st instant, enquiring why I issued the notice, dated the 26th instant, to Shib Dulal Pareh I have the honour to bring to your notice that I received a petition from one Babu P. C. Bose and others praying to remove the shops held on the Barabazar Road on the ground of "inconvenience and annoyance" to the passers-by and similar complaints were verbally made to me by several other gentlemen. The matter was considered by the Commissioners at a meeting held on the 24th November last. As large crowds used of late to gather about those shops and impede the traffic, the Commissioners resolved that notices should be is sued upon the shop-keepers prohibiting them to hold their shops on the Municipal road. Two of the Commissioners brought to the notice of the meeting that twice before these shops were removed by the Police. In issuing the notice I carried out the resolution notice of the meeting that twice before these shops were removed by the Police. In issuing the notice I carried out the resolution passed by the Commissioners at the said meeting. It would be dereliction of duty on my part if I had not given effect to it. The Commissioners in passing the resolution believed in good faith that by removing these shops, the inconvenience of traffic would be removed, and neither the Commissioners nor I had the least idea of intimidating any body. The notice was issued simply with a body. The notice was issued simply with a view to prevent inconvenience to the public. As regards your warning that I shall be summarily dismissed, I beg leave to state that elective system is in vogue here and J have been elected chairman of this Municipal to the summarily dismissed.

To The District Magistrate, Mymensingh, Dated, Mymensingh the 2nd Dec. 1905. Sir,—With reference to your office, No. 1783 G., dated the 1st December 1905, I have the honour to state that I am not aware of any fact which would make the Institution of which I am the Head Master, liable to be reported against to the Educational authorities.

The extracts from the District Supering andent of Police enclosed with your letter refer to two instances with which the school has nothing to do. Whatever I did I did entirely in my personal capacity. It is true that I lent the school premises for holding a meeting on the 19th November and also spoke at that meeting. I would, however, beg to point out that in my humble opinion there is nothing wrong or unconstitutional in speaking in favour of the Swadeshi movement. The extracts from the District Superincen

With reference to para 2 of the said report I would also beg to submit that the District Superintendent of Police is under certain mis-apprehension with reference to the object of the meeting held on the 24th November. The meeting was held to express our sympathy with the people of Barisal and Rungpur in their present afflictions and to thank the Head Master of Madaripur for his noble conduct. I don't know that they have taken any action against the Government as asserted by the District Superintendent of Police in his letter.

The following is a translation of the First Information lodged by S. I. Tarini Charan Mukherjee in case No.,—, dated 30-11-05 against 5 students of Mymensingh before Inspector Gopal Ch. Mukherjee.

S. I. Tarini Charan Mukherjee officer in charge of the station Kotwali, Mymensingn lodged information before Babu Gopal Chandra Mukherjee, Inspector, to the effect that on the 30th Natember 1905 at about 5 p. m. there had as a about 200 school and college students and other people on the part of the Barabazar Road in front of the Kotwali station without any business obstructed the public road, some by standing on it and others by passing up and down in bands, and thereby caused inconvenience to the public. On his remonstrating with the crowd he was not heeded and the crowd continued to obstruct the road and was joined gradually by other students. At this, he informed the D.S.P., who was present in the station, about the state of things. The D. S. P. ordered come constables to go and disperse the assembly and tell the people to go away. The constables, unrealy, Ista. Mi. The following is a translation of the

The gentlemen concerned have sent in the dhani Singh and Sadatulla communic the order of the D. S. P. to the people and told them to disperse, but they did not whereupon the D. S. P. humself went to the spot and told the people to break up and that the would put them under arrest if they would not obey his order. He (informant) and S. I. Satish Chandra Sen, Head Constaole Lakdani Sing and Fuliari Lala and Surja net obey his order. He (informant) and S. I. Satish Chandra Sen, Head Constable Lakdani Sing and Fuljari Lala and Surja Ram Gowala with the help of other constables separated the crowd and followed them to the end of the Barabazar road. Some of the students and other people withdrawing to the verandah of the students' boarding house and some to the house of Prasanna Guha, pleader, formed groups there. Their number was about one hundred. The D. S. P. after ordering these groups to be dispersed returned to the station. While they were dispersing the people assembled in front of the house of Prasanna Guha, pleader. From 2 to 3 hundred people came from the north-west direction shouting "Blande Mataram" and throwing brickbats towards them. While they were advancing to disperse that crowd, the assembled people continued throwing brickbats in larger number and wounded some constables and the town Chowkidar. He (informant) was struck by a brick on his "topi" and could not therefore proceed further, but told the people not to form such unlawful assemblies and commit rioting and to disperse The people did not listen to him but shouted "Bande Mataram" in reply and advanced towards him and threw brickbats and some of them armed them to him but shouted "Bande Mataram" in reply and advanced towards him and threw brickbats and some of them armed themselves with bamboo posts from a fallen roof. The D. S. P. arrived on the spot at that time. The assembly did not desist from pelting bricks even then. People standing near the house of Prasanna Guha pleader and in the verandah of the Boarding House as also people standing Boarding House as also people standing in the verandah of the house of S. I. Saratsasi continued throwing bricks. Accused Megh Nath Das was then seen to be aiming brickbats at them and he (Megh Nath) was arrested with the help of Constable Jagabandhu and four more young boys were also arrested by other constables and brought to the thana. The crowd was proceeding towards the thana and throwing bricks. While the police party was coming to the thana with the D. S. P. bricks were being thrown even then.
There were bamboo and wooden clubs in the hands of some of the people in the crowd. He knows some of the members of the Surhid Samiti but does not know their names. He saw Kula Chandra De, one of these members in the crowd and in the very act of throwing bricks and some other members, too, in the crowd. He was also able to recognize many among the crowd. For 2 months past college and school students, pleaders, Muktears, doctors and others have leagued themselves and have been in the habit of parading in the Barabazar road and preventing purchase of foreign cloths every evening and using force now and then. There was likelihood of breach of the peace and hence attempts were made to dis them. But the people would not heed them. But the people would not heed him. To keep the peace town constables and than and line constables, were told off for duty on this road and he and other police officers used to be present in the thana. He lodged that information against the rioters and asked for an investigation. He had been informed that Ranada Majumdar of the town police, constables Radhacharan, Jadunath Chakravarti Jagadamba Sukul. Chowkidars Radha varti, Jagadamba Sukul, Chowkidars Radha and Latu and constable Har Kumar Roy of the thana had received wounds. He could not say for certain whether others had been wounded or not His witnesses are the wounded constables, the D.S.P., Town Head Constable and constables, Chowkidars, than S.I. Head Constables Fuljhari Lal and Surjaram Gowala and other constables on duty, the shop-keepers of the bazar, and one European (name unknown) who was with the D. S. P. Of the constables, Ranada Majumdar, Radha nath Gupta, Jadunath Chakravarti and nath Gupta, Jadunath Chakravarti and Town Chowkidar Latu had received serious wounds and been sent to the Dispensary for medical examination and treatment. Some of the bricks thrown by the accused had also been picked up and brought. The five accused already arrested are Megnath Das Surendra Mohun Ghose, Dhirendra Nath Roy, Khagendra Jiban Roy and Har Kishore Dhar. He knew the names of Meghnath and Khagendra before and has learnt the names of the rest from them.

A DIVORCE ~JIT.

VANQUELIN VS. VANQUELIN.

(Before the Hon'ble Mr. Justine Woodroffe.)

VANQUELIN VS. VANQUELIN.

Messrs. Morison and Stokes instructed by Messrs. Leslie and Hinds appeared for the petitioner Elizabeth Anna Vanquelin.

Messrs Chackervertty and S. ha instructed by Messrs. Fox and Mondal appeared for the respondent A. H. E. Vanquein.

Mr. Evans Pugh instructed by Messrs. Pugh and Co. appeared for the intervenor Geor. c Philip Opulos.

Mr. Morison in opening the case for the petitioner said that the petitioner sued for the divorce on grounds of cruelty and adultery. The petitioner filed as petition on the 3rd April 1905. The respondent filed his answer on the 22nd May in which he admitted the fact of the marriage but denied all the charges and allegations. On the 18th July he applied for leave to file a supplementary answer and in that answer he charged the petitioner with having committed adultry with one Philip. Opulos, who, however, denied the allegation. The petitioner and the respondent were married on the 27th of February 1897 at the Arminian Church in Calcutta. They both professed Christian religion. The petitioner was an Arminian and the respondent an Englishman. There were three issues of the marriage; the first daughter was born in 1898, the second in 1902 and the third a son in April 1903. Al the children are alive. After the marriage the parties lived with the mother of the petitioner in Calcutta. Everything went or smoothly for a couple of years. In 1899 they removed from house No. 25 Royd Street, the house of the petitioner's mother, to the continental Hotel. At that Hotel was living Mr Vanquelin's mother who had married Mr Rowdiffe and two Misses Vanquelins, and they were guarty of the great cruelty to wards the petitioner in presence of the respondent. The respondent was a man of rery riolent habits and of very strong tempor and he used physical violence towards he Knocked her head, and kicked her out of the knocked her head, and kicked her out of the house. The petitioner was obliged to go to the Police Court and lay a charge of assault. In September 1900, at the continental Hotel, he was most abusive to her, assaulted her and threw furniture at her. This assault took place as Mrs. Roweliffes daughters wanted to use the petitioner's carriage and as the petitioner objected to it. In January 1901 there was some dispute about children and the respondent assaulted her very violently. In this the respondent was assisted by the two Misses Vanquelin and his ownmother. She had to take refuge in proceeding these of the house of the h happily. After a short period he again used violence towards her. On the 12th August 1901 the respondent assaulted her, she was then in a very delicate condition and she had to go to her father's house at no 25 Royd Street. In August 1901 the petitioner filed a petition for judicial separation but she was approached by friends and relatives and she withdrew her petition. There was a reconcilation for the second time. The judicial troceedings were abandoned. The petitioner returned to the respondent in July 1902 and they lived together until March 1905, a couple of months after the second reconcilation the petitioner remonstrated with the respondent knocked her down. A complaint was lodged in the Police Court. All along the petitioner was supplying the respondent with money. The respondent went home in March 1903 and returned in August that year. It was then that the petitioner had the slightest suspicion of his fidelity. One day while he was going out she asked him where he was going to and said that she would follow him. He assaulted her and knocked her down. On the 5th March again the petitioner knocked her down, tore her hair, and kicked her as she was going out of the gate. The petitioner was obliged to lake refuge at her father's house 25 Royd Street. Thereafter these proceedings followed. As regards adultery the petitioner had evidence to show that he had committed adultery with Rosa Valkovsky. The respondent had filed a supplementary answer and made allegations against the petitioner. The petitioner denied that and said that it was an idle suggestion on the part of the respondent.

Mr. Morison asked the permission of the

on the part of the respondent,

Mr. Morison asked the permission of the court whether he would go on with his case first (i.e., cruelty and adultery against the respondent) or with the other or with both together.

Mr. Pugh said that he had no objection if Mr. Morison first went on with his case. Mr. Sinha said that when the other side would call his witness ne should ask for leave to cross-examine him with reference to the case, which his client had made. As far as their (the other side) case was on the issue of adultery as against her husband he would not contest. If the other side did not intend to go on with that part of the evidence Mr. Sinha had no objection.

Woodroffe J:—That simplifies the matter. The witnesses were there examined. The case is proceeding.

RAILWAY FORGERY CASE.

The case of Emperor on the prosecution of the East Indian Railway Company vs. Kamikhya Churn Sen, was committed to the court of Sessions by Babu R. A. N. Sing, Third Presidency Magistrate, on charges of forgery of a railway ticket, uttering a forged railway ticket and abetment of cheating. The accused pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Walter Gregory and Mr. Shelley Bonerji, instructed by Mr. Mitchell of Messrs. Morgan and Co. appeared for the prosecution. The accused went undefended.

Mr. Walter Gregory in opening the case for the prosecution said that the accused was charged with having altered certain genuine railway tickets in such a manner as to enable a person to travel a further distance than he would be ordinarilly entitled to do. The accused was also charged with having altered the word "Bally" on a railway ticket to "Etwa." He was further charged with having altered the price and mileage on the ticket. The accused had many abettors in the crime, who used to inform aim from time to time of the number of mill hands, who would go to their own country. These mill hands mere supplied with two tickets one from Howrah to Bally and the other from Bally to Etwah. The tickets from Howrah to Bally were genuine while the rom Bally to Etwah. The tickets Howrah to Bally were genuine while the others were forged tickets in that the destination, price and mi eage would be citered in them. The crime had continued for sometime when it was brought to the notice or the railway authorities. In connection with it two other persons had been arrested, tried and convicted at the last Criminal Sesarge was afterwards arrested at Goalando.

The case is proceeding.

It is indeed inexplicable why the Ahmeda-It is indeed inexplicable why the Ahmeda-bad Dholka Railway line, which was breached along with the Rajputana Malwa as well as the Bombay-Baroda and Central India Railway line in July last owing to the unprecedented heavy rain at the time, is not yet repaired and put in a fit condition for a resuming of the passenger traffic by the authorities concerned. We understand that after a reasonable delay the breaches on both the B. B. and C. I. Railway and the R. M. Railway lines were repaired by the and the B. B. and C. I. Railway and the A. M. Railway lines were repaired by the responsible authorities, and the passenger and goods traffic was resumed on them. At present the arrangement for people wishing to proceed to any station on the Dholka Railway line has to start from the Ellis Bridge Station on the other side of this Bridge Station on the other side of this city. This is no doubt inconvenient to a certain extent to the people of this city. It is, however, much more inconvenient to people coming either from the Virungam side or from any station on the R. M. Railway line, who if wishing to travel the Ahmedabad Dholka line are force come down to Ahmedabad, instead of take the train as before at the Sabarma Station, and go through the city to the Ellis Bridge Station, which means a distance of at least two miles. This is undoubtedly serious grievance.—"Praja Bandhu." serious grievance.—"Praja Bandhu."

It is announced to-day that a general spike has been declared at Odessa, and also hat the Tsar has issued a decree thanking the troops in Odessa for their "exemplary conduct during recent disturbances." It is also announced that an impenial manifesto has been issued by which payments made by peasants for the use of land are reduced by a half from January 1st 1906, and abolished altogether from January 1st 1906, and abolished altogether from January 1st 1907. This is a clever stroke of Count Witte and likely to win over the peasants to his side. A telegram this afternoon says the Council of Workmen's Delegates met yesterday evening to discuss a reply to Count Witte's appeal. The speakers vehemently denounced Count Witte describing him as a partisan of bureauters. The ease was again adparts of Russia is very disquieting.
